BILL RECOMMITTED.

Mr. HAGMAIER. Mr. Speaker, I move that this bill be recommitted to the Committee on Counties and Townships for the purpose of amendment.

Mr. TALBOT. Mr. Speaker, I second the motion.

On the question,

Will the House agree to the motion?

Mr. GEORGE W. WILLIAMS. Mr. Speaker and members of the House, this is a companion to one of the bills that was passed by the House a week ago Monday night, on special order, and it is a companion to one of the bills introduced by Mr. Brown of Susquehanna. A similar bill was introduced in the Senate by Senator Gelder, and we who had to do with the shaping of the highway program feel that this bill should pass in its present form.

Permit me, Mr. Speaker and members of the House, to read to the members of the House a communication which has been sent to a number of the members and I read from this letter which was sent out under the name of the Secretary of the Pennsylvania Association of Township Supervisors.

"This bill, on the surface, is intended to extend greater aid to poorer Townships in the securing of the State Reward. In reality its provisions are such that its passage would be a very serious blow at the whole rural road program in Pennsylvania.

The Pennsylvania State Association of Township Supervisors, who are acting for the best interests of the townships of the State are vigorously opposing this bill and unhesitatingly brand it as a vicious measure and the worst blow that has been struck at our rural road system in many years.

In our opinion these companion bills should be either amended to eliminate the 25% classification of townships, or decisively beaten."

Signed, H. A. THOMPSON, Secretary,
Penna. Association Township Supervisors.

In other words, Mr. Speaker, if this bill is not amended to meet the objections of the Secretary of this State Supervisors' Association he says it should be defeated. I recall no such attempt at coercion on the part of any person in attempting to influence this House by a communication of this kind and I think the House should resent the attempt of the Supervisors' Association in attempting to kill this measure by sending it back to committee. I hope the motion will not prevail and that the bill will pass on second reading.

Mr. TURNER. Mr. Speaker and members of the House, far from resenting the actions of the Association for what they have done, I think we should thank the Association for calling our attention to a matter we did not understand when we were passing an important measure. In my own county a great number of townships will be penalized by the passage of this bill. I do not think it is fair that 207 townships should be penalized by this bill if an amendment can make it so that they will not be penalized and I do not know that there is any attempt to kill the kill but merely an attempt to save our townships. I thank the secretary for calling to my attention the fact of the matter and I think that all the members in this House who are affected will do the same.

Mr. TALBOT. Mr. Speaker and members of the House, as the seconder of the motion, put by the member from Allegheny, it was my distinct understanding that amendments would be offered to this measure on the floor of the House that would be acceptable and satisfactory to the sponsor of the bill in the Senate. The gentleman to whom these amendments were offered said they were not acceptable and for that reason I seconded the motion that this bill go back into committee on Counties and Townships for the purpose of amendment, and I sincerely trust the members will support this motion.

Mr. WHEELER. Mr. Speaker and members of the House, I understand a bill similar to this has been amended in the Senate. It has been amended in the way the gentleman who seeks to recommit it in the House would desire. At the same time we must remember this is part of the program which passed the House almost unanimously a week ago and which has met with the approval of men in high places. Personally I am not prepared to oppose the amendment which the members of the House now seem to have in mind, but I do resent the method by which efforts have been made to amend this bill outside of the Legislature. In view of the fact that a bill similarly amended is now on final passage in the Senate, and in view of the fact that this bill is part of the present road program and further, in view of the fact that both bills will be finally subjected to the Chief Executive, I ask you to stand by the road program and vote the motion down.

Mr. THOMAS J. BROWN. Mr. Speaker and members of the House, unless this bill is amended to cnform somewhat with the bill I understand is going through the Senate now, many of us representing rural districts cannot justify ourselves or our constituents if this bill passed in its present form. That is to say, we cannot justify ourselves in voting for an increase of one cent on the gasoline tax unless this bill is amended.

Mr. HAINES. Mr. Speaker and members of the House, representing a rural county of this Commonwealth, I want to go on record as endorsing the sentiment of Mr. Wheeler and Mr. Williams opposing the recommittment of this bill. The method which has been used to approach certain members of this Assembly, including myself, to influence us with reference to this matter, and particularly the last line of the letter read by the gentleman from Tioga, Mr. Williams, in which the secretary of this association of township supervisors recommended that unless certain amendments were made or were adopted he recommended that the bill should be killed. I consider that that is unfair. This bill is intended to afford great relief to the rural districts, and I think it would be a great mistake to have it tempered with in any way. Therefore I oppose this motion.

Mr. HAIGMAIER. Mr. Speaker and members of the House, when I made this motion there was no intention on my part to kill this bill. As Mr. Talbot has already said, we were positively assured this afternoon that this bill would be amended. Allegheny County certainly would be penalized if this bill would go through and all of the first-class townships would be cut from five to twenty-five per cent. We have no objections to the poorer townships receiving aid but we do not think we should penalize other townships. We have added one cent on the tax for gasoline. Let them take it out of there and not take it from somebody else. That is all we ask, that the bill be amended satisfactorily to the people of the townships. We are not asking to kill the bill at all.

Mr. TURNER. Mr. Speaker, I would like to interrogate the gentleman from Forest, Mr. Wheeler.

The SPEAKER. Will the gentleman from Forest, Mr. Wheeler, permit himself to be interrogated?

Mr. WHEELER. With pleasure, Mr. Speaker.

Mr. TURNER. I would like to ask the gentleman from Forest, Mr. Wheeler, whether I understood him aright that a similar bill is on passage in the Senate?

Mr. WHEELER. That is correct.

Mr. TURNER. May I ask the gentleman from Forest if the amendments which are now proposed are placed in the bill in the Senate?

Mr. WHEELER. I am so informed.

Mr. TURNER. I would ask the gentleman from Forest, what difference would it make if this bill would fall as far as the State of Pennsylvania is concerned?

Mr. WHEELER. I think it would make a very great deal of difference.

Mr. TURNER. In what way?

Mr. WHEELER. It seems that there is a difference of opinion as to the method of the classification of townships, as to township reward.

Mr. TURNER. Mr. Speaker, may I ask the gentleman if it is his idea that this amendment should not be inserted in the bill.

Mr. WHEELER. Mr. Speaker, that is right.

Mr. TURNER. Your purpose in attempting to defeat this motion it to defeat the amendment?

Mr. WHEELER. That is true.

Mr. TURNER. Mr. Speaker and members of the House, I want to say further and in reply to the members from Bucks, Mr. Haines, that the county of Delaware went along on the general road program although we believed that the benefits to be obtained by our county were not commensurate with other counties of this Commonwealth that were benefited by these bills. We felt that while we had built most of our bridges by bonding ourselves and spending most of our money on the road program, yet for the general benefit we were willing to go along on this general road program. We did not understand this measure completely, but when it was called to our attention ti seems only fair that we should protect these townships of our State, and I therefore ask the members of this House to vote for the recommitment of this bill.

Mr. DAVIDSON. I want to add just a word to what my friend from Forest, Mr. Wheeler, has said. That is, that I resent any outside influence working in this Legislature.

On the question recurring,

Will the House agree to the motion?

The Speaker declared the yeas appear to have it.

Whereupon a division was called for, eighty-six gentlemen voting in the affirmative and fifty-seven in the negative the question was determined in the affirmative, and the motion was agreed to.

(i) Shall have obtained a divorce in any other state or country or

Section 2 Whenever the husband and wife shall have voluntarily lived entirely separate and neither has made any bona fide effort for reconciliation and cohabitation for the space of three years next preceding the commencement o fthe act a decree of separation may be granted at the suit of either party

Section 3 The several courts of common pleas of this Commonwealth shall have original jurisdiction of cases for the decrees of separation of married persons The said courts shall have power to grant decrees of separation notwithstanding the fact that the marriage of the parties and the cause for separation occurred outside of this Commonwealth and that both parties were at the time of the occurrence of said cause domiciled without this Commonwealth and that the respondent has been served with the subpoena only by publication as provided by this act

All petitions or libels for decree of separation shall be exercised to the court of the county where the libellant resides except where the husband and wife shall be resident in different counties of this Commonwealth and while so resident a cause of separation shall arise in which cases the libellant may at his or her option institute and prosecute proceedings either in the county of his or her own residence or in the county wherein the respondent shall be resident and the cause for separation shall have arisen

Section 4 No spouse shall be entitled to commence proceedings for separation by virtue of this act who shall not have been a bona fide resident in this Commonwealth at least one whole year immediately previous to the filing of his or her petition or libel The libellant and respondent shall be competent witnesses in said proceedings

Section 5 In cases where the spouse is a hopeless lunatic or non compos mentis the courts of common pleas are invested with the authority under this act to receive a petition or libel for a decree of separation in which such lunatic or person non compos mentis is made respondent The proceedings except as otherwise expressly provided in this act shall in such cases be the same as in the proceedings for divorce

Section 6 In cases where the wife is a lunatic or non compos mentis the courts are invested with authority to receive a petition or libel for separation in her behalf which may be exhibited by any relative or next friend of the wife The proceedings except as otherwise expressly provided in this act shall in such cases be the same as in other proceedings for separation

Section 7 Any spouse may have his or her petition or libel for separation presented to the court of common pleas when in session or during vacation to a judge therof at chambers The petition or libel shall set forth therein particularly and specifically the cause of his or her complaint and shall be accompanied with an affidavit on oath or affirmation that the facts contained in said petition or libel are true to the best of his or her knowledge and belief

In cases where the respondent is a hopeless lunatic or non compos mentis the fact of lunacy of the respondent and such circumstances as may be sufficient to satisfy the mind of the court as to the truth of the allegation shall be set forth in the petition or libel and the affidavit required by this section shall be taken by the petitioner

Section 8 Upon the presentation of the petition or libel a subpoena may be awarded by the said court signed by the prothonotary and directed to the party so complained against commanding him or her to appear which subpoena shall be returnable not less than fifteen days after the aware thereof either to any intermediate return day as shall have been or may be established for such court of common pleas either by statute or rule of court or both

Section 9 Upon due proof at the return of said subpoena that the same shall have been served personally upon the respondent within the Commonwealth and that a copy had been given to him or her on or before the return day of the same the said court shall and may make such preparatory rules and orders in the cause that the same may be brought to a hearing and determined at which hearing the court may determine the same exparte if necessary or the court may upon motion of either party appoint a master to take testimony and return the same to court

Section 10 If on the return of the subpoena proof shall be made that the respondent could not be found in the said county the court shall allow an order of publication and the sheriff of the county shall cause notice to be published in one newspaper printed within or nearest to the said county and in the legal journal if any designated by the rules of court for the publication of legal notices once a week for two successive weeks requiring the said party to appear and to answer said complaint which order of publication shall be returnable not less than fifteen days after the award thereof to any return days as shall have been or may be established for such court either by statute or rule of court or both after which the same proceedings shall be had as directed after the personal service of the subpoena

Section 11 In cases where the respondent is a hopeless lunatic or non compos mentis the service of the subpoena in separation shall be made as provided in this act but such service shall be made upon the committee of such lunatic or person non compos mentis

Section 12 The respondent may in any case brought under the provisions of this act cause an appearance to be entered and file an answer to the petition or libel

Section 13 The court may upon the application of either party and upon such terms as it may order authorize and direct the master to take testimony of witnesses in any other country State or territory subject to the jurisdiction of the United States or in any foreign country

Section 14 In all proceedings for separation the libellant shall be fully competent to prove all the facts though the respondent may not have been personally served with the libel subpoena or rule to take depositions and may not be residing within the Commonwealth but have been served only by publication

Section 15 When the respondent in any action for separation shall have been convicted and sentenced for any crime the records of the said conviction shall be received in evidence on any application for separation by the injured libellant

Section 16 In any action or suit for a decree of separation for the cause of adultery if the respondent shall allege and prove that the libellant has been guilty of the like crime or has admitted the respondent into conjugal society or embraces after he or she knew of the criminal fact or that the said libellant (if the husband) allowed the wife's prostitution or received hire from it or exposed his wife to lewd company whereby she became insnared to the crime aforesaid it shall be a good defence and a perpetual bar against the same

Section 17 Where a master has been appointed he shall make a report to the court of the proceedings had before him and his opinion of the case

Section 18 The said courts may after hearing any cause whether before the court or a master determine the same as the law and justice shall appertain by either dismissing the petition or libel or entering a decree of separation by decreeing and adjudging that the spouses shall not be required to live and cohabit with each other in the relationship of husband and wife until both shall mutually agree to do so again

Section 19 After the entering of such decree of separation the said parties shall severally be at liberty to dispose of their property during life or by will wothout any liability to be interfered with or obtained by the other and in case of intestacy the property of each shall go to his or her next of kin as if the other spouse were previously dead and such decree of separation shall not entitle them to marry again or relieve either of any of the other duties rights and claims accruing as a result of such marriage and shall continue in full force and effect until both of them agree to rescind same or it shall appear to the court that right and justice shall require its revocation

Section 20 Either of the parties in any suit or action for separation may appeal therefrom to the Superior Court in the manner provided by law for such appeals and the said appeal shall be prosecuted in the usual manner and the Superior Court shall transmit the record with their judgment thereon with all the proceedings as in other cases to the court below to be carried into effect

But where a respondent in any proceeding for separation files with the prothonotary of the said court an affidavit that such appeal is not taken for the purpose of delay but because the appellant believes he has suffered injustice by the decree from which he or she appeals and that by reason of his or her poverty he or she is unable to furnish the required bail such respondent shall be entitled to take such appeal the same as if the required bail had been given

Section 21 The several courts of common pleas are hereby authorized to make and adopt such rules and practice as may be necessary to carry this act into effect and to regulate proceedings before masters and to fix their fees

Section 22 The provisions of this act are severable and if any of the provisions thereof are held to be unconstitutional the decision shall not be construed to impair any other provision of this act It is hereby declared as a legislative intent that this act would have been adopted had such unconstitutional provision not been included therein

Section 23 This act shall be in force from and after first day of August one thousand nine hundred and twenty-nine

Section 24 All acts or parts of acts inconsistent herewith are hereby repealed except in so far as they relate to divorce proceedings

RESOLUTION No. 22 .....

Mr. HEFFERNAN asked and obtained unanimous consent to call up Resolution No. 22, file folio 5683, which was twice read considered and adopted.

In the House of Representatives, March 27th, 1929.

Whereas In his message to the General Assembly at the opening of the present Session His Excellency the Governor stated that during the past two years every form disease had shown a falling off with the exceptions of cancer and diabetes and

Whereas He suggested that some provision should be made for exhaustive laboratory research work to alleviate the ravages of these diseases and

Whereas scientists have for years been pursuing the cancer germ and have so far failed in their afforts to isolate it and

Whereas Some effort should be made to put back of this so far unsuccessful task the power of the Commonwealth and the scientific ability and knowledge of those connected with the Department of Health therefore be it

Resolved If the Senate concur That His Excellency the Governor of the Commonwealth shall be requested to direct the Secretary of the Department of Health to make a survey of the efforts now being made to isolate the cancer germ and to check the ravages of the disease and be it further

Resolved, That the said Secretary of the Department of Health shall be requested to make a report of the results of such study to the Governor for the next Session of the Legislature and made such recommendations as to the policy the Commonwealth should adopt to assist in preventing the further spread of the disease as he may deem advisable

Ordered, That the Clerk present the same to the Senate for concurrence,

QUESTION OF PERSONAL PRIVILEGE.

Mr. TALBOT. Mr. Speaker, I rise to a question of personal privilege.

The SPEAKER. The gentleman will state his question of personal privilege.

Mr. TALBOT. Mr. Speaker and members of the House, on last Tuesday in closing my remarks opposing the four-cent gasoline tax, I said if there was any attempt to amend my bill to a four-cent gasoline tax, I would oppose it. I wish to say to the membership of the House that the Ways and Means Committee have been particularly fair to me in this matter. They consulted me last night as to whether I was willing to have my bill amended and brought out with an amendment carrying a four-cent tax on gasoline, to which I said I was not, and at my request in a meeting of the Committee on Ways and Means today, that bill was killed. I still believe as I did just a week ago that a four cent tax on gasoine is not necessary. I cannot put myself in the position of being for one part of my bill and opposed to another part, and still be fair with the membership that went along with me in opposing that tax. I say this in fairness to the contradictory position we would be put in, and I also say it in fairness to the members of the Ways and Means Committee.

Mr. STERLING. Mr. Speaker and members of the House, the Ways and Means Committee want to call to your attention the fairness of Mr. Talbot, and especially as regards the Talbot Bill. When House Bill No. 155 was before this House I said to you that in due course of time the Ways and Means Committee would give due study to the Talbot Bill; that it has done in two or three Committee meetings fixed especially for that purpose. The Ways and Means Committee as a unit are of the opinion that the system suggested in the Talbot Bill must be inevitable in this Commonwealth, because to a man the members of that Committee feel that the collection of the gasoline tax on a point other than from the retailers will bring greater benefits to the Commonwealth. The Committee found itself in great difficulty when it studied deeply the mechanics suggested by the Talbot Bill. Conferences were held with the fiscal officer whose duty it is to collect these taxes, and we are of the opinion, as a result of these conferences, that neither this House nor any officer connected with this State government would be justified at this time in taking the responsibility of putting upon the statute books a bill which would provide for the mechanical method of the collection of the tax as suggested by the Talbot Bill. It seems that because of the very peculiar position in which Pennsylvania stands with respect to the collection of the gas tax, especially when we consider that Pennsylvania is not only a refiner, but a manufacturer and distributor as well, of gasoline, that the collection at the point of distribution, or at the point of source, is a considerably more difficult problem to solve than in any other of the Commonwealths. It is for these resasons, Mr. Speaker and members of the House, that the Ways and Means Committee must reluctantly abandon for this session any change in the method of the collection of gasoline taxes.

BILL ON THIRD READING.

Agreeably to order,

The House proceeded to the third reading and consideration of House Bill No. 2026, entitled,

A Supplement to an act approved the eighth day of June, one thousand nine hundred and twenty-three, (Pamphlet Laws, six hundred eighty-eight), entitled, "An act providing for the creation of a commission to study the subject of consolidation of the various municipalities, to wit: cities, boroughs and townships in counties of the second class, into one municipality and to file with the next General Assembly its report, together with an act providing a method for such consolidation, and prescribing its powers and duties," and the supplements and amendments thereto; continuing the commissions under the provisions of said acts for a further period of two years, requiring it to submit to the General Assembly of one thousand nine hundred and thirty-one a further report on the consolidation of municipalities in counties of the second class, and continuing and enlarging its powers, rights and duties.

On the question,

Will the House agree to the bill on third reading?

It was agreed to.

On the question,

Shall the bill pass finally?

Mr. BALDRIGE. Mr. Speaker, I would like to interrogate the sponsor of the bill.

The SPEAKER. Will the gentleman from Allegheny, Mr. Marcus, permit himself to be interrogated?

Mr. MARCUS. I will, Mr. Speaker.

Mr. BALDRIGE. I would like to ask the gentleman from Allegheny, the sponsor of the bill, Mr. Marcus, what is the purpose of this bill?

Mr. MARCUS. Mr. Speaker and members of the House, in answer to the interrogation of the gentleman from Allegheny, Mr. Baldrige, the purpose of this bill is to carry out the progrom that was started in 1926 in the extraordinary session of the Pennsylvania State Legislature, wherein a constitutional amendment was voted on and subsequently voted on in 1927 and in the fall election of 1928 again voted on, and this constitutional amendment was passed by the voters of the State of Pennsylvania. As the result of that vote, the bill which precedes this bill on the calendar, known as Senate Bill No. 926, which is not on file, is a presentation of a charter for a metropolitan city for a greater Pittsburgh. If this charter meets with your approval, when this bill is on file, this charter will be submitted to the voters of Allegheny County on the fourth Tuesday in June of this year, and following that bill, the metropolitan commission, which was appointed by this honorable body will continue to function and endeavor to carry out its ideas for the advancement of the corporate charter in the session of 1931. I also wish to explain to the members of this body that this commission carries no State appropriation. Should this commission be continued, the moneys that they are permitted to collect is fixed as an amount from the boroughs and townships and municipalities if they care to contribute, or from the county commissioners, if they wish to contribute, on the basis of two dollars per hundred of population. We realize that Pittsburgh is growing and advancing and we hope that we will be able to make Allegheny County the garden spot of the world. Will not you members of the Legislature give us the opportunity of continuing this commission and in view of the fact that it carries no State appropriation, and in view of the fact that the Commission wishes to extend its field of activity, may I ask you to vote for this bill.

Mr. BALDRIGE. Mr. Speaker, and members of the House, I desire to further ask the sponsor of this bill, Mr. Marcus, if he can inform this House just how much money this commission has received from the city and municipalities of Allegheny County, and how much they have expended?

Mr. MARCUS. In answer to the interrogation of the gentleman from Allegheny, Mr. Baldrige, I don't know what amount of money they have expended and I am not in a position to answer as to how much they have received.

I am in a position to answer that they have not received one penny from the State. On the besis of the increased population, if they were to receive money on the basis of two dollars per hundred of the population they would receive approximately thirty thousand dollars from the taxpayers of Allegheny County.

Mr. BALDRIGE. Is it not a fact that when this commission was first created that there was an appropriation by the State of $25,000?

Mr. MARCUS. Not to the best of my knowledge.

Mr. BALDRIGE. Is it not also a fact that preceding the last election the county of Allegheny gave to this commission $25,000 and also the city of Pittsburgh a like amount.

Mr. MARCUS. I know that there was some voluntary contributions made by some of the citizens of Allegheny County and contributions by the county commissioners and also that they received money from city council, what amount I do not know.

Mr. BALDRIGE. Is it not also a fact that when the commission checked up on the expenses at the last election, they published a statement in the Pittsburgh newspapers showing that they are over $70,000 in debt.

Mr. MARCUS. I cannot answer that question intelligently. I do not know.

Mr. BALDRIGE. Has this commission ever returned to this House a statement of its financial condition of its receipts and expenses?

Mr. MARCUS. I know that the commission has filed its report with the Governor of the State of Pennsylvania in which they made a recommendation as to a charter for greater Pittsburgh.

Mr. BALDRIGE. Mr. Speaker, he is not answering my question. I have asked if he knows of a financial statement having been filed by the commission.

Mr. MARCUS. I do not know.

Mr. BALDRIDGE. Mr. Speaker, ladies and gentlemen of the House, I did not oppose, two years ago, the continuation of this Commission, although I do know that in a bill that they passed here they asked for the Commission to be continued, not at the expense of the State, as it was originally created, but at the expense of the people of Allegheny County. There are people both inside the city and outside the city who are opposed to the metropolitan plan and idea.

I have personally written a letter to the Chairman of this Commission, early in this session, asking him to submit to this House a report of the receipts and expenditures of this Commission. I received an answer after I had sent this request for my personal use. Had he sent a report of the financial condition, of the receipts and expenditures, of this Commission it might have opened the eyes of the members of Allegheny County that don't know very much about the workings of this Commission. They have spent over one hundred thousand dollars since they have been created. The statement they filed in the Pittsburgh papers right after the election was to the effect that they are over seventy thousand dollars in debt.

What have they brought down here? They have been in existence six years, going on eight years, and what did they bring down here? They were created for the purpose, as specified in the act, to devise ways and means to create a metropolitan district for the county of Allegheny. In the first bill, it is my recollection that they were allowed twenty five thousand dollars for the expenses of that Commission. They spent all of that in the first year; ten thousand dollars of it went for the salary of an expert. They got one from Michigan; they didn't get a man from Pennsylvania who knew anything about Pennsylvania, or Allegheny county conditions at all.

I am most surprised that the city charter bill was introduced in the Senate not so long ago and not in the House. I am not surprised. I am not surprised it didn't come back here where it started from for introduction at this session. I am not surprised that the members of the State Senate from Allegheny county, and the people interested in the welfare of Allegheny County just threw the bill from hand to hand. Why, the sponsor of that bill would not know the bill if he saw it today. If that is the best they can give us, after spending all that money in that time, why fool with a commission like that. If we are going to have a commission let us have a commission that has some brains so that we will get some place. It is an outrage to the people of Allegheny County to continue this commission one iota further. They should be thrown out. They are not satisfied. Why, the State Senate would not even consider the amendments they offered to their own bill; they threw them in the waste basket. There is no further necessity for it. They have done the best they could, poor as it is, to the best of their ability. Why give them any more time? This charter if it goes through the House will be voted on by the people back home let them take care of it. I ask you to vote "No" on this bill.

On the question recurring,

Shall the bill pass finally?

Agreeably to the provisions of the Constitution, the yeas and nays were taken.

Mr. BALDRIGE. Mr. Speaker, I ask for a verification of the roll.

COMMUNICATION FROM THE GOVERNOR.

The Secretary to the Governor being introduced, presented communication in writing from His Excellency the Governor, which was read as follows:

VETO OF RESOLUTION RECALLING HOUSE BILL NO. 967.

Commonwealth of Pennsylvania,
Governor's Office, Harrisburg, April 9, 1929.

To the Honorable, the House of Representatives of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania.

I return herewith without my approval the Resolution of th House and Senate dated April 3, 1929, recalling from the Governor for the purpose of amendment, House Bill No. 967, file folio 1805, entitled, "An act to amend section six hundred and ninety-nine of the act approved the fourteenth day of July one thousand nine hundred and seventeen (Pamphlet Laws ight hundred and forty) entitled 'An act concerning townships and revising amending and consolidating the law relating thereto' as amended by prohibiting the stopping filling up confining paving or otherwise interfering with any drain ditch watercourse or drainage facilities in any township of the first or second class without the approval of the township commissioners or supervisors by making certain provisions with regard to the approval and filing of plans thereof."

This Resolution was not received in my office until Tuesday, April 9, 1929. I vetoed House Bill No. 967 on April 5, 1929, and returned the bill to the House of Representatives without my approval.

For this reason the Resolution recalling the bill is not approved.

Legislative Journal.

Session 1929 — 128th of the General Assembly

Vol. 11 — HARRISBURG, WEDNESDAY, APRIL 10, 1929 — No. 35

SENATE.

WEDNESDAY, April 10th, 1929.

The Senate met at 11 o'clock A. M.

The PRESIDENT (Lieutenant-Governor Arthur H. James) in the Chair.

The Chaplain, Rev. Christian H. Shirk, offered the following prayer:

Thou God of Eternity, we recognize Thee as our Creator and the One in whom all things have their origin. Thou hast not merely created us but Thou hast made ample provision for the supplying of all our needs, whether material, intellectual, social, aesthetic, moral or spiritual. For all of these, Thy mercies, we tender Thee our most profound gratitude.

We pray that Thou mayest give unto us this day our daily bread, as we have need for the supply of our complex nature; and we pray for a like blessing to come unto all of our fellow men.

We pray Thee for forgiveness of all our sins, in the name of our Redeemer and Lord. Amen.

JOURNAL APPROVED.

The PRESIDENT. A quorum of the Senate being present the Clerk will read the Journal of the preceding session.

The Clerk proceeded to read the Journal of the preceding session, when, on motion of Mr. Harvey, the further reading was dispensed with, and the Journal was approved.

Section 1 Be it enacted by the Senate and House of Representatives of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania in General Assembly met and it is hereby enacted by the authority of the same That clause one (1) of Section three hundred and eighty-one of the act approved the fourteenth day of July one thousand nine hundred and seventeen (Pamphlet Laws eight hundred and forty) entitled "An act concerning townships and revising amending and consolidating the law relating thereto" is hereby amended to read as follows

Section 381 The corporate power of the township of the first class shall be vested in the board of township commissioners The board shall have power

I To adopt by-laws and ordinances prescribing the manner in which the powers of the township shall be carried out and generally regulating the affairs of the township All such ordinances unless where otherwise provided in this act shall be published at least once a week for two consecutive weeks in one newspaper of general circulation published or circulating in the township or if there be no such newspaper in a newspaper of general circulation published in the municipality nearest to the township Such ordinance shall not become effective until ten days after the second publication aforesaid

Section 2 That Chapter eleven article three of said act as added by the act approved the thirteenth day of May, one thousand nine hundred and twenty-five, (P. L. 673), entitled "An act to amend chapter eleven of the act approved the fourteenth day of July, one thousand nine hundred and seventeen, (Pamphlet Laws, eight hundred and forty), entitled 'An act concerning townships, and revising, amending and consolidating the law relating thereto,' by adding thereto article three, section eight hundred and fifty, authorizing townships of the second class to accept as part of the township road system roads dedicated to the public use," as amended by the act approved the twenty-second day of March one thousand nine hundred and twenty-seven, (P. L. 55), entitled "An act to amend section eight hundred and fifty of the act approved the fourteenth day of July, one thousand nine hundred and seventeen, (Pamphlet Laws, eight hundred and forty), entitled 'An act concerning townships; and revising, amending and consolidating the law relating thereto,' by providing that only roads and streets may be accepted by townships of the second class as part of the highway system thereof, and requiring the consent of the Court of Quarter Sessions before such acceptance," is hereby further amended to read as follows:

ARTICLE III

(ACCEPTANCE OF DEDICATED ROADS IN TOWNSHIPS OF THE SECOND CLASS)

APPROVAL OF PLANS FOR ROADS AND STREETS AND DRAINAGE FACILITIES

Section 850. (The Board of Supervisors of any township of the second class may accept any roads, streets, lanes, or alleys, or any part thereof as dedicated to public use by a plot duly recorded in the office of the Recorder of Deeds of the county in which such township is; said acceptance to be evidenced by a resolution of the said board of supervisors properly describing said roads, streets, lanes, or alleys, adopted by a majority thereof by a vote duly recorded and entered upon the minutes of the said board. Upon the filing with the clerk of the Courts of Quarter Sessions of said county of a certified and attested copy of said resolution such roads, streets, lanes, or alleys, shall become a part of the public highway system of said township and shall be so recorded in the said court of quarter sessions). No person shall construct, open or dedicate any road, street, lane or alley, or any drainage facilities in connection therewith, for public use or travel in any township, without first submitting plans thereof to the township commissioners or township supervisors for their approval, such plans shall be prepared in accordance with such rules and regulations as may be prescribed by the commissioners or supervisors, and shall show the profiles of such roads, streets, lanes or alleys, the course, structure and capacity of any drainage facilities and the method of drainage of the adjacent and continguous territory, and also any other or further details that may be required under the rules or regulations adopted by the township commissioners or township supervisors. Before acting upon any such plans the commissioners or supervisors may, in their discretion, arrange for a public hearing, after giving such notice as they may deem desirable in each case. The township commissioners or township supervisors are authorized to offer such plans and to specify any change or modifications of any kind which they, in their discretion, may deem necessary with respect thereto, and may make their approval of such plans subject to any such alterations, changes, or modifications. Any plans when so approved shall be signed on behalf of the township by such officers the commissioners or supervisors may designate, and shall be filed in the township office, where the same shall be available to public inspection. No road, street, lane or alley, or any drainage facilities therewith, shall be opened, constructed or dedicated for public use or travel, except in strict accordance with plans so approved by the commissioners or supervisors or with further plans subsequently approved by them in the same manner.

In any case where the township commissioners or township supervisors shall refuse to approve any plans submitted to them in accordance with this act, any person aggravated by the action of the commissioners or supervisors may within thirty days after such action, appeal therefrom by petition to the court of quarter sessions of the county, which court shall hear the matter de novo, and after hearing, may enter a decree affirming, reversing or modifying the action of the commissioners or supervisors as may appear just in the premises. The court shall designate the manner in which notice of the hearing of any such appeal shall be given to all parties interested. The decision of the court shall be final.

The action of the township commissioners or township supervisors, or the court on appeal in approving any such plans, and such plans, shall be recorded by the person applying for such approval in the office of the Recorder of Deeds of the county.

Section 851. If any road, street, lane or alley, or any drainage facilities in connection therewith, shall be opened, constructed or dedicated to public use or travel except in strict accordance with plans approved by the township commissioners or township supervisors, as provided in this act neither the township commissioners nor the township supervisors, nor any public authorities shall place, construct, or operate any sewer drain, waterpipe or other facilities, or do any work of any kind in or upon such road, street, lane or alley, and neither the township commissioners nor the township supervisors nor any other public authorities shall have any responsibility of any kind with respect to any such road, street, lane or alley, or drainage facilities, notwithstanding any use of the same by the public. Provided, however, That nothing herein contained shall prevent the laying of trunk sewer drains, water or gas mains, if required by engineering necessity for the accommodation of other territory.

The township commissioners or township supervisors and their representatives and workmen may enter upon any land and property and maintain marks and monuments so far as the commissioners or supervisors deem necessary in carrying out their powers and duties hereunder.

Section 852. Any person who shall construct, open or dedicate any road, street, lane or alley or any drainage facilities in connection therewith for public use or travel in any township, without having first complied with the provisions of this act and of any ordinances or resolutions of the township authorities adopted pursuant hereto, shall be guilty of a misdemeanor, and upon conviction thereof shall be sentenced to suffer imprisonment not exceeding two years or pay a fine not exceeding one thousand dollars, or both in the discretion of the court.

Section 853. No approval of plans by a township of the second class pursuant to the provisions of this act, shall obligate or require any such township to construct, reconstruct, maintain, repair or grade such roads, until and unless authorized and ordered so to do by the proper court pursuant to the provisions of existing law in that regard.

Section 854. Nothing herein contained shall be held to restrict or limit the Department of Highways of the Commonwealth or any county, in the exercise of any of its duties, powers and functions under the provisions of any act of Assembly now in force or hereafter to be enacted.

Section 3 All acts or parts of acts inconsistent herewith be and the same are hereby repealed

BILL OVER IN ORDER.

The PRESIDENT. Senate Bill No. 422, on third reading, entitled:

An Act to establish as a State highway a certain section of public road in the County of Luzerne, and providing for its construction and maintenance at the expense of the Commonwealth.

is not up from the printer and will go over in its order.

BILL ON THIRD READING AND FINAL PASSAGE.

Agreeably to order,

The Senate proceeded to the third reading and consideration of Senate Bill No. 425, as follows:

An Act providing that when Cities of the Third Class grade and pave streets and alleys or construct sidewalks curbs gutters or sewers or make other improvements they may pay the cost thereof in whole or in part by the issuance of bonds notes or certificates of indebtedness secured by assessments for liens against abutting properties

Section 1 Be it enacted by the Senate and House of Representatives of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania in General Assembly met and it is hereby enacted by the authority of the same That when any City of the Third Class shall authorize the grading sub-grading or the permanent paving of any streets or alleys or parts thereof or the construction of sidewalks curbs gutters or sewers or make other improvements and the entire costs or any part thereof shall be assessed against the properties abutting on such improvement whether by the footfront rule or according to benefits the council may by ordinance provide that the assessments may be paid in semi-annual or annual installments such installments shall bear interest at a rate not exceeding six percent from such date and payable in such manner as shall be prescribed by ordinance

Section 2 In order to provide for the payment of the cost and expenses of any such improvement the council of such city may from time to time during the progress of the work or upon the completion of the improvement issue bonds notes or certificates of indebtedness in such sums as may be required in all to an amount not exceeding the assessable portion of the cost and expenses and interest thereon providing however that such bonds can be issued based on a preliminary estimate as provided by law Bonds notes or certificates of indebtedness issued during the progress of the work may be refunded upon the completion of the improvement The bonds notes or certificates of indebtedness shall bear the name of the particular improvement for which they are issued and shall be payable in the manner and at such periods not exceeding ten years from the date of their issue as provided by ordinance

Section 3 As a condition precedent to the issuance and negotiation of such bonds notes or certificates of indebtedness council shall not be required to file any statement of the City with any court or court officer or with any Bureau or Department of the Commonwealth or advertise their sale except in such manner as shall be prescribed by ordinance Such bonds notes or certificates of indebtedness shall be issued negotiated and paid upon such conditions and terms and at such rate of interest as council may by general or special ordinance direct provided they shall not be negotiated at less than par or bear interest in excess of six per cent per annum payable semi-annually or annually and the proceeds thereof shall be applied solely to the payment of such improvement In case the bonds notes or certificates of indebtedness are not negotiated by the council they may be delivered to the contractor in payment of the work but when so delivered must be at not less than par

Section 4 Liens to secure the assessments shall be entered in the Prothonotary's Office of the county in the same form and collected in the same manner as municipal claims are now or may hereafter be filed and collected

Section 5 The assessments shall be payable at the office of the City Treasurer or such other place as council may by ordinance provide in semi-annual or annual installments with interest from the date and at the rate prescribed by ordinance The moneys so received by the City shall be applied to the payment of such bonds notes or certificates of indebtedness and any deficiency shall be paid from the general revenues of the city

Section 6 In case of default in the payment of any installment and interest for a period of sixty days after the same shall become due the entire assessment and accrued interest shall become due and the City Solicitor shall proceed to collect the same under the general laws relating to the collection of municipal claims.

Section 7 Any owner of property against whom any such assessment has been made may pay the same in full at any time with interest thereon to the next semi-annual or annual payment or such other date as council may prescribe and such payment shall discharge the lien If any owner shall subdivide any property after the lien attaches he may in like manner discharge the same upon any subdivided portion thereof by paying the amount for which such part would be liable as determined by the City Engineer

Section 8 Whenever any City shall so issue bonds notes or certificates of indebtedness the treasurer of the City shall keep a registry book in which the same shall be registered Such registry shall show the date of the issue of the bond note or certificate of indebtedness

Section 9 The bonds notes or certificates may be transferred at any time and the treasurer shall make the proper entry of any such transfers in the registry book and on such bonds notes or certificates of indebtedness and the interest thereon shall be paid only to the last registered owner

Section 10 All acts or parts of acts inconsistent herewith are hereby repealed

Section 545 Yard An open unoccupied space on the same lot with a tenement rooming-house or dwelling and which space extends in its full width or depth between opposite lot line

PART III ENGINEERING STANDARDS

CHAPTER 6 General Requirements

Section 600 Methods of design The unit stresses specified in this code shall not be exceeded The dimensions of each piece or combination of pieces of materials required in a building or structure shall be ascertained by computation according to the rules prescribed by modern standard authorities on the strength of materials applied mechanics and engineering practice

Materials Any materials to be acceptable under this code together with their test requirements if the above are not specifically given in the code shall conform to standards promulgated by the Chief which standards shall be in accordance with generally accepted standards established by authorities of national repute Such standards when promulgated by the Chief shall be public records

Unit stresses for materials which are not given in this code shall be ascertained by the means hereinafter called for

Section 601 Filing of computations Plans for all buildings of the first second and intermediate classes of construction shall be accompanied by computations which shall set forth in detail the design of all typical structural features and details all columns loadings and complete wind calculations

Section 602 Soil conditions This information may be derived from a record of the soil conditions existing at other operations which in the opinion of the Chief are near enough to warrant such records being used When such information is not available test borings will be made as directed by the Chief Each boring shall be carried down at least six (6) feet below the deepest foundation or footing bottom

Section 603 Use of old materials Nothing in this code shall prevent the use of old materials provided they meet the requirements of this code

Section 604 Temporary construction Every temporary support or construction used during the erection or alteration of any building shall be of sufficient strength to carry safely the load to be placed thereon in conformity with this code When the Chief shall require it plans and computations covering such construction shall be filed in the manner specified for original plans

Section 605 Injury during construction No cutting for piping or any other purpose shall be done which reduces the strength of any part of the structure below that which is required by this code

Section 606 Revision of floor loading Should tests or inspections of the materials or systems of construction entering into a building reveal that such materials or systems of construction are incapable of sustaining the loads for which they were designed but are otherwise safe for lesser loads the Chief in the event that such materials or systems of construction are not removed shall reduce the allowable live load capacity of all floors so affected

Section 607 General test requirements Tests shall be made only by a testing laboratory fully equipped for the purpose or other recognized authority acceptable to the Chief All tests shall be made under conditions similar to those under which it is proposed to use the material or system of construction

Section 608 Tests by recognized authority Materials or systems of construction may be approved by the Chief upon the presentation of certified records accompanied by affidavits as to their authenticity of tests of such materials or systems of construction when made by laboratories or recognized authorities

Section 609 Approval of new materials The approval or disapproval of new materials or new systems of construction shall be in writing Approvals shall give in detail such requirements for the use of the said new material or new system of construction as the Chief shall make

Section 610 Additional tests The Chief is authorized to call at his discretion for tests of any material or system of construction in use. The procedure in such cases shall be as provided for in Sections 607 and 608

Section 611 Failure of existing materials In the event that an approved material or system of construction shall be tested and found no longer to meet the requirements of this code notice to the effect that the material or system of construction is no longer acceptable shall be served on the interested parties The procedure shall be the same as required for new materials or new systems of construction

Section 612 Field tests Every material or system of construction shall be capable of sustaining without injury or permanent deformation a load of not less than twice the live load for which the material or system of construction has been designed plus the dead weight of the material or system of construction and provided that test requirements in other parts of this code are complied with

CHAPTER 7 Loading

Section 700 Dead loads There shall be included under dead loads the entire weight of the floor or roof surfacing fills floor construction ceilings fixed partitions walls columns footings or such other items of permanent construction not included under the heading of live loads Should the nature of the building be such that there is a possibility of the partitions' being shifted their weight shall be treated as uniformally distributed load and all parts of the structure shall be designed to carry them

Section 701 Live loads for floors The loads given in Sections 702 and 703 are to be considered as uniformly distributed in pounds per square foot In the event that the building is called upon to sustain loads greater than those specified such loads shall be estimated from actual conditions and a report submitted to the Chief for his approval

When a building is of an occupancy not hereinafter mentioned the Chief shall place it in an appropriate classification

Section 702 Human Occupancy (a) Residential Dwellings Guest Rooms of Hotels Apartments Lodgings and Tenements Dormitories Monastries Convents Orphanages Asylums Homes Reformatories Houses of Correction Jails and Prison Rooms and Wards of Hospitals and Sanitoriums.....40

(b) Educational Class Rooms with fixed seats 50

(c) Assembly Offices Churches with fixed seats Reading Rooms 60

(d) Public Assembly Lodge Rooms Dance Halls Auditoriums Theatres Motion Picture Houses Amusement Park Structures Stadiums Gymnasiums Grand Stands Rooms for Athletic Activities Galleries and Museums Armories Exhibition and Convention Halls Restaurants Banquet Rooms Public Buildings Public Baths and Swimming Pools Police and Fire Stations Libraries Railway Passenger Stations Lobbies Halls Aisles Corridors Stairways and Fire Escapes or Any Room of any structure of Human Occupancy of 2500 square feet or more used for dancing 100

Section 703 Commercial and Industrial Occupancy

(a) Private Passenger Car Garages and Stables.....100

(b) General Purposes Garages 100

(Minimum concentrated load at any point 8000 pounds)

(c) (Commercial Uses) Wholesale and Retail Stores Storage of Household Goods only.....110

(d) (Light Manufacturing) Where the work is done by hand on benches and tables or with light machines like sewing machines or ordinary looms Machine shops without overhead power cranes 120

(e) (Industrial Occupancy) Machine Shops other than above Light Printing Plants Factories with heavy machinery Warehouses for Ordinary Merchandise 150

(f) (Heavy Manufacturing) Manufacturing Presses Storage of overhead power cranes Heavy Printing Presses Storage of Heavy Materials.....200

(g) Interior Courts Sidewalks Gratings and Vault Lights not accessible to a driveway

First Class Construction only.....120

Section 704 Roof loads Roofs of a pitch of forty-five (45) degrees or less shall be designed for a vertical load of thirty (30) pounds per square foot in horizontal projection and roofs of a greater pitch than forty-five (45) degrees shall be designed for a horizontal load of thirty (30) pounds per square foot in vertical projection

Section 705 Safes No safe shall be placed on a stair landing or in a stair hall

Section 706 Minimum concentrated live loads Every floor beam in any building hereafter erected or altered and used for commercial or industrial occupancy shall be capable of sustaining a live load at any point of at least four thousand (4000) pounds except as required by Section 703 (b)

Section 707 Moving loads The dynamic effect of all moving loads shall be taken into consideration in the design of a building wherein such loads occur In the case of traveling cranes this shall not be less than an increase of twenty-five (25) percent above the static loads and in the case of elevators one hundred (100) percent increase in the static load on beams girders and first tier columns immediately below the place of application of the elevator loads

Section 708 Wind pressure For purposes of design the wind pressure upon the vertical plane surface of all buildings and structures except as noted below shall be taken at not less than twenty (20) pounds per square foot over the entire surface

The wind pressure upon tanks signs or similarly exposed structures and their supports shall be taken at not less than thirty (30) pounds per square foot of plane surface acting in tanks or chimneys this pressure shall be assumed to act on six-tenths of the projected area Tension to resist wind may be taken at twenty-six (26) pounds per square inch in radial brick chimneys laid in cement mortar A reduction in the area of signs may be made where openings exist but this reduction must not be more than fifty (50) percent

Where it shall appear that an isolated building or structure may be exposed to the full force of the wind throughout its entire height and width the pressure upon all vertical surfaces thus exposed shall be taken at not less than twenty-five (25) pounds per square foot

Where a building is of the skeleton frame type the skeleton frame shall carry the full wind load Each bay of the skeleton frame shall be designed independently of all others unless the horizontal floor slabs or systems are rigidly attached to the skeleton frame and braced laterally to transmit the horizontal loads proportionally among all columns or unless the floor slabs and fireproofing of the steel beams and girders are of concrete in intimate contact with the steel in which case the floor system may be considered as transmitting the horizontal forces proportionally to all the columns Monolithic reinforced concrete structures may be considered as transmitting the forces proportionally among all columns

Section 709 Anchorage Every member must be designed to have a dead weight equal to at least one-half more than the tendency toward uplift

Section 710 Reduction of live load Except in buildings used or to be used for storage purposes the following reductions in assumed total floor live loads are permissible in designing trusses girders columns piers walls or foundations

Reduction of live load per increment	Per Centum
Carrying one floor	0
Carrying two floors	10
Carrying three floors	20
Carrying four floors	30
Carrying five floors	40
Carrying six floors (or more)	50

For determining the area of footings the full dead loads plus the live loads with reductions figured as permitted above shall be taken except that in buildings for human occupancy a further reduction of one-half the live load is permitted

Section 711 Eccentricity Unless the reaction of any load is concentric with the axis of the supporting member or column the member or column shall be increased in strength to take care of the effects of the resultant eccentricity

Section 712 Allowable deflections The maximum permissible deflections caused by the live load for beams and girders are as follows

1/300 unplastered 1/360 plastered

The fraction gives the ratio of the deflection to the span length

Section 713 Posting of live loads In every building of a commercial or industrial occupancy hereafter erected and in every existing commercial or industrial building where heavy materials are kept or stored or machinery introduced there shall be posted on the walls of each floro in a conspicuous place a card in a permanent frame stating the following the weight in pounds per square foot the floor will safely support the date of examination the signature of the architect or engineer making examination the stamp of the Bureau with the date the calculation was accepted the signature of the examining engineer of the Bureau and such other notations as the Chief may require in any particular case

It shall be the duty of the owner to see that these cards are kept in position and in good condition

If drawings are not on file in the Bureau for the building the architect or engineer shall prepare diagrammatic drawings and data and submit them with his computations as directed by the Chief

Section 714 Overloading of floors It shall be the duty of the owner and tenant of a building to see that the safe loading of a floor is not exceeded

Should the strength of a floor of a building erected prior to the passage of this act be such that the live load resulting is less than one-half that required in the code for the occupancy in question the owner shall reinforce the floor or building in such manner that the required safe loading is obtained Proper reduction shall be made for old or damaged materials

Section 715 Lost drawings When it is necessary to post cards for floor loads in buildings where no plans are available and where the internal structure cannot be determined without demolition of the various parts the Chief may permit a series of tests to be made

CHAPTER 8 Excavations and Bearing Values

Section 800 Excavations sheeting bracing shoring underpinning When in the opinion of the Chief an excavation will endanger an adjoining property structure building or street such property structure building or street shall be protected by properly braced sheeting or underpinning or by shoring or by any combination of these which shall be properly maintained Construction drawings for such sheeting bracing underpinning and shoring shall be submitted to the Chief for approval

When the Chief finds that a condition is hazardous the drawings shall be so stamped and he may require that extraordinary methods be used for safe-guarding the work

Section 801 Depth of foundations The foundation loads of all permanent structures shall be carried down to satisfactory bearing material by means of walls piers caissons or piling which shall be so designed that the entire loads which they transmit will be distributed over the bearing area at a unit intensity not exceeding the allowable bearing value hereinafter prescribed in this chapter

Every footing shall be carried down at least three feet below any adjoining surface exposed to freezing except in dwelling houses two stories in height as to which footings shall be at least two feet below any adjoining surface exposed to freezing weather provided the said exposed surface is covered with a cement pavement properly drained that extends three feet beyond said footings so as to protect said footings against frost action

Section 802 Satisfactory bearing material Satisfactory bearing material shall mean only rock in its natural bed natural deposits of sand gravel or clay or any combination of the foregoing materials neither containing nor overlying an appreciable amount of organic matter

In the absence of satisfactory load tests the allowable bearing values of the above materials shall be limited by the following unit pressures in tons per square foot

Confined dry soft clay	1
Confined wet fine-grained sand with mica or a little soft clay	2
Dry fine-grained sand with or without hard clay but without mica or medium clay dry or wet coarse or medium grained sand with mica or hard clay hard clay	4
Dry or wet coarse or medium-grained sand without mica or clay gravel with mica or clay	5
Coarse gravel without mica or clay	6
Boulder gravel shale and hard pan	8
Cemented conglomerate	10
Soft firm rock	12
Medium rock	24
Hard rock	48

The classification of any bearing material shall be approved by the Chief Upon his order the allowable bearing value on such material shall be determined by test

All cesspool wells or other open holes of similar character existing in the site of a building shall be cleaned out and filled with concrete to the satisfaction of the Chief

Section 803 Pier or column footings All foundations under piers or columns shall be concentrically loaded and where necessary shall hav ea slip joint connection with other masonry Where beams are placed under piers or columns to distribute the loads such beams shall be proportioned as girders carrying uniform loads within the limits of the stresses prescribed hereinafter If stones are used for pier or column footings the stones shall be at least ten inches in thickness Otherwise footings for piers or columns shall be subject to the same regulations as for walls

CHAPTER 9 Caissons

Section 900 Excavation lining When caissons are used the excavation during construction shall be protected by a shell of sufficient strength to prevent slipping of the soil and to withstand any pressure caused by adjacent structures The Chief may call for such tests as he deems necessary to ascertain the quality and extent of the bottom upon which a caisson is intended to rest

The center line of the excavation shall not deviate more than two and one-half (2½) per cent of the height from the vertical The length of no caisson shall be more than fifteen (15) times its least diameter unless properly reinforced

Section 901 Concreting The excavation shall be filled with concrete as specified in the chapter on Reinforced Concrete If the shell is withdrawn concrete must be placed at the same time and in such manner as to prevent caving in of the excavation

Section 902 Design If the shaft of the caisson passes through material equal to that specified as in Section 802 capable of withstanding a pressure of two tons or more per square foot it need not be reinforced The stresses on reinforcement and on concrete with or without reinforcement shall be as called for in the chapter on Reinforced Concrete

CHAPTER 10 Piles

Section 1000 General All piles intended to support any structure or part thereof shall be driven to the resistance hereinafter specified by such methods as will not impair their strength and as will insure the retention of that resistance

No pile shall be driven through material which is to be subsequently excavated unless it is afterward cut off and capped below the bottom of such excavation

Any type of pile construction not provided for in this section shall meet such standard requirements as may be prescribed therefor by the Chief

No pile or group of piles shall be designed so as to be loaded eccentrically

Any detached column or pier footing supported on piles shall rest upon at least three piles unless such column or pier footing be supported laterally by proper masonry or steel construction Any continuous wall footing supported on piles shall rest upon at least two rows of piles which shall be not less than one foot between centers of the rows unless such wall footing be supported laterally by proper masonry or steel construction

The allowable load on any pile not driven to rock shall be determined by the following formulae except that in no case shall the maximum allowable load hereinafter prescribed in this section for each particular type of pile be exceeded

For Drop Hammers .....$P = \frac{2 W H}{S + 1}$

For Single Acting Steam or Air Hammers.....$P = \frac{2 W H}{S + \frac{1}{10}}$

In which P equals the allowable load on the pile in pounds
W equals the weight of the striking part of the hammer in pounds
H equals the fall in feet of the striking part of the hammer
S equals the average penetration in inches under the last five blows after pile has driven to a point where successive blows produce equal penetration

When any doubt exists as to the safe sustaining power of piles not driven to rock the Chief may order such piles to be driven until the safe load indicated by the proper above-named formula is fifty (50) per cent greater than the load it is proposed to carry on the pile or he may order a load test to be made under his supervision

Except in the case of timber capping of wood piles when permitted all capping of piles shall be of reinforced concrete mixed in the proportions of one (1) part Portland cement to not more than six (6) parts of aggregate conforming to the provisions prescribed therefor in the section on Reinforced Concrete The stresses in such concrete capping shall not exceed those prescribed therefor in the section on Reinforced Concrete

The distance from the top of any pile to the bottom of its concrete capping shall not be less than three (3) inches for concrete piles and six (6) inches for wood piles and the distance from the edge of its capping to the cutside of any pile in any horizontal direction shall not be less than three (3) inches for concrete piles and six (6) inches for wood piles The thickness of the capping above the top of any pile shall be determined by the distribution of the load that the piles must carry but shall not be less than twelve (12) inches in any case

Section 1001 Wood piles Timber for wood piles shall be cut off above the ground swell from live trees of sound and approved timber A straight line joining the center of the point with the center of the butt of any wood pile shall fall wholly within the pile

The diameter of a wood pile at its point shall be not less than five (5) inches The diameter of such a pile measured two (2) feet from its butt shall be not less than ten (10) inches when the pile is twenty (20) feet or less in length and shall be not less than twelve (12) inches when the pile is of greater length All diameter shall be measured under the bark No wood pile shall be loaded in excess of fifteen (15) tons

Wood piles shall be spaced not less than twenty-seven (27) inches between centers of piles The tops of all wood piles shall be cut off at permanent water level except under frame dwellings built over water where they may project above the water a sufficient height to raise the building above high tide Permanent water level shall be mean low tide unless special conditions exist in which case the Chief may determine such other level as in his opinion represents the permanent water level

When ranging and capping timbers are placed on wood piles for foundations they shall be of heart wood not less than six (6) inches thick They shall be properly joined together and the tops shall be laid below the permanent water level

Section 1002 Concrete piles Concrete piles may be either precast or cast-in-place or may be concrete-filled steel tubes

The concrete in concrete piles shall be mixed in the proportions of one (1) part Portland Cement to not more than six (6) parts of aggregate conforming to the provisions prescribed therefore in the section on Reinforced Concrete

(a) Precast piles Precast concrete piles shall be properly designed and reinforced in accordance with the provisions prescribed in the section on Reinforced Concrete to permit of handling and driving them without injury The Reinforcing Steel shall be so located in the piles that it will be covered by at least one and one-half (1½) inches of concrete The diameter of lateral dimension of such piles shall be not less than eight (8) inches at the point and shall average not less than twelve (12) inches throughout the length of the pile The length of any such pile shall not exceed twenty (20) times the average diameter of the pile When driven to rock their points shall be protected by a metal shoe of approved design and their tops shall be protected during driving by cushions of approved design No precast pile shall be loaded in excess of thirty (30) tons

(b) Cast-in-place piles Concrete piles cast-in-place shall be so made and placed as to insure the exclusion of any foreign matter and secure the full cross section contemplated by such means as have been established by standard as promulgated by the Chief

When such piles penetrate material which may distort freshly placed concrete in adjacent piles the piles shall be driven in such orde rand with such increased spacing as to insure against such distortion or additonail piles shall not be driven until the freshly placed concrete has attained its initial set

The average diameter of any cast-in-place concrete pile when driven to final resistance shall be not less than eleven (11) inches and the diameter at its point shall be not less than eight (8) inches The length of such pile shall not exceed thirty (30) times its average diameter unless the lateral support of the earth warrants a greater length No cast-in-place concrete pile shall be loaded in excess of thirty (30) tons

(c) Composite piles When it is determined that a pile must be driven partly above and partly below the permanent water level a composite pile may be used the lower part wood and the upper concrete Each section of the composite pile shall meet the requirements stated above for its class The joint between the two sections shall be suffiently strong to provide for vertical and lateral support The load on composite piles shall not exceed twenty (20) tons

(d) Concrete-filled steel tubes For piles consisting of steel tubes filled with concrete the tubes shall have a diameter of nine (9) inches or more and a thickness of not less than five-sixteenths (5/16) of an inch The ends of each tube shall be faced perpendicular to its axis Splices shall be of an approved design Each pile shall be driven to a full bearing on rock The allowable load on any such pile shall not exceed one thousand (1,000) pounds per square inch on the net concrete section

MASONRY IN GENERAL

CHAPTER 11 Mortars and Mass-Concrete

Section 1100 General No mortar or mass-concrete shall be used the ingredients of which are not fresh and clean and in accordance with the provisions of this code and are not thoroughly mixed and free from lumps or unmixed portions of any of the ingredients No mortar or concrete shall be remixed or retempered after it has reached its initial set

Section 1101 Cements limes and aggregates Cement wherever referred to throughout this chapter or code shall be taken to mean Portland Cement or other hydraulic cement of an approved standard brand masons cement quick lime and hydrated lime shall be of approved standard brands All aggregates for mortars concrete concrete brick and block and other material shall conform to the specifications for them in the chapters of this code relating to Reinforced Concrete and Fireproofing unless otherwise herein provided

Section 1102 Mortars (a) Cement mortar Shall be made of cement and sand in the proportions of one (1) part cement and not more than three (3) parts sand by volume Hydrated lime not to exceed 15 per cent of the cement by volume may be added but shall not be considered as reducing the cement content

(b) Cement-lime mortar Shall be made of one (1) part cement one (1) part hydrated lime and not more than six (6) parts sand by volume Lime-paste when thoroughly slaked may be used in the same proportion as hydrated lime and in place thereof if the two mortars are first mixed separately and then together

(c) Masons cement motar Shall be made of one (1) part masons cement and three (3) parts sand by volume and may be used in place of cement-lime mortar

(d) Lime mortar shall be made of one (1) part thoroughly slaked lime or dry hydrated lime and not more than four (4) parts sand by volume

Section 1103 Mass concrete Mass concrete shall consist of one (1) part Portland Cement to not more than seven (7) parts fine and coarse aggregates by volume mixed in conformity with the requirements specified in the chapter on Reinforced Concrete

Section 1104 Rubble concrete Rubble concrete shall consist of a mixture of concrete as specified in Section 1103 to which is added stones which shall not be larger than one man size There shall not be less than six (6) inches of concrete between any two (2) stones or any stone and the forms Rubble concrete shall not be used for a projecting footing

CHAPTER 12 Footings and Foundation Walls

Section 1200 Depth and bearing The footings or foundation walls of all buildings excepting those that are erected on wharves or wharf piers on a water front shal extend below the level of frost action and in no case less than three (3) feet below the exposed surface of the earth and be laid on solid ground or level surface of rock in accordance with soil bearing values prescribed in Chapter 8 Footings of all buildings other than dwellings shall start at least twelve (12) inches below the levels of excavations for cellar or basement floors Where solid earth or rock is not attainable the said walls may be supported by a foundation of piles or caissons filled with concrete or such other foundation as the Bureau shall direct No footing or foundation shall be laid on any soil containing organic matter nor shall footings or foundations be laid on frozen soil and when such footings and foundations are laid in freezing weather adequate precautions shall be taken against frost action

Section 1201 Wall footings Footings for foundation walls other than is provided for in the section on Dwellings shall not be less than twelve (12) inches in vertical thickness and not less than six (6) inches wider than the horizontal thickness of the wall above with such increase in size as may be required by soil conditions in accordance with Chapter 8 to safely bear the weight to be imposed thereon Such footings or base courses shall be of stone or concrete or other solid masonry acceptable to the Bureau

Section 1202 Pier or column footings Shall be in accordance with Section 803

Section 1203 Mortar for footings and foundations Cement mortar only shall be used in footings and foundations of all buildings other than as provided in Chapter 43 on Dwellings and Buildings Similarly Light in character Provided that this Section shall not prohibit the use of cement-lime mortar when in the judgment of the Chief the nature of the construction may permit of its use

Section 1204 Footing limitations and extensions Footings of all buildings having exterior curtain walls must be set back six and one half (6½) inches from the party line The Bureau of Highways in cities of the First class shall be privileged to allow the projection of footings of walls piers or columns three (3) feet beyond the building line Provided that on streets used or proposed to be used for subways the use of the bed of the street such footing shall be constructed within the building line And Provided further that in the event of any future public improvements necessitating the reclaiming of the bed of any street by said cities of the First class any such projections which may have been constructed shall be removed by the owner of the property affected at his expense

Section 1205 Foundations of minor buildings Foundation walls of dwellings garages stables and of buildings of similar light construction shall be in accordance with the chapter on "Dwellings" unless otherwise provided for

Section 1206 Exterior foundation walls Foundation walls of all other buildings shall be built of stone concrete reinforced concrete or other solid masonry acceptable to the Bureau If such walls be constructed of stone they shall be at least six (6) inches thicker than the wall next above to a depth of twelve (12) feet below said wall and shall be increased six (6) inches in thickness for every additional ten (10) feet in depth below the said twelve (12) feet If foundation walls be built of concrete or solid masonry other than stone they shall be at least four (4) inches thicker than the wall next above to a depth of twelve (12) feet below the said wall and shall be increased four (4) inches in thickness for every ten (10) feet below said twelve (12) feet All exterior foundation walls shall be sufficiently strong to resist lateral pressure

Section 1207 Foundation walls above grade In buildings built to the street grade the foundations shall not be built above the curb level unless the Bureau exempt such a building from this requirement when it appears to the Bureau that such building is located on a street which is not likely to be used for business purposes in which case the Bureau shall make necessary rules and regulations for such exceptions Foundation walls for buildings of the Fourth class shall be built up to the underside of the floor supports but not less than twelve (12) inches above grade

Section 1208 Underpinning of walls Walls used for underpinning shall be built solid of large flat stones concrete or other solid masonry acceptable to the Bureau laid up in cement mortar as the Bureau may direct Underpinning of party walls shall conform to the requirements of Section 1807

Section 1209 Footings foundation and piers not permitted hollow No hollow units or hollow construction shall be permitted for footings or foundations or piers below ground story levels of any buildings including dwellings

Section 1210 Retaining walls All walls including foundations walls which support earthwork or any kind of fill coal cinders ashes et cetera shall be designed as retaining walls

CHAPTER 13 Wall and Pier Requirements in General

Section 1300 General All buildings hereafter erected or altered except such as are otherwise provided for shall have all outside or division walls (exclusive of party walls which shall be as required in Chapter 18) constructed of solid masonry iron or other hard non-combustible material properly bonded and solidly put together all the said walls shall be built to a line and carried up plumb and straight and the several component parts of each building shall be constructed in accordance with the various provisions of this code

Section 1301 Story heights governing thickness of walls The height of stories for all given thicknesses of walls must not exceed eleven (11) feet in the clear for basement eighteen (18) feet in the clear for the first story fifteen (15) feet in the clear for the second story fourteen (14) feet in the clear average height for any upper story and if any story exceeds these heights respectively the walls of such story and all the walls below the same shall be increased four (4) inches in thickness additional to the thickness thereafter required The Chief may increase the thickness of any of the walls hereinafter specified if in his judgment the nature of the construction requires it

Section 1302 Thickness of walls and piers In one-story buildings with solid division walls the division walls shall be of legal thickness for party walls and be provided with a legal battlement

Where concentrated loads occur on spans of twenty-six (26) feet or less walls shall be not less than thirteen (13) inches thick with pilasters projecting not less than four (4) inches For spans over twenty-six (26) feet four (4) inches shall be added to the projection or thickness of pilasters for each additional thirteen (13) feet or fraction thereof

Pilasters shall have a width of not less than eight (8) inches plus one tenth of the distance center to center of pilasters

No thirteen (13) inch wall shall be over twenty-two (22) feet in height between pilasters or thirty (30) feet in height between steel or concrete columns designed to take bending from wind

The maximum distance between pilasters shall be eighteen (18) feet for thirteen (13) inch walls twenty-four (24) feet for eighteen (18) inch walls and thirty-two (32) feet for twenty-two (22) inch walls Provided that thirteen (13) inch walls with four (4) inch pilasters are not over eighteen (18) feet high

All walls having thirteen (13) inch pilasters or over shall be considered as having the proper piers or buttresses for lengths of buildings over one hundred and twenty-five (125) feet

Where openings in walls exceed fifty (50 percent of the length of the wall center to center of piers in Second and Third class construction the piers or sections of walls between openings shall have a width of at least thirty (30) percent of the distance center to center of piers with a thickness of at least eighteen (18) inches for the upper story and shall be increased four (4) inches for every two stories in height Provided that piers or sections of walls may be of a lesser width if the same number of square inches are provided in the cross section of the pier or wall but in no case to be less than eighteen (18) inches in thickness The unsupported height of piers shall not exceed ten times their least dimension For spans exceeding twenty-six (26) feet in width four (4) inches shall be added for every thirteen (13) feet or fraction thereof in excess of twenty-six (26) feet except that non-bearing wall piers may be eighteen (18) inches in thickness in the two uppermost stories increasing four (4) inches in thickness for every two additional stories

These requirements shall apply to all walls irrespective of length Provided that in no case shall the masonry be stressed to a greater limit than the allowable loads prescribed in this code for the kind of material used in a wall

Section 1303 Door and window openings Openings for doors and windows in all buildings except as provided for in the chapter on Dwellings or otherwise shall have good and sufficient arches of solid or hollow masonry or terra-cotta well built and keyed with abutments or shall have lintels of stone with bearings not less than four (4) inches or of masonry on shelf angle which need not be fireproofed On the inside of all openings six (6) feet or less in width in buildings other than First class or Intermediate construction in which the lintels shall be less than the thickness of the wall to be supported there may be a proper size timber lintel which shall rest at each end not less than four and one-half (4½) inches on the wall and shall be beveled on each end and shall have a double counter or dead arch turned over the same Openings over six (6) feet and less than eight (8) feet in width shall have the inside lintel of iron steel or reinforced concrete All lintels eight (8) feet and over in width shall be iron or steel or reinforced concrete beams or girders All exterior window sills shall be of stone or other hard incombustible material

Section 1304 Spanning of other openings All masonry arches spanning other openings shall be solid through the thickness of the wall with a rise of at least one (1) inch per foot of span and properly buttressed or anchored All iron steel or reinforced concrete beams or girders used as lintels to span openings eight (8) feet or over in width and not exceeding twelve (12) feet upon which a wall rests when not supported by iron or steel jamb boxes shall have a bearing of at least eight (8) inches at each end by the thickness of the wall supported For openings over twelve (12) inches In all cases the bearing shall be sufficient to support so by plates or the filling of masonry if hollow All iron or steel or reinforced concrete beams or girders used in any building shall be throughout not less in width than the thickness of the wall to be supported

Section 1305 Chases and recesses Except as provided in chapter forty-three on Dwellings no chases or recesses shall be permitted in party walls or in fire walls or fire division walls or in nine (9) inch walls or within the required area of piers No horizontal chase shall exceed four (4) feet in length nor shall the horizontal projection of any diagonal chase exceed four (4) feet Recesses for stairways or elevators may be left in walls but in no case shall the walls at such points be less than the required thickness of walls of the fourth story above the ground floor unless reinforced by additional piers by steel or reinforced concrete girders or steel or reinforced concrete columns and girders securely anchored to the walls on each side of such recesses and in no case shall any recess be made in any wall more than one-third of its required thickness Recesses for alcoves shall be not more than eight (8) feet in width and shall be arched over or spanned with lintels and not carried up higher than eighteen (18) inches below the floor next above The aggregate area of recesses in any wall shall not exceed one-fourth the whole area of the face of the wall in any story nor shall any such recess be made within a distance of six (6) feet of any other one in the same wall.

Section 1306 Carrying up and bonding or anchoring of walls In no case shall any wall or walls of any building be carried up more than two stories in advance of any other wall without the permission of the Bureau The front rear side and party walls shall either be properly bonded together or anchored to each other every six (6) feet in their height by wrought-iron tie anchors not less than one and one-half (1½) inches by three-eighths (⅜) of an inch in size When walls are not bonded together the said anchors shall be built into the side or party walls not less than sixteen (16) inches and into the front and rear walls in such manner as to secure the front and rear walls to the side or party walls

Section 1307 Protection against freezing No masonry shall be built when the temperature is below 28 degrees F on a rising temperature or 32 degrees on a falling temperature at the point where the work is in progress unless provision be made to protect against freezing No frozen materials shall be built upon

Section 1308 Use of existing walls An existing masonry wall may be used in the renewal or extension of a building or may be increased in height beyond that allowed by this code for walls of its existing thickness and materials of construction provided that such wall is structurally sound or can be made so by reasonable repairs In no case shall linings be less than eight (8) inches thick and laid in cement mortar The foundations and lateral support shall be equivalent to those elsewhere required for newly constructed walls under similar conditions All linings shall be thoroughly bonded into existing masonry No existing wall shall be increased in height or be used for renewal or extension of a building without permission of the Bureau

Section 1309 Removal of walls No existing walls in any building shall be removed so as to leave an undivided floor area in excess of that permitted in this code

SOLID MASONRY WALLS

CHAPTER 14 Stone Walls

Section 1400 Quality of materials Stones shall be hard and durable free from seams and flaws that would affect their serviceability or strength as large as practicable for the intended work and of approved quality and shape In rubble work no stone shall have less bed than face

Section 1401 Mortar Except as provided in chapter forty-three on "Dwellings" stone walls above ground story levels shall be laid in cement mortar or in cement lime mortar

Section 1402 Bond and workmanship All stone walls shall be laid to a line plumb and straight and shall be faced on both sides No stone shall be laid in a rubble wall other than a dwelling in any other position than on its natural bed Walls twenty-four (24) inches or less in thickness shall have at least one header extending through the walls every three (3) feet in height from the bottom of the wall and every four (4) feet in length and if over twenty-four (24) inches in thickness shall have one header for every six (6) superficial feet on both sides of the wall All headers shall consist of good flat stones Each stone shall be thoroughly bedded in mortar under the entire area in such manner that it will not rock All interstices between individual stones must be thoroughly filled with mortar and if the spaces should be large pieces of stone must be driven into the mortar

Section 1403 Working stresses The maximum allowable compressive stresses in rubble stonework due to combined live and dead loads shall not exceed one hundred and forty (140) pounds per square inch when laid in cement mortar one hundred (100) pounds per square inch in cement-lime mortar and seventy (70) pounds per square inch in lime mortar

Section 1404 Thickness The thickness of stone walls shall be the same as provided for in section 1502 except that rubble stone walls shall be four (4) inches thicker than is required for solid brick walls but in no part less than sixteen (16) inches The minimum thickness for walls or piers of ashlar masonry properly bonded shall be the same as required for solid brick walls and piers under similar conditions

CHAPTER 15 Brick Walls

Section 1500 Quality of materials Brick clay and shale sand-lime brick concrete brick all of which units are included wherever the word brick occurs in this code and other units of similar size and shape used for bearing or non-bearing walls piers party walls fire walls and fire division walls when delivered on the site shall have a compressive strength of not less than two thousand two hundred and fifty (2250) pounds per square inch of gross cross-sectional area tested in the position as laid in the wall This figure shall represent the average of five tests with a minimum for any sample of two thousand (2000) pounds per square inch except that one only may have a compressive strength of not less than eighteen hundred (1800) pounds per square inch All brick shall be well burned well shaped and free from such cracks warpage stones pebbles or particles of lime as would affect their serviceability or strength except as provided in Section 4305 All sand-lime bricks shall be of compact pasture reasonably uniform in shape and free from such cracks warpage large pebbles balls of clay or particles of lime as would affect their serviceability or strength All concrete brick shall be free from such cracks or irregularities as would affect their serviceability or strength and shall be made from cement and suitable aggregate Where cinders are used as aggregate they shall conform to the requirements stipulated in the chapter on fireproofing The Chief may require a brand or other mark of identification to be pressed into any material covered by this section

Section 1501 Working stresses The maximum allowable compressive stresses in clay and shale brick sand lime brick and concrete brick masonry due to combined live and dead loads shall not exceed the following Where these units are used the average compressive strength of which is not less than four thousanr five hundred (4500) pounds per square inch when tested as defined in section 1500 three hundred (300) pounds per square inch when laid in cement mortar two hundred and twenty-five (225) pounds per square inch when laid in cement-lime mortar and one hundred (100) pounds per square inch when laid in lime mortar Where these units are used the average compressive strength of which is not less than three thousand (3000) pounds per square inch two hundred and fifty (250) two hundred (200) and ninety-five (95) respectively and where these units are used the average compressive strength of which is not less than two thousand two hundred and fifty (2250) pounds per square inch two hundred (200) one hundred and seventy (170) and ninety (90) pounds respectively Nothing in this section shall be construed to prevent the Chief from permitting stresses on masonry not to exceed four hundred (400) pounds per square inch where the units used have an ultimate compressive strength in excess of four thousand five hundred (4500) pounds per square inch when such bricks are laid in cement mortar with all vertical joints filled and all bed joints are filled and not grooved and where the workmanship is supervised in a manner satisfactory to the Chief

Section 1502 Thickness of exterior and interior walls party walls and piers other than in skeleton construction The thickness of walls for business manufacturing and public buildings twenty-five (75) to one hundred and twenty-five (125) feet long by twenty-six (26) feet or less clear span shall not be less than the number of inches in the following table for story heights as stipulated in Section 1301 and as further governed by openings and other provisions set forth in Chapter 13

	STORIES
	First	Second	Third	Fourth	Fifth	Sixth	Seventh	Eighth	Ninth	Tenth	Eleventh	Twelfth
One-story	13
Two-Story	13	13
Three-story	13	13	13
Four-story	18	18	13	13
Five-story	22	18	18	13	13
Six-story	22	22	13	18	13	13
Seven-story	26	22	22	18	18	13	13
Eight-story	26	26	22	22	18	18	13	13
Nine-story	30	26	26	22	22	18	18	13	13
Ten-story	30	30	26	26	22	22	18	18	13	13
Eleven-story	34	30	30	26	26	22	22	18	18	13	13
Twelve-story	34	34	30	30	26	26	22	22	18	18	13	13

For buildings of the same character less than seventy-five (75) feet long also hotels apartment and tenement houses the thickness of the walls may be reduced by making the three upper stories thirteen (13) inches thick and following from that down to the lowest story in the same sequence as in the above table Non-bearing walls of buildings hereinbefore in this section specified may be four (4) inches less in thickness Provided however that none are less than thirteen (13) inches thick except as hereinafter specified If there is to be a clear span of over twenty-six (26) feet between walls the bearing walls shall be four (4) inches more in thickness than is in this section specified for every thirteen (13) feet or fraction thereof the said walls are more than twenty-six (26) feet apart all buildings over one hundred and twenty-five (125) feet in length or depth without a cross wall or proper piers or buttresses shall have the side or bearing walls increased in thickness four (4) inches more than is specified for every seventy-five (75) feet or fraction thereof that said walls are over one hundred and twenty-five (125) feet in length The amount of materials elsewhere herein specified may be used in either piers or buttresses but no curtain wall between such pier or buttress shall be less than thirteen (13) inches thick Walls surrounding stairs elevator shafts fire escapes and light wells if of solid masonry shall not be less than eight (8) inches thick but they shall be increased in thickness with the increase in height of a sufficient extent to keep the load on the masonry within the maximum load elsewhere herein specified Nothing in this Section shall be construed to prevent the erection of light wells constructed of a framework of iron or steel filled in with glass Stores warehouses and factories over twenty-six (26) feet clear span shall have the floors carried on solid masonry partition walls or girders supported by columns of wood iron steel or reinforced concrete or piers of masonry Iron or steel trusses or girders or reinforced concrete girders may be used Provided the supporting walls are increased in thickness by the addition of piers or buttresses to a sufficient extent to keep the load on the masonry within the maximum load elsewhere herein specified

Section 1503 Bond mortar and workmanship In brick walls at least every seventh course of brick shall be a heading course except where walls are faced with face brick in which case at least every seventh course shall be bonded with Flemish headers or by cutting the corners of the face brick and putting diagonal headers behind the same or iron ties

All walls of brick shall be thoroughly bonded and solidly put together and shall be built to a line plumb level and straight all bricks to be laid and bedded with well-filled joints Every course when laid shall have the joints well flushed up all bed joints not covered are to be struck The brick walls below the curb level of all buildings other than as provided for in Chapter forty-three on Dwellings shall be laid in cement mortar Piers built for the support of any column post or wall shall be laid in cement mortar Provided that this section shall not be construed to prohibit the use of cement-lime mortar when in the judgment of the Chief the nature of the construction may permit its use

CHAPTER 16 Plain Concrete Walls

Section 1600 Working stresses The maximum allowable stresses in masonry of plain concrete of the materials and proportions specified in Section 1103 for a 2000 pound concrete due to combined dead and live loads shall not exceed four hundred (400) pounds per square inch in compression thirty-five (35) pounds per square inch in tension or diagonal tension or ninety (90) pounds per square inch in punching shear When plain concrete of greater strength is used the foregoing stresses may be increased to twenty (20) percent of the ultimate compressive strength for concrete in compression two (2) percent in tension or diagonal tension and four and one-half (4½) per cent in punching shear

Section 1601 Thickness Except as otherwise provided in Chapter 43 on Dwellings the minimum thickness of plain concrete bearing walls shall be not less than eighty (80) percent of the thickness of solid brick walls as regulated by Section 1502 and in no case less than one-eighteenth of the clear story height for the top story and one-twentieth of the clear story height for lower stories Hollow monolithic walls of plain concrete shall have the same net cross section area of material irrespective of the space within the wall as required for solid walls The inner and outer parts of such walls shall be securely braced and tied together with noncorrodible ties or other means to bring them into common action Where floor and roof systems are carried by such walls provision shall be made for the distribution of these loads to the full cross section of the wall All plain concrete walls shall otherwise be in accordance with the provisions of Chapter 13 on Wall and Pier Requirements in General

CHAPTER 17 Solid Concrete Block Walls

Section 1700 Quality of materials When delivered on the site the average ultimate compressive strength of solid concrete block used for bearing walls except as hereinafter excepted shall be not less than two thousand (2000) pounds per square inch of gross cross sectional area This figure shall represent the average of five tests when tested in the position as laid in the walls with a minimum for any individual sample of sixteen hundred (1600) pounds per square inch All solid concrete block shall be sound of compact structure reasonably uniform in shape free from such cracks warpage or foreign substance as would affect their serviceability or strength and shall be made from Portland cement and suitable aggregate Where cinders are used they shall conform to the requirements in Section 2702

Section 1701 Working stresses and thickness The maximum allowable compressive stresses in masonry of solid concrete block shall be not more than two hundred (200) pounds per square inch when laid in cement mortar and one hundred and seventy (170) pounds per square inch when laid in cement-lime mortar and ninety (90) pounds per square inch when lime mortar is used Wall thickness shall be the same as called for in Section 1502 for solid brick walls

Section 1702 Bond mortar and workmanship Solid concrete blocks shall be bonded at each course by lapping each block one-half over the unit below Mortar shall be carefully placed to insure a full bed and contact and all vertical joints shall be fully mortared and all walls shall be plumb level and straight

Section 1703 Marking All concrete block complying with the provisions of this Chapter shall be clearly marked by the manufacturer with a means of identification All unmarked solid concrete block shall be rated in accordance with Section 1900

CHAPTER 18 Party Walls Fire Walls and Fire Division Walls

Section 1800 Party walls All new party walls of buildings hereafter erected shall be built solidly from the bottom up and extended as a parapet or battlement at least three (3) feet above or beyond the roof covering except in dwellings and buildings of similar light construction when they shall extend at least ten (10) inches above or beyond the roof covering Such walls above roofs shall be at least as thick as the wall of the story beneath except that they need not in any case be more than thirteen (13) inches thick provided that the height does not exceed four times the thickness without being latterally supported Such walls shall be of solid masonry in cement mortar and shall be coped with salt glazed tile stone metal or other hard incombustible material Where the roof is mansard unless the same is constructed of fireproof material throughout the lower slope of said wall shall extend at least six (6) inches distant and parallel with the roof covering and be corbeled to the outer edge of all projections and coped with incombustible material Provided that with the approval and under the supervision of the Bureau openings may be made in party walls of contiguous buildings All parapets or battlements of exterior walls shall be governed by the same structural requirements as for party walls

Section 1801 Construction and thickness of party walls Except as may be otherwise provided in Chapter 43 on Dwellings all party walls shall be built of solid masonry which shall meet the requirements of the Sections relating to such materials and of the thickness required in Chapters 14 and 15

Section 1802 Wall encroachments and party lines Any lot of the width of sixteen (16) feet or less shall not be encumbered with more than nine (9) inches of any stone foundation basement or cellar wall or more than four and one-half (4½) inches of the wall above any lot of greater width than sixteen (16) feet shall not be encumbered with more than ten (10) inches for the stone wall nor more than six and one-half (6½) inches for the wall above nor in any case shall any lot be encumbered with more than one-half the thickness of the party wall Footings of all buildings of the skeleton frame type having exterior curtain walls shall be kept back six and one-half (6½) inches from the party line

Section 1803 Insertions in party walls Wooden joists rafters or other timbers in the party walls of any buildings hereafter erected shall be separated from the joists or timbers entering into the opposite side of the wall by at least four (4) inches of solid masonry except that in dwellings not over three stories in height the separation may be two (2) inches of solid incombustible material Other than such separated structural timbers no studs stringers or other woodwork shall be inserted in a party wall except light nailing strips or plugs Battlement walls of dwellings may have roofing paper or other flashing material entered two (2) inches on either side

Section 1804 Chases and Recesses No recesses chases or other depressions or cuttings of any kind shall be permitted in any party wall that would decrease its required thickness except as provided for in Chapter forty-three on Dwellings

Section 1805 Examination of existing party walls Inspectors of buildings shall upon the application of any owner or owners of any buildings or their authorized agents or upon the application of any person or persons about to erect any new building or buildings examine any or all existing party or division walls and if they are deemed by the inspector to be defective out of repair or insufficient and unfit for the purpose of the old building existing upon the adjoining premises or of the new buildings about to be erected such party or division wall or walls shall be repaired or made good or taken down by the parties building as the inspector's decision may be In every case where such wall or walls are defective out of repair or insufficient for the purpose of the buildings there existing upon the adjoining premises and using the same the cost or expense of such repair or removal together with the expense of the new wall or walls to be erected in lieu thereof shall be borne and paid by the owner of said buildings upon the adjoining premises and the party erecting the new buildings in proportion to the amount of such wall or walls which is or shall be respectively used by their said buildings and in every case where such wall or walls are defective out of repair or insufficient only for the purpose of the new buildings the cost and expense of such repair or removal together with the expense of the new wall or walls to be erected in lieu thereof shall then be borne and paid exclusively by the parties erecting the new buildings and they shall also in such case make good all damages occasioned thereby to the adjoining premises

Section 1806 Use of existing party walls Walls heretofore built for or used as party walls whose thickness at the time of their erection was in accordance with the requirements of the then existing laws but which are not in accordance with the requirements of this code may be used if in good condition for the ordinary use of party walls Provided the height of the same be not increased In case it is desired to increase the height of existing party or independent walls which walls are less in thickness than required under this code the same may be done with a lining of brickwork to form a combined thickness with the old walls of not less than four (4) inches more than the thickness required for a new wall corresponding with the total height of the wall when so increased in height The said lining shall be supported on proper foundations and carried up to such height as the Bureau may require No lining shall be less than nine (9) inches in thickness and all lining shall be laid up in cement mortar and thoroughly anchored to the old brick walls with suitable wrought-iron anchors placed two (2) feet apart and properly fastened or driven into the old walls in rows alternating vertically and horizontally with each other the old walls being first cleaned of plaster and other coatings where any lining is to be built against the same In all cases where there is such increase of walls a new foundation shall be built in such manner as to carry jointly both the new and old walls and the soil under such foundation shall not be loaded beyond the limits specified in chapter eight of this code This section shall not be construed to prohibit the raising of the party walls in dwellings an additional story if upon inspection the walls are found good and the load on the solid masonry is within the maximum specified in the chapter on Dwellings

Section 1807 Underpinning of existing party walls Whenever the owner or owners of property wish to excavate to a depth below the bottom of any existing party or other walls wholly or partly upon adjoining land and standing upon or near the boundary line of said lot upon which the excavation is made the owner or owners of the ground to be excavated shall protect and underpin such existing party or other walls and the buildings of which they form a part which may be located wholly or partly upon adjoining land or in proximity to such excavation If the owner or owners of ground upon which an excavation is made refuse to underpin or protect any party or other walls or buildings wholly or partly upon adjoining land or in proximity to such excavation after having had notice of twenty-four hours from the Bureau so to do any inspector of the Bureau may enter upon the premises and employ such labor and take such steps as in his judgement may be necessary to make the same safe and secure or to prevent the same from becoming unsafe or dangerous at the expense of the person or persons owning the ground on which the excavation is made and any person or persons doing said work or any part thereof under and by the direction of said inspector may bring and maintain an action against the owner or owners or any one of them of the ground on which an excavation is made for any work done or materials furnished in and about the said or any adjoining premises in the same manner as if he had been employed to do the work by the owner or owners of the premises excavated

Section 1808 Fire walls Fire walls when not built upon party lines or within six and one-half (6½) inches of same may in addition to the materials prescribed in this chapter for Party Walls be constructed also of reinforced concrete or of plain concrete when conforming otherwise to the requirements of this chapter and to the chapters relating to walls of the materials of which constructed

Section 1809 Fire division walls Fire division walls shall be constructed the same as Fire Walls In buildings for storage and heavy manufacturing purposes such fire division walls shall be not less than thirteen (13) inches thick

Section 1810 Openings in fire walls fire division walls and enclosures Openings may be made in fire walls and fire division walls of the size number and character as determined by the Chief if protected by fire doors as provided herein Each opening shall be provided with two sets of approved fire doors separated by the thickness of the wall or division These doors shall be constructed and hung in accordance with rules promulgated by the Chief Openings in enclosure walls of fire resistive construction other than herein provided for shall have metal frames or studs securely fastened to floor and ceiling Structural members and such metal frames or studs shall be approved by the Chief No wood for framing or fastening shall be used for such openings Provided that this section shall not apply to private dwellings nor to one-story buildings used only for working in non-combustible materials

CHAPTER 19 Hollow Masonry Walls

Section 1900 Quality of materials Hollow-burned clay tile shall have a compressive strength of not less than one thousand (1000) pounds per square inch of gross cross sectional area when tested with the cells vertical and seven hundred (700) pounds per square inch of gross cross sectional area when tested with the cells horizontal. This figure shall represent the average of five tests with a minimum for any individual sample of twenty percent from the stated averages Tiles shall have outer shell or wall not less than seven-eighths inches thick in its least dimensions All interior webs shall be not less than three-fourths inches in thickness. Non-bearing walls of hollow tile in spandrel walls may have five-eighths of any inch thickness of outer shell and webs provided the unsupported length of the shell and web is not over six (6) inches Tiles shall be constructed with at least fifty (50) percent solid material and shall be free from such cracks wrapage pebbles or particles of lime as would affect their serviceability or strength

Hollow concrete block hollow concrete tile and solid unmarked concrete block When delivered on the site the average ultimate compressive strength of hollow concrete block hollow concrete tile or solid unmarked concrete block shall be not less than one thousand (1000) pounds per square inch of gross cross sectional area for the average of five specimens tested with a minimum of not less than eight hundred (800) pounds per square inch for any one specimen All hollow concrete block and hollow concrete tile shall have at least fifty (50) per cent solid material Where exposed to the weather they shall have walls of sufficient thickness so that the exposed surface including any stucco or other facing shall be at least two (2) inches in thickness Blocks and tiles shall be sound of compact structure reasonably uniform in shape free from such cracks warpage or foreign substances as would affect their serviceability or strength and shall be made from cement and suitable aggregate Where cinders are used the same shall conform to the requirements for Cinders stipulated in Section 2702

Brick Brick and other units of similar size and shape made of clay shale or other material and used for hollow walls shall conform to the requirements of Section 1500

Section 1901 Working stresses For walls of burned clay tile and hollow walls of clay and shale brick sand-lime brick or concrete brick hollow concrete block and hollow concrete tile and solid unmarked concrete block masonry the allowable compressive stresses due to dead and live load shall not exceed eighty (80) pounds per square inch of gross cross sectional area when laid in cement mortar and seventy (70) pounds per square inch of gross sectional area when laid in cement-lime or masons cement mortar

Section 1902. Thickness and Height other than in Party Walls and in Skeleton Construction Walls of hollow burned clay tile hollow concrete block or hollow concrete tile solid unmarked concrete block or hollow walls of brick in dwellings and third class buildings for human occupancy shall be constructed as called for in Section 1503 and shall not exceed four stories in height The thickness shall be governed by the upper four stories of wall thickness set forth in Section 1502 and in Chapter 13 One story buildings not over five thousand (5000) square feet in area for commercial occupancy other than highly hazardous may be constructed with the walls not less than nine (9) inches thick

Section 1903 Bond mortar and workmanship When two or more hollow units are used to make up the thickness of walls the inner and outer courses shall be bonded at vertical intervals not exceeding three courses by lapping at least one cell completely over a cell of the unit below Suitable provision shall be made at each line of floor joists or beams in hollow walls or walls of hollow units to shut off the spaces above from those below and to insure good bearing for beams and uniform distribution of loads Where walls of hollow building units are decreased in thickness the top course of the thicker wall shall be made solid or other adequate means for supporting the full web section of the units above shall be provided All hollow units shall be placed with the cells in alignment and the mortar on all cells of hollow units set vertically shall be carefully placed to insure a full bed and contact All vertical joints shall be at least fully mortared at the inside and outside faces and all walls shall be plumb level and straight No lime mortar shall be used for walls of hollow unit construction or hollow walls of brick except as otherwise provided in Chapter 43 on Dwellings

Section 1904 Piers Hollow burned clay tile hollow concrete block hollow concrete tile or hollow walls of brick shall not be used for isolated piers unless solidly filled with concrete The unsupported height of such piers shall not exceed ten times their least horizontal dimension

Section 1905 Marking All hollow concrete block shall be marked in accordance with the provisions of Section 1703 for solid concrete block

CHAPTER 20 Veneered Walls

Section 2000 Quality and kind of materials Materials used in the backing and veneering of veneered walls shall conform in all respects to the requirements prescribed for such materials in the chapters on Masonry in this code Stone or architectural terra-cotta ashlar or other approved masonry material used for structural veneering shall be not less than three (3) inches thick and for applied veneering not less than seven-eighths (⅞) inches

Section 2001 Working stresses The maximum allowable compressive stresses on the backing of veneered walls due to combined live and dead loads shall not exceed those elsewhere In no case shall the veneering be considered a part of the wall in computing the strength of bearing walls nor shall it prescribed for masonry of the type which forms such backing be considered a part of the required thickness of the wall

Section 2002 Attachment of veneering When walls are veneered with brick terra-cotta stone or concrete trim the veneering shall be tied into the backing either by a header for every three hundred (300) square inches of wall surface or by substantial non-corrodible metal anchors or clamps spaced not farther apart than sixteen (16) inches vertically and two (2) feet horizontally

Section 2003 Height and thickness Except in skeleton construction veneered walls shall not exceed forty (40) feet in height above foundations and the thickness of such walls exclusive of the veneer shall be regulated by the requirements for the uppermost stories in Section 1502

CHAPTER 21 Faced Walls

Section 2100 Quality and kind of materials Materials used in the backing and facing of faced walls shall conform in all respects to the requirements prescribed for such materials in the chapters on Masonry in this code

Section 2101 Working stresses The maximum allowable compressive stresses on faced walls due to combined live and dead loads shall not exceed those elsewhere prescribed for masonry of the type which forms the backing Where bonded to the backing as provided hereinafter the full cross section of the facing may be considered in computing bearing strength

Section 2102 Height and thickness Faced walls may be of the same height but shall be not less in thickness than is required for masonry walls of the type which forms the backing Where bonded to the backing as provided herein the facing may be considered a part of the wall thickness

Section 2103 Bond Brick facing shall be bonded to walls of brick or of hollow burned clay tile or of solid or hollow concrete block or hollow concrete tile with at least one header course in every seven courses or there shall be at least one full length header in every seventy-two (72) square inches of wall surface Stone ashlar facing shall have at least 20 per cent of the superficial area not less than three and three-quarter (3¾) inches thicker than the remainder of the facing to form bond stones which shall be uniformly distributed throughout the wall When some stones in every alternate course are at least seven and one-half (7½) inches thick bonded into the backing at least three and three-quarter (3¾) inches and at least 20 per cent of the superficial area of the wall is constituted of such bond stone uniformly distributed the ashlar facing may be counted as part of the wall thickness. Every stone not a bond stone and every projecting stone not a bond stone shall be securely anchored to the backing with substantial non-corrodible metal anchors

CHAPTER 22 Spandrel Walls Curtain Walls and Similar Non-Load-Bearing Walls

Section 2200 Such walls shall be not less than nominal nine (9) inch walls in thickness and shall be constructed of the classes of materials heretofore designated as masonry Such materials other than brick sand lime brick concrete brick and other units made of clay or shale of similar sizes and shape shall have an average ultimate compressive strength of not less than seventy-five (75) per cent of that specified in Chapters 14 16 and 19 Thickness of web area etc may be reduced proportionately

CHAPTER 23 Interior Partitions

Section 2300 Bearing partitions All interior bearing walls except party walls fire walls and fire division walls shall be considered as bearing partitions and shall be constructed of materials meeting the standards required by the various classifications in this code Where not utilized as party fire or fire division walls partitions exclusive of plaster shall be not less than one-eighteenth of the height between floors or floor beams and shall otherwise meet the provisions of Section 1502 and Chapter 13 on Wall Requirements in General

Section 2301 Non-bearing partitions Such partitions when of masonry shall be as follows Non-bearing partitions of solid or hollow masonry materials or of gypsum block or other similar materials shall be built solidly against floor and ceiling construction below and above and for all classes of construction shall not exceed the following unsupported heights

Thickness exclusive of plaster Inches	Maximum unsupported height Feet
8	25

Section 2302 Plaster Partitions Solid plaster partitions reinforced with steel may be used in any class of construction and shall be not less than 2" thick for heights not exceeding twelve (12) feet nor less than 3" thick for heights not exceeding twenty (20) feet Hollow plaster partitions reinforced with steel shall not exceed twenty (20) feet for their unsupported height

CHAPTER 24 Timber and Woodwork

Section 2400 Quality of Lumber and Timber All lumber and timber shall be equivalent to the commercial association grades conforming to the basic grading provisions prescribed by American Lumber Standards in conformity with Section 600

Section 2401 Sizes of timber When sizes are called for in this chapter or elsewhere in this code they shall be considered as the nominal or commercial sizes of rough lumber but for calculation purposes to determine the required size of lumber and timber members the net cross-sectional area or actual size shall be used and not the nominal size Where nominal sizes are given the actual dressed dimensions conforming to American Lumber Standards shall be accepted In no case shall the corresponding rough sizes be less than permits surfacing to such dressed dimensions

Section 2402 Allowable stresses in timber The Following stresses in pounds per square inch shall not be exceeded

Species	Bending Extreme Fibre Fiber	Horizontal Shear	Compression Perpendicular to Grain	Compression Parallel to Grain	Elasticity Modulus
Southern Long Leaf Yellow Pine	1600	110	345	1175	1600000

Eastern Hemlock	1100	70	300	700	1100000

Douglas Fir and West Coast Hemlock shall be identified by a registered species mark or grade mark or other authentication acceptable to the Chief The Compression in columns and posts equals C minus 20 L/D wherein C is the compression parallel to grain in the above table L is the length in inches and D is the least dimension of the cross section in inches The ratio L/D shall not exceed 40

The permissible stresses other than the minimum on each species specified above shall be determined by tests as required in Chapter Six

Section 2403 Beams and girders The ends of all wooden floor or roof timbers in second class buildings shall enter the wall to a depth of at least four inches and the end of all such beams shall be furnished with plates providing anchorage and shall be so shaped or arranged that in case of fire they may fall without injury to the wall

Roof rafters and floor joist in third class construction shall be properly braced with bridging not less than eight feet apart

All wood beams shall be trimmed away from flues and chimneys Header and trimmer beams shall not be less than four (4) inches from the outside face of the chimney Any header beam supporting a trimmer arch in front of a fireplace shall be not less than sixteen (16) inches from the face of the chimney breast

A wooden beam in a party or fire wall shall be separated from any other beam in the wall by at least four (4) inches of solid masonry except as required in Chapter 43 "Dwellings"

Section 2404 Bolting All bolts in wood construction shall be provided with washers of such porportions that the compression on the wood at the face of the washer will not exceed the working stresses prescribed in this chapter

Section 2405 Stud partitions Stud bearing partitions which rest directly over each other and are not parallel with wood floor beams shall run down between the wood floor beams and rest on the top plate of the partition below and shall have the studding filled in solid between the uprights to the depth of the floor beams with suitable incombustible materials Stud partitions shall not be used for bearing purposes except in dwellings and buildings for human occupancy with a floor load not greater than forty (40) pounds per square foot

CHAPTER 25 Iron and Steel

Section 2500 Skeleton frame The skeleton frame of all structures shall be considered as the columns and all girders beams trusses or spandrels and wind bracing having rigid connections to the columns the members of floor or roof panels which have no connection to the columns shall be considered secondary members

The skeleton frame and secondary members shall be designed and constructed to carry all dead live and other loads to which they may be subjected both during erection and after completion of the structure All members shall be such that the stresses which they may carry can be satisfactorily determined by the analytical methods of engineering practice

The skeleton frame shall provide all the necessary rigidity for the structure except that in the case of building wherein the secondary systems are rigidly attached to the skeleton frame and braced laterally the secondary system may be considered as providing stiffening to aid in transferring the horizontal forces to the foundations

Section 2501 Design The requirements of Section 600 shall govern the designing detailing fabrication and erection of all structural steel

All girders and beams shall be considered as not continuous unless rigid connections to the webs and top and bottom flanges are sufficient to develop the required stresses from beam to beam so that true continuity results

The design must take into full account all dead loads live loads wind or other horizontal forces eccentricity and the effect of any moving loads Allowance shall be made for any undue loading during erection including wind

The stresses produced by the loading and its distribution shall not exceed those hereinafter stated

Section 2502 Material Structural or carbon steel for buildings made by the open hearth or Bessemer process shall conform to standards promulgated by the Chief in order that the stresses specified in section 2504 may be employed for design the ultimate tensile strength shall be between 55,000 and 65,000 pounds per square inch and the minimum elongation of the specimen tested shall not be less than 1,400,000 divided by the ultimate tensile strength

Section 2503 Minimum thickness No steel used in the skeleton frame shall be less than thirty one-hundredths (30/100) inches thick when used for exterior construction nor less than "twenty-three one-hundredths (23/100) inches" for interior construction

These provisions do not apply to rolled steel beams used as light structures such as stairways skylights marquises fire-escapes secondary members of floor and roof panels linings filler or capes light one-story buildings or light miscellaneous steel work

Section 2504 Allowable stresses All parts of the structure shall be so proportioned that the sum of the maximum static stresses in pounds per square inch shall not exceed the following

(a) Tension rolled steel on net section 18,000

(b) Compression rolled steel on short lengths or where lateral deflection is prevented 18,000

Compression in columns

$$= \frac{18000}{1 + \frac{L^2}{18000\ r^2}}$$

With a maximum of 15,000

In which L is the unsupported length of the column and r is the corresponding least radius of gyration of the section both in inches

When a structural steel column is encased in stone concrete it may be designed in conformity with Section 2622

For main compression members the ratio L/r shall not exceed 120 and for bracing and other secondary members 200

(c) Bending On extreme fibres of rolled shapes and built up sections net sections if lateral deflection is prevented 18,000

Modulus of Elasticity 30,000,000

When the unsupported length L exceeds fifteen times b the width of the compression flange stress in pounds per square inch in the latter shall not exceed

$$= \frac{18000}{1 + \frac{L^2}{2000\ b^2}}$$

The laterally unsupported length of beams and girders shall not exceed forty times b the width of the compression flange

On extreme fibres of pins when the forces are assumed as acting at the centre of gravity of the pieces 27,000

(d) Shearing On pins 13,500

On turned bolts in reamed holes with a clearance of not more than 1/50" 13,500

On power-driven rivets 13,500

On hand-driven rivets 10,000

On unfinished bolts 10,000

On the gross area of the webs of beams and girders where H the height between flanges in inches is not more than 60 times t the thickness of the web in inches 12,000

On the gross area of the webs of beam and girders if the web is not stiffened where H the height between flanges in inches is more than 60 times t the thickness of the web the maximum shear per inch S/A shall not exceed

in which S is the total shear and A is gross area of web in square inches

	Double Shear	Single Shear
(e) Bearing On pins	30,000	24,000
On power-driven rivets	30,000	24,000
On turned bolts in reamed holes	30,000	24,000
On hand-driven rivets	20,000	16,000
On unfinished bolts	20,000	16,000

On expansion rollers per lineal inch 600 times the diameter of the roller in inches

(f) Combined stresses For combined stresses due to wind with other loads the permissible working stress may be increased by one-third provided the resulting section is not less than that required by the dead and live loads alone

(g) Members carrying wind only For members carrying wind stresses only the permissible working stresses may be increased by one-third

Section 2505 Combined stresses (a) Members subject to both direct and bending stresses shall be so proportioned that the greatest combined stresses shall not exceed the allowed limits

(b) All members and their connections which are subject to stresses in both tension and compression due to the action of live loads shall be designed to sustain the stress giving the largest section with fifty (50) per cent of the smaller stress added to it If the reversal of stress is due to the action of wind the member shall be designed for the stress giving the largest section and the connections proportioned for the largest stress

(c) Full provision shall be made for stresses caused by eccentric loads

Section 2506 Workmanship All workmanship shall be equal to the best practice in modern structural shops The use of a burning torch is permissible if the burned metal is not carrying stresses during the burning Stresses shall not be transmitted into the metal through a burned surface

Section 2507 Painting (a) Parts not in contact but inaccessible after assembling shall be properly protected by paint

(b) All steel work shall be thoroughly cleaned and except where encased in stone or slag concrete in intimate contact shall be given one coat of acceptable metal protection well worked into the joints and open spaces before leaving the shop and one coat in the field of a paint acceptable to the Chief

(c) Machine finished surfaces shall be protected against corrosion

Section 2508 Erection (a) The frame of all steel skeleton buildings shall be carried up true and plumb and temporary bracing shall be introduced wherever necessary to take care of all loads to which the structure may be subjected including erection equipment and the operation of same Such bracing shall be left in place as long as may be required for safety

(b) As erection progresses the work shall be securely bolted up to take care of all dead loads wind and erection stresses

(c) Wherever piles of material erection equipment or other loads are carried during the erection proper provision shall be made to take care of stresses resulting from the same

(d) No riveting shall be done until the structure has been properly aligned

(e) Rivets driven in the field shall be heated and driven with the same care as those driven in the shop

(f) The skeleton frame must be riveted but secondary members twelve (12) inches or less in depth may be bolted except as provided for in Section 3202

(g) The Chief may approved the use of turned or machined bolts in reamed holes in lieu of rivets provided that he is satisfied that riveting is either impractical or inadvisable

Section 2509 Welded connections Nothing in this code shall prevent the Chief from establishing rules and regulations under which welding may be permitted which rules and regulations shall conform to generally accepted practice

Section 2510 Cast iron Compresssive stresses in hollow cast iron columns shall not exceed values determined by the formula

in which P equals compression in pounds per square inch
L equals length of column in inches
r equals minimum radius of gyration of the column in inches

(c) Cast iron columns shall not be used in any case where the load is so eccentric as to cause tension in the cast iron nor shall they be used for parts of the structural frame of buildings which are required to resist stress due to wind Tensile stresses in the extreme fibre of cast iron lintels or elsewhere except in columns shall not exceed 3000 pounds per square inch

(d) All columns resting on or supporting other columns shall have their ends machine faced to a plane surface perpendicular to the axis

(e) Cast iron shall not be used structurally except for columns column bases and post caps It shall not be used in First class construction

Section 2511 Pipe and concrete columns Except in First and Intermediate class construction circular hollow steel or wrought iron columns filled with concrete may carry a load equal to the capacity of the metal casing plus the capacity of the concrete filling The average unit stress in the casing shall be that specified elsewhere in this section for columns and that in the concrete filling shall be in the same ratio to the unit stress in the casing as the modulus of elasticity of the concrete bears to that of the casing

Section 2512 Special steels Steels containing ingredients other than carbon or manufactued by special processes may be used for structural purposes in conformity with regulations promulgated by the Chief which regulations shall conform to generally accepted practice

CHAPTER 26 Reinforced Concrete

Section 2600 Definition The term Reinforced Concrete in these regulations shall mean an approved concrete mixture in which steel is embedded in such a manner as to resist the tensile stresses and to add rigidity and strength to concrete in compression

Section 2601 Application Reinforced concrete will be approved for all types of building construction provided the design conforms with good engineering practice and the working stresses do not exceed those herein specified

Section 2602 Cement All cement used in reinforced concrete work shall be Portland or other hydraulic cement meeting the standards promulgated by the Chief

Section 2603 Fine aggregate Fine aggregate shall be clean and well graded sand crushed stone or gravel screenings air cooled blast furnace slag or other generally accepted materials which when used for concrete mixes will produce a concrete of the required strength and fire resistance when tested in conformity with Chapter Six (6) The largest particles shall pass when dry a screen having holes not larger than one-quarter inch in diameter Not more than six (6) percent shall pass a screen of 100 meshes per lineal inch

Section 2604 Coarse aggregate Coarse aggregate shall consist of clean well-graded crushed stone gravel air cooled blast furnace slag or other generally accepted materials which when used for concrete mixes will produce a concrete of the required strength and fire resistance when tested in conformity with Chapter Six (6) The largest particles shall pass when dry through a one and one-quarter inch diameter ring and all particles must be retained on a screen having holes one-quarter inch in diameter Sizes passing a 2¼ inch ring may be used in foundations walls 12 inches or more in thickness and slabs over 6 inches thick

Section 2605 Reinforcement Steel used in reinforced concrete shall meet the standard requirements for plain or deformed bars as promulgated by the Chief and shall be of new billet or standard rail steel grade All requirements for quality shall conform to those nationally recognized as standard practice

Section 2606 Defects in reinforcement Steel for reinforcement shall be free from excessive rust scale grease paint or any coating which would tend to reduce or destroy the bond between the steel and the concrete Bars shall also be free from injuries seams slivers flaws and other mill defects The weight of any lot of bars shall not vary more than five per cent from the standard weight of the lot as given by manufacturers' handbooks

Section 2607 Design of concrete Concrete shall consist of a mixture of a plastic or viscuous consistency in the proportions hereinafter specified for the various classes of stresses

Section 2608 Inspection All structural concrete work shall be inspected and tested by an inspector possessing the requisite technical knowledge to proportion the mixing and to make the tests set forth elsewhere in the code Written reports of the results of such inspections and tests shall be filed with the Bureau Field tests shall be made on all reinforced concrete work in conformity with requirements promulgated by the Chief

Section 2609 Mixing of concrete The measuring and mixing of the cement the fine aggregate the coarse aggregate and the water shall be done by mechanical means in conformity with standard requirements promulgated by the Chief

Ready mixed concrete delivered from central mixing plants may be used after demonstrations conducted in co-operation with the Chief have shown that the strength of the concrete so delivered meets with the requirements of this Code

The concrete shall be proportioned by the inspector to give the necessary workability without exceeding the following ratios by volume of water to cement the ratio of cement to the sum of separated volumes of dry and rodded fine and coarse aggregates shall be as indicated in the following table The strengths indicated below represent the minimum strength in compression which must show in the tests at the end of twenty-eight days as specified hereinafter

Approximate Volume of Portland cement to sum of separate volumes of dry and rodded fine and coarse aggregate	Water-cement ratio United States gallons per ninety-four pounds sack of cement	Assumed ultimate strength at twenty-eight days
1—8—½	8—¼	1500
1—6—½	7—½	2000
1—5—½	6—¾	2500
1—5	6	3000

Water or moisture contained in the aggregate and ascertained by daily tests must be included in determining the ratio of water to cement

Section 2610 Thickness of concrete fireproofing Where structural steel is used as column cores the thickness of concrete fire proofing shall be not less than four (4) inches

Around reinforcing bars in columns	2	inches
At bottom of girders	2	"
At sides of girders	1½	"
At bottom and sides of beams	1½	"
At bottom of joists	1	"
At sides of joists	1	"
Of slabs	1	"

The fireproofing of other structural steel shall conform to the requirements of Section 2701

Section 2611 Modulus of elasticity of concrete The following shall be taken as the ratio of the modulus of elasticity of the reinforcing steel to that of the concrete of the grades indicated

1 Uultimate stresses up to and including 2000 lbs ratior..15
2 " " over 2000 lbs and up to and including 2500 lbs ratio 12
3 Ultimate stresses over 2500 lbs ratio 10

Section 2612 Working stresses in concrete The following indicates the percentage of the ultimate strength which may be used for design

Direct compression 25%
Columns
1 With spirals as defined in Section 2620
2 Longitudinal reinforcement and lateral ties on gross area of concrete 25%

Piers and pedestals 25%
Compression in extreme fiber
1 Extreme fiber stress in compression 40%
2 Extreme fiber stress in compression adjacent to supports of continuous beams 45%
Tension in concrete members .....None

Shear
1 Beams without web reinforcement 2%
2 Beams with web reinforcement and longitudinal bars having special anchorage 9%

Bond
1 Deformed bars 5%
2 Plain bars 4%

Bearing on a reinforced concrete surface having a greater area than that of the loaded portion may be increased proportionally until 37½% of the ultimate strength of the concrete may be used when the said surface is three or more times the area of the loaded portion

Section 2613 Working stresses in reinforcing steel These shall be 13,000 per square inch in tension and steel in compression shall be figured at a stress equivalent to the compressive stress of the concrete times the ratio given in Section 2611

Section 2614 Assumptions for design The design of reinforced concrete structures shall be in conformity with Section 600 Slag concrete shall be considered in all respects as equal to stone concrete

Section 2615 Self-centering Self-centering shall not be considered as furnishing section to take tension in slabs of reinforced concrete

Section 2616 Thickness of slabs The minimum thickness of floor slabs shall be two and one-half (2½) inches and roof slabs two (2) inches Up to a span of 2 feet 6 inches

This need not apply in one-way or two-way composite floors containing filler blocks so designed as to permit of mechanical bond between the blocks and the concrete

Section 2617 Floor Finish The cement finish of a concrete floor shall not be considered in calculating the strength of floor members unless it is an integral part of the slab laid at the same time that the slab is poured

Section 2618 Composite floors Composite floors consisting of a combination of reinforced concrete and fillers are permitted provided that their design is based on rational theory in conformity with this code or on formulas developed from tests made in conformity with this code and that such design has been substantiated by tests as heretofore described and provided that all materials entering into the construction are fireproof

No filler block shall be considered as adding to the strength of the girders or beams supporting the floor systems nor shall they be considered as adding to the strength of the floor systems unless such fillers are so designed as to permit of mechanical bond between the blocks and the concrete between them The unit stresses in this code and in the fillers shall be proportioned in conformity with this code but no filler shall be considered as acting in this respect that has a compressive strength of less than sixty per cent of the concrete the effective width of a joist shall not be taken at more than the actual width of the concrete plus half the thickness of the adjacent shells

Section 2619 Length of columns The length of columns shall be taken as the maximum unsupported length

The unsupported length of column shall not exceed fifteen times the least side or diameter and in no case shall the least side or diameter be less than twelve (12) inches. The length shall include any corbel or knee brace attached to the columns

Section 1620 Columns with spirals The axial load on columns reinforced with longitudinal bars and closely spaced spirals enclosing a circular core shall be not greater than that determined by the following formula

$$W = Ac\ (1 + (n-1)\ p)\quad (300 + (0.10+4p)\ f'c$$

wherein P=Percentage of longitudinal reinforcement
f'c=28 day test strength
Ac=Area of concrete within the spiral

The longitudinal reinforcement shall consist of at least six bars of minimum diameter of one-half inch and the total effective cross-sectional area shall be not less than one per cent more than six per cent of that of the core

The spiral reinforcement shall be not less than one-fourth the volume of the longitudinal reinforcement It shall consist of evenly spaced continuous spirals held firmly in place and true to line by at least three vertical spacer bars The spacing of the spirals shall be not greater than one-sixth of the diameter of the core and in no case more than three inches

Section 2621 Columns without spirals Axial compression in reinforced concrete columns without hoops bands or spirals containing not less than one-half of one per cent nor more than three per cent of vertical reinforcement secured against lateral displacement by steel ties placed not farther apart than fifteen diameters of the vertical rods nor more than twelve inches shall not exceed the stresses given in Section two thousand six hundred twelve and two thousand six hundred thirteen Steel ties shall not be less than one-quarter inch in diameter or least dimension At least four vertical bars shall be used in every reinforced column and no bar shall have an area of less than one-half square inch

in concrete having a minimum thickness of four inches and reinforced with not less than one per cent of steel (that is a volume of concrete within hoops) equally divided between vertical reinforcement and hoops or spirals spaced not more than twelve inches apart may be taken at 18,000 pounds per square inch on the net section of the structural steel no allowance being made for the concrete casing The hoops or spirals shall be placed not nearer than one inch from the structural steel or nearer than one and one-half inches from the outer surface of the concrete The ratio of length to least radius of gyration of the structural steel section shall not exceed one hundred twenty When these columns are reinforced in conformity with Section 600 they may be designed as therein provided

Section 2623 Bearing on footings When a base plate or other bearing is of less area than the surface on which it bears the unit stresses may be increased until they are thirty-seven and one-half per cent of the ultimate 28 day strength of the concrete when the plate is not more than one-third the area of the supporting surface

Section 2624 Construction The construction of forms the placing wiring splicing and protection of reinforcement the deposition of concrete the joints protection against drying and freezing shall be done in a workmanlike manner according to the requirements as promulgated by the Chief

No pipes for steam or water shall be placed within any reinforced concrete slab beam girder column or fireproofing

Section 2625 Removal of forms All reinforced concrete shall be carefully inspected to insure its soundness and reliability before the main supports are removed but in no case shall the forms be removed for the usual 200 pound concrete in less time than given in the following schedule Bottom of slabs spans of 6 feet..... 4 days plus one day extra for each additional foot of span

Bottom of beams and girders of ordinary length	14 days
Beams of span of twenty feet	21 days
Sides of Lintels girders and beams	3 days
Columns	3 days
Thin walls	3 days

Due consideration shall be given to weather conditions loads on floors above and building materials stored thereon which may require all or some of the supports to remain for a longer period of time

When richer mixes or high early strength cements are used the forms may be removed when the concrete has attained a strength equal to the strength of the usual 2000 pound concrete according to the above schedule

Girders of twenty-five feet span or over shall be considered as special cases and shall be subject to the approval of the Chief before removal of the supports

The chief may permit a system of reshores to be used

Section 2626 Exceptions When the mechanical means for the proportioning of the aggregates and the water are not employed in the mixing of the concrete the following shall govern

The amount of water used including the moisture content of the aggregate shall not be more than seven and one-fourth gallons per bag of cement weighing ninety-four pounds In the absence of accurate information the following assumptions may be made

Moisture content of Fire Aggregate one-half gallon per cubic foot

Moisture content of Coarse Aggregate one-eighth gallon per cubic foot

Such concrete shall develop a crushing strength of at least two thousand pounds per square inch at twenty-eight days Test specimens shall be made in the field from the concrete as it is placed in the forms care being taken to obtain a sample representative of the entire batch Written reports of the results of such field tests shall be filed by the inspector with the Bureau in conformity with Section twenty-six hundred eight within forty-eight hours after the completion of tests

Concrete mixed in the proportion of one part of cement to six part of aggregate shall develop a crushing strength of not less than two thousand pounds per square inch in twenty-eight days and the following working stresses shall be used

	Lbs. per sq. in.
Extreme fibre stress on concrete in compression	650
Concrete in direct compression	500
Shearing stress in concrete when diagonal tension is not resisted by steel	40
Shearing stress in concrete when web reinforcement is proportioned to resist two-thirds of the external shear	120
Bond stress between concrete and plain reinforcing bears	80
Bond stress between concrete and deformed bars....	100
Tensile stress in steel reinforcement	18,000

Working stress in columns may be taken at five hundred pounds per square inch on the gross area of the column plus seventy-five hundred pounds per square inch on the longitudinal reinforcement No column shall be longer than fifteen times its least dimension The steel shall not be less than one-half of one per cent nor more than three per cent of the gross area and it shall be sufficiently tied horizontally

When the horizontal ties are continuous circular bands having a volume not less than one per cent of the enclosed concrete spaced not over three inches on centers and the longtiudinal bars not less than one per cent nor more than four per cent the stress on the enclosed concrete may be taken at seven hundred fifty pounds per square inch and on the longitudinal steel at fifteen times this amount

Concrete mixed in the proportion of one part of cement to four and one-half parts of aggregate shall develop a crushing strength of not less than twenty-five hundred pounds per square inch at twenty-eight days and the working stress of such concrete may be increased twenty-five per cent over that permitted above

Concrete mixed in the proportion of one part of cement to three parts of aggregate shall develop a crushing strength of not less than three thousand pounds per square inch at twenty-eight days and the working stress of such concrete may be increased fifty per cent over that permitted above

In continuous beams the extreme fibre stress in concrete in compression may be increased fifteen per cent adjacent to the supports

The last paragraph of Section twenty-six hundred twelve may apply in this section

Section 2627 Tests of floor construction Whenever the Chief has doubt as to the quality of materials or workmanship in any building he may require the owner or contractor at his own expense to make such tests as will establish the safety of the construction before occupancy takes place Tests shall be made as called for in Section six hundred twelve

If the portion tested should fail to meet the requirements of this test the Chief may still approve the structure for use and if necessary additional tests may be made on different portions to determine the critical load The detail records of this test and the results of the tests upon the samples of concrete used in the construction shall be taken into consideration by the Chief in determining the working load to be permitted However no substandard construction shall be accepted by the Chief if in his judgment the structure is unsafe for the purpose intended

CHAPTER 27 Fireproofing

Section 2700 Fireproofing A protection for steel of the thickness required in this code of plain or reinforced concrete cinder concrete gypsum solid or hollow masonry or other fireproofing material conforming with the requirements of this code.

Fire protection A protection of the materials acceptable for fireproofing but of thickness not less than one-half those required for fireproofing Cement or gypsum plaster properly held may be considered as fire protection providing that the construction so protected will pass the standard one hour fire test

Fireproofing material A material of the thickness specified in this code for fireproofing providing it is capable of passing the standard four-hour fire test in conformity with requirements as promulgated by the Chief

Section 2701 Minimum thickness of fireproofing The minimum thickness of fireproofing material shall not be less than the following

For structural and reinforcing steel in reinforced concrete construction as required in the chapter on Reinforced Concrete

For the outside faces of exterior steel columns and the webs of girders eight (8) inches of solid or hollow masonry four (4) inches of solid masonry plus two (2) inches of stone or slag concrete or four (4) inches of stone or slag concrete

For interior steel columns and interior facing of exterior steel columns three inches

For trusses beams and girders two inches on flat surfaces one and one-half inches on edges of flanges one inch for lugs or brackets on minor details

For the tops of all steel in floors and roofs one inch if one additional inch of fire proof material is provided in the floor finish

For the protection of structural steel in foundations adjacent to the earth not less than four inches

Steel supporting a roof only and not fireproofed or fire protected on the inside may be used in buildings of all classes except for buildings of the Highly Dangerous and Hazardous Commercial Occupancy provided that such steel is at least fourteen (14) feet above the finished surface of the top floor

The fireproofing of steel supporting masonry shall completely envelop each member and be in intimate contact with all parts of the member and the fireproofing of any member supporting another member or members of the skeleton frame shall be at least equal to that of the member or members supported

Section 2702 Cinders Cinders shall be only from high-pressure boilers and composed of hard well-burned vitreous clinker reasonably free from sulphides fine ashes and foreign matter

Cinder concrete shall be mixed in the proportions of one part Portland cement two parts fine aggregate and five parts of crushed cinders. It shall develop a unit stress in crushing of not less than eight hundred (800) pounds per square inch in 28 days

Gypsum used for fireproofing of structural steel and in the construction of roofs and ceilings of all occupancies and of floors in buildings of human occupancies shall be of calcined natural gypsum or equal

Gypsum when used neat shall develop when the resulting slab has been dried to constant weight an ultimate compressive strength of not less than twelve hundred (1200) pounds per square inch

Gypsum containing intimately mixed not more than 15 per cent by weight of wood chips excelsior or vegetable fibre shall develop when the resulting slab has been dried to constant weight an ultimate compressive strength of not less than five hundred (500) pounds per square inch

All reinforcement less than one-quarter inch in diameter for all Gypsum construction shall be galvanized

Section 2703 Thickness of span of slabs The maximum span between the flanges of steel beams supporting all but stone or slag concrete shall be eight feet

The following shall be the maximum distances between the flanges of steel beams as determined by slab thickness

	Roofs	Floors
2 inches thick	2'-0"	None
2½ inches thick	2'-6"	2'-6"
3 inches thick	5'-0"	None
4 inches thick	8'-0"	7'-0"
4½ inches thick	None	8'-0"

Nothing in this section shall prevent the use of ribbed floor slabs or composite slabs no slabs on ribbed or reinforced fabric with a suspended fireproofing for building of the First class or a suspended fire protection for buildings of the Intermediate class Approved self centering may be considered as furnishing section to take tension in spans up to 2 feet 6 inches

Section 2704 Brick arches When brick is used as floor filling it shall consist of segmental arches having a thickness of not less than four inches Such arches shall be built of good hard common or hollow brick laid to a line and solidly bonded Each longitudinal line of brick shall break joints with the adjoining lines The arches shall spring from suitable skewbacks and shall be properly keyed The rise shall not be less than one inch for each foot of span

Clay tile arches When clay tile is used as floor filling it shall consist of hollow blocks either hard burned or semi-porous of uniform density and hardness The thickness of shells and webs of each block shall be not less than five-eighths of an inch Interior vertical and horizontal webs of arch blocks shall not be spaced more than four inches apart The skewbacks shall be of such form and section as to accurately fit the beams and properly receive the thrust of the arches The arch blocks shall be laid in cement mortar and be properly keyed

Segmental arches These blocks shall be not less than six inches in depth with at least two cellular spaces in such depth The rise shall be not less than one inch for each foot of span

Flat arches The depth of these blocks unless reinforced with steel shall be not less than one inch for each foot of span between the steel beams exclusive of the portion of the block projecting below the underside of the beams

Strength of clay tile arches Clay Tile filling shall be so designed that it will safely sustain the superimposed loads by increasing so far as may be necessary the depth and the thickness of shell and webs of the blocks For such filling reinforced by wire fabric steel rods or other steel shapes thoroughly embedded cement mortar and bonded to the tile the strength of the construction may be determined by accepted engineering formulae For the purpose of this section the working stresses in pounds per square inch shall be taken at 500 for the tile in compression 18,000 for steel in tension and 100 for bond between steel and mortar and between the tile and mortar

The stiffness of the flanges of the steel beams shall not be depended on to resist the arch action of the filling unless steel tie rods are placed to reinforce the beams

Segmental arches shall be leveled up with cinder concrete or other acceptable filling

Section 2705 Cinder concrete Cinder concrete may be used structurally as fireproofing for floors and roofs between steel beams and for interior non-bearing walls or partitions

When reinforcement is required it shall consist of steel rods or other suitable shapes or steel fabric The tensional reinforcement in any case shall be not less than twelve hundredths per centum in the case of cold drawn steel fabric nor less than twenty-five hundredths per centum in the case of other forms the percentage being based on the sectional area of slab above the center of the reinforcement The center of the reinforcement shall be at least one inch above the bottom of the slab but in no case shall any part of the reinforcement come within five-eighths of an inch from the bottom of the slab

Segmental Forms When the concrete floor filling is used in the form of segmental arches the thickness shall be at least four inches at the crown Such arches shall have a rise of not less than one inch for each foot of span

Flat Construction When the concrete floor filling is in the form of slabs the thickness shall be not less than the thickness called for in Section 2703

Flat concrete arches When a floor or roof slab of stone or cinder concrete is cast monolithic with the fireproofing of the supporting steel beams and the reinforcement consists of cold drawn steel bars or fabric of a ratio of not more than .0035 the area of the reinforcement may be determined by assuming the effective depth of 7/8 for stone concrete and 3/4 for cinder concrete of the depth from the top of the slab to the center of gravity of the steel at the center of the slab and a bending moment coefficient of 1/8 for non-continuous slabs of 1/12 when the steel is hooked over the top flanges of the supporting beams and of 1/20 when continuous over the top flange of the supporting beams The unit stress in the steel as described above may be assumed at 20,000 pounds per square inch When the steel bars or other tension reinforcement are as described in Section 2705 the unit stresses therein described shall be used The area of steel in any case parallel to the steel beams shall be not less than 10 per cent of that across the beams The slab must conform in all other respects to the design requirements of other parts of the code

In determining the safe carrying capacities of concrete floor filling segmental in form the compressive stress in pounds per square inch in the concrete shall not exceed 300 for cinder concrete or 500 for stone concrete .

Nothing in this chapter shall prevent the determination of the safe carrying capacity of any form of concrete floor filling as fireproofing under the provisions of this chapter by the usual methods of calculation provided the stresses used in pounds per square inch shall not exceed 300 for cinder concrete in compression 18,000 for steel in tension and 50 for bond between cinder concrete and steel with a ratio of the moduli of steel to cinder concrete equal to 30 or in the case of stone concrete the values fixed by chapter on Reinforced concrete

When all steel members of a skeleton frame are encased in concrete as defined by the requirements of the chapter on Reinforced concrete allowances may be made for the additional strength resulting in conformity with the principles defined in this code and provided further that the reinforcement is such as to insure united action between the two materials

Section 2706 Pre-cast gypsum Precast reinforced slabs of tile of gypsum having a wood floor or cement finish on top shall conform with the general requirements for gypsum specified in Section 2702

The steel reinforcement provided to take the tensile stresses shall be anchored within the gypsum by looping or shall be embedded within the gypsum in such manner and position that it will resist all tensile stresses and will assist in the resistance to shear so that the stresses in the combination can be ascertained by computation and verified by tests Continuity shall not be allowed in the design of these slabs unless the connections of the steel reinforcement are rigid as defined in Section 537

The steel reinforcement shall be shown either by indentation at the proper points exposure of the steel at the ends or by stamping the slab or tile with the words "this side up"

Precast reinforced gypsum units shall be so proportioned that the maximum stresses in pounds per square inch shall not exceed the following

Tensile stress in steel	18,000
Compression in extreme fibre of gypsum	250
Compression in extreme fibre of gypsum composition	110
Shear in gypsum	20
Bearing of neat gypsum on looped reinforcement anchor plates or cross welded wires	225
Similar bearing for gypsum composition	100
Modulus of Elasticity of gypsum	1,000,000
Modulus of Elasticity of gypsum	200

Section 2707 Gypsum suspension systems Gypsum suspension systems poured-in-place shall conform with the general requirements for gypsum specified in Section 2702 and shall be designed to safely carry the total loads in such manner that the stress in the suspension wires or cables shall be determined by standard formula

In this type of construction the gypsum must not be calculated to resist any of the direct stresses

The cables consisting of at least two (2) strands shall be of cold drawn steel of at least 80,000 pounds per square inch ultimate strength and in which the allowable working stress shall not exceed 20,000 pounds per square inch Cables shall be held uniformly to the required deflection and must be kept firmly tied to the form work until the gypsum has become set All cables shall be completely encased in the gypsum composition and the ends shall be securely anchored to the supporting construction independently of the gypsum or to anchorage supports which shall be properly braced to resist the tension without distortion of the structural steel

Nothing in this Code shall be construed to prohibit the issue of a permit for the construction of suspension systems of precast gypsum which conform in design construction and test to the requirements of this Code

Section 2708 Gypsum fireproofing Fireproofing two inches thick of reinforced calcined gypsum (containing no sand and not more than fifteen per cent of wood chips excelsior or vegetable fibre) may be used under the flanges of beams in fireproof buildings provided that there is not less than one inch of gypsum under the reinforcement It shall be supported structurally from the floor in such manner that the hangars shall be protected from below by not less than one inch of gypsum

Section 2709 Filling of Grillages Grillages shall be filled solid between the beams with stone concrete Where wood sleepers are used the spaces between shall be filled solid or fire stops provided not less than twelve inches nor more than ten feet apart of cinder concrete fill

Section 2710 Miscellaneous floor and roof systems Nothing in this code shall prevent the Chief from approving for use as secondary systems in floors and roofs metal joists manufactured from previously rolled steel

Joists made of strip steel bent and/or welded to form a beam section shall be designed in conformity with standard design methods for plate girders

Joists made from rolled steel sections expanded to form a truss and joists made of bars rolled sections or a combination welded to form a truss shall be a true truss and designed in conformity with standard design methods for trusses

These joists shall not be used in any building wherein the height is more than two and one-half times the width The provision shall not apply to rolled steel sections nor to assembled joists wherein the connections between the separate parts are all of the rigid type as prescribed in Section 537

Bridging shall be placed at the time the joists are installed Such bridging shall be of sufficient strength to provide lateral support The minimum concentrated load required under Section 706 shall apply to commercial occupancies and offices and each joist shall be designed to sustain the same except that each joist may be designed for half this amount provided the bridging is designed to transmit the remainder to the joist or joists adjacent

Joists shall be held at their bearings by some means other than the load they are intended to carry

Rolled steel beams permitted in other parts of this code shall conform to the above requirements

Section 2711 Nothing in this code shall be construed to prohibit the use of pre-cast or porous slabs made of Portland or other hydraulic cement of thickness less than called for elsewhere in this code provided that the stresses conform to those required in this chapter on Reinforced concrete and that the slabs are in conformity with requirements promulgated by the Chief

Section 2712 No pipe for steam or water shall be placed within the fireproofing of any structural member or floor system

CHAPTER 28 Chimneys Flues Fireplaces and Incinerators

Section 2800 The provisions herein shall apply to all ordinary chimneys flues and vents within a building or which form a part of a building and not to chimneys flues stacks or vents for high pressure boilers furnaces used in the manufacturing ranges in restaurants hotels etc or for other heating or cooking appliances where high temperatures occur all of which shall be designed constructed and maintained in accordance with best engineering and fire prevention practice acceptable to the Chief and the Chief Engineer of the Bureau of Fire

Section 2801 Chimney construction The walls of all chimneys shall be built of solid masonry or of radial brick but this shall not preclude the use of a metal smokestack when located inside of a shaft properly enclosed with noncombustible materials having an air space between the walls and stack on all sides Flues in party walls shall not extend closer than four inches from the center of the walls The walls of all unlined chimneys shall be built of good sound hard-burned brick or other suitable hard brick The walls of lined chimneys shall be not less than four (4) inches thick All concrete chimneys cast in place shall be suitably reinforced vertically and horizontally The walls of lined concrete chimneys shall be not less than four (4) inches thick and of lined solid concrete block chimneys not less than eight (8) inches thick Chimney walls of rubble stone shall be at least ten (10) inches thick properly bonded and shall have flue linings

Section 2802 Flue linings All flue linings shall be of fire clay or other suitable refractory clays either natural or compounded adapted to withstand reasonably high temperatures and flue gases Flue linings shall be of standard commercial thickness but not less than five-eighth inch They shall be carefully bedded one upon another in mortar and with all joints left smooth on the inside Linings shall start from a point not less than eight (8) inches below the center line of smokepipe intakes or in the case of fireplaces from the apex of the smoke chamber and shall be continuous to the required height of the chimney The masonry walls around flues shall not be built hollow and the lining dropped inside but shall be laid up together with the lining with mortar around each successive length of lining as it is set All joints and spaces between the masonry and lining shall be thoroughly slushed full as each course of masonry is laid No flue lining already set in place shall be cut away or broken to receive a smokepipe intake

Section 2803 Chimneys without lining Lining may be omitted in brick chimneys provided the walls of the chimneys be not less than eight (8) inches thick and the inner course be of hard-burned brick or other suitable hard brick and that all joints on the flue side be struck smooth No mortar lining or parging shall be permitted Linings may likewise be omitted in reinforced concrete chimneys provided the walls of such chimneys be not less than six (6) inches thick

Section 2804 Mortar for chimneys All mortar used in the construction of independent chimneys except as otherwise provided herein shall be cement or cement-lime mortar When a masonry wall of a building forms part of a chimney with flue linings the mortar for chimney walls may be the same as that employed in the building wall Mortar used between the joints of flue linings and in the portions of a chimney above a roof or otherwise wholly exposed to the weather shall be cement mortar

Section 2805 Foundations of chimneys Chimneys or breasts shall be built upon solid masonry foundations properly proportioned or may start from floors or walls in buildings of the First class The footing for an exterior chimney shall start below the frost line but not less than three (3) feet below the finished grade Chimneys shall not rest upon or be carried by wooden floor beams or brackets nor be hung or supported by metal stirrups from wood or metal construction

Section 2806 Corbeling of chimneys The total offset overhang or corbel of an independent chimney in other than First class construction shall not exceed three-eighths the width of the chimney in the direction of the offset Corbeled chimneys shall not be supported by hollow walls or walls of hollow units and corbeling shall not project more than one inch per course and not more than twelve (12) inches in any case

Section 2807 Chimneys through and above roofs No increase of chimney wall thickness nor any projecting masonry or setback shall be permitted within a distance of six (6) inches above or below rafters or roof joists Chimneys shall be built at least three (3) feet above flat roofs and not less than two (2) feet above the ridge of gable and hip roofs or the high point of mansards

Section 2808 Fireplaces Fireplace walls shall be not less than eight (8) inches thick and if built of stone or hollow units not less than twelve (12) inches thick The faces of all such minimum thickness walls exposed to fire shall be lined with firebrick hard-burned brick or other suitable hard brick soapstone cast iron or other suitable fire resistive material When lined with four (4) inches of firebrick or hard-burned brick such lining may be included in the required minimum thickness All fireplaces and all chimney breasts with openings shall have trimmer arches or other approved fire-resistive construction supporting hearths The arches and hearths shall be not less than twelve (12) inches wide measured from the face of the chimney breast and not less than twelve (12) inches wider than the opening on either side The arches shall be of brick stone or hollow tile not less than four (4) inches thick A flat slab of slate or similar stone or a reinforced concrete slab may be used to carry the hearth instead of an arch if it be properly supported and a suitable fill be provided between it and the hearth Hearths shall be of brick stone tile or other incombustible material Wood centering under a trimmer arch shall be removed after the masonry has thoroughly set No heater burning solid liquid or gaseous fuel shall be placed in a fireplace which does not conform to the foregoing requirements

Section 2809 Flues Flues shall be built as nearly vertical as possible but in no case at an angle greater than forty-five (45) degrees from the vertical other than in First class construction Where flues change direction the abutting linings at the angle joints shall be built to fit closely Not more than two lined flues shall be permitted in the same flue space and the joints of any such adjoining flue linings shall be staggered at least seven (7) inches When there are more than two flues in a chimney at least each third flue shall be separated from the others by a smoke-tight withe or division wall of masonry or concrete not less than four (4) inches thick and bonded into the chimney walls Each flue intended for a heating furnace or boiler connection or for a fireplace shall be separated from other flues by such a withe When any single flue has an effective area exceeding two hundred (200) square inches the walls shall be not less than eight (8) inches thick and shall have flue lining as previously specified but when flues become so large as to render it impracticable to obtain fire clay lining such flues shall be lined with fire brick for a distance of at least twenty-five (25) feet from the point of intake The effective area of any flue shall be considered as the full area if a round flue and as the largest circle or oval which could be inscribed in a square or oblong flue Ordinary and low pressure heating devices burning solid fuels shall have a minimum effective flue area not less than the following

Small special stoves and heaters .....28 square inches
Stoves ranges and room heaters .....40 square inches
Fireplaces (at least 1/12 the fireplace opening) .....
.....50 square inches
Warm air furnaces steam and hot water boilers in buildings over two stories in height .....70 square inches

The construction and size of flues to be used for oil and gas fired furnaces boilers and automatic water heaters shall be the same as required for corresponding appliances burning solid fuel except that in the case of a vent for a domestic water heater the same may be connected into a similar flue from a heating apparatus when in accordance with rules promulgated by the Chief Vent flues for non-automatic water heaters stoves ranges and other domestic gas appliances having relatively small gas consumption (excepting gas plates and portable gas heating appliances) shall have a flue area of not less than ten (10) square inches Such flues unless enclosed in solid masonry walls shall be of incombustible material not less than three-fourths of an inch thick with air tight joints and shall vent to the outside air

Section 2810 Thimbles and intakes A thimble or flueing of fire clay metal or masonry shall be suitable installed on the side of any chimney where smokepipe enters or is intended to enter a flue The top of such intakes shall be set not less than eighteen (18) inches below any ceiling of sheet metal wood lath and plaster or exposed wooden beams No thimble shall enter a chimney within six (6) inches of any wood-work When a smokepipe enters a chimney breast through a studded-off combustible partition the thimble of such smokepipe shall be kept six (6) inches clear of all woodwork and if plastered shall be surrounded by metal lath

Section 2811 Incinerators A flue serving a non-fuel fired incinerator combustion chamber having grate-area of nine (9) square feet or less shall have enclosing walls of hard-burned brick or other suitable hard brick four (4) inches thick and shall be lined with standard fire-clay flue lining or shall be constructed to conform to the following requirements A flue serving a no-fuel fired incinerator combustion chamber having a grate-area exceeding nine (9) square feet shall be enclosed by hard-burned brick or other suitable hard brick four (4) inches thick with a lining of four (4) inches of fire brick for a distance of not less than thirty (30) feet above the roof of the combustion chamber beyond this point flue enclosing walls shall consist of hard-burned brick or other suitable hard brick not less than eight (8) inches thick Flues or stacks for fuel fired incinerators shall be lined with four (4) inches of fire brick for a distance of forty (40) feet above incinerator breeching Flues or stacks of rubbish and waste material incinerators shall be enclosed by eight (8) inches of hard-burned brick or other suitable hard brick and a lining of four (4) inches of fire brick laid in fire clay Such fire brick linings shall extend to the top of the flue or stack An incinerator of this type or of the fuel fired type may connect to a boiler or similar stack if the area of the stack is at least four times the area of the incinerator breeching All flues or stacks shall terminate in a substantially constructed spark arrester When an incinerator flue is used as a garbage depositing chute it shall have approved doors in each opening and access to such flue shall not be within the building The vestibules of firetowers may be adapted to this purpose When such chutes occur in First class buildings the access doors may be within the building The area and heights of incinerator flues and the construction of enclosing walls of combustion chambers which must be of masonry shall be in accordance with rules promulgated by the Chief

Section 2812 Testing and tightness of flues If after completion there be any doubt as to the tightness or safety of any flues to which large ranges heating furnaces boilers automatic gas water heaters fireplaces or incinerators are to be connected they shall be subjected to a smoke test but the test shall not be made until the mortar has thoroughly seasoned The test shall be made by the masonry contractor in the presence of the building inspector or other person designated by the Chief and any flue proved to be leaky shall be abated as a nuisance and rebuilt tight All chimneys in any building already erected which shall be dangerous in any manner whatever shall be repaired and made safe or taken down

Section 2813 Woodwork around chimneys and fireplaces All such woodwork shall be placed in conformity with the requirements governing same in Chapter 24 of this code

CHAPTER 29 Heating and Cooking Apparatus Pipes and Appliances

Section 2900 No boiler to be used for steam or motive power no furnace and no hotel or restaurant type of range oven or similar apparatus where high temperatures occur shall be placed on any floor above the cellar unless the same is set on non-combustible beams and arches or an incombustible platform extending not less than fifteen (15) inches beyond the base in all directions and in no case without a permit from the Bureau No permanent or stationary heating apparatus of any kind whatever shall be introduced in any building now erected without a permit from the Bureau

Section 2901 Location of heating apparatus All boilers furnaces or other similar heating apparatus shall be so located as to provide a distance of not less than three (3) feet from any unprotected woodwork or wood lath and plaster Where combustible ceilings walls or partitions occur closer than three feet to such heating apparatus such ceilings walls or partitions shal be properly protected with incombustible material to an extent not less than twelve (12) inches beyond the outline of such apparatus Where the distance is less than one foot all such heating apparatus shall be shielded as herein provided for stoves and ranges using solid fuel The tops of all boilers or furnaces set in brick shall be covered with brick slate or metal supported by metal bars and so constructed as to be perfectly tight said covering to be in addition to and at least six (6) inches from the ordinary covering to the hot air chamber

Section 2902 Location of stoves and ranges (Solid fuel) Stoves an dranges using solid fuel and having an enclosed base shall be set upon solid masonry foundations or hollow or porous masonry arches or hearths not less than fur (4) inches thick and extending not less than six (6 inches beyond the base on all sides and twelve (12) inches on the front If such hearths are built upon wooden floors the latter shall first be covered with sheet metal or ⅛-inch asbestos board Such stoves and ranges supported by rigid legs and which have at least a four inch clearance under ash pans may be set upon wood floors when such floors are protected by heavy sheet metal extending not less than twelve (12) inches beyond the front and not less than six (6) inches beyond the sides and back of the same Where any such stoves or ranges are set less than eighteen (18) inches from any wood lath and plaster or less than twelve (12) inches from any incombustible lath and plaster the studding shall be cut away and framed to a height of not less than three (3 feet above the top and one foot from the side of the stove or range and the space from floor to header filled in with brick an dother incombustible material laid in cement mortar or the same shall be protected in such manner as may be set forth in regulations promulgated by the Chief

Section 2903 Furnaces stoves and ranges (Liquid fuels) All heating and cooking apparatus using liquid fuel shall be located as provided for apparatus using solid fuel and together with its piping and fuel storage shall be otherwise installed and maintained in accordance with regulations promulgated by the Chief and the Chief Engineer of the Bureau of Fire

Section 2904 Smokepipes All smokepipes shall enter chimneys on a vertical face connecting to the flue through a thimble or intake in the chimney wall as elsewhere provided Smokepipes shall be located not less than eighteen (18) inches from any unprotected woodwork or any wood lath and plaster unless protected as hereinafter provided when the minimum clearance shall be six (6) inches Such protection shall consist of a sheet metal shield or its equivalent set out at least one inch from the surface to be protected extending the full length of the stovepipe and not less than twelve (12) inches beyond its edges Smokepipes shall not pass through any floor nor through a combustible roof A smokepipe shall not pass through a combustible partition or wall construction unless a section of the construction is removed and the smokepipe is insulated from the construction by a galvanized iron double-walled ventilated thimble having a diameter of not less than twelve (12) inches larger than the pipe or by not less than four inches of incombustible construction Smokepipes shall not be permitted in closets nor in concealed air spaces and shall not be permitted to connect with the chimney in an attic All smokepipes shall be firmly connected at the inlet and outlet and shall be securely anchored in position throughout

Section 2905 Warm-air pipes and registers Horizontal warm-air furnace pipes shall be placed not less than six (6) inches below wooden floor joists or wood lath and plaster ceilings if the floor joists or ceiling are protected by metal lath and plaster or the pipe is covered with not less than one-half inch of corrugated asbestos or equal insulation the distance from the woodwork or wood lath and plaster may be reduced to not less than three (3) inches Cold-air ducts for warm-air furnaces shall be made of incombustible material for a distance of at least three (3) feet from the furnace Warm-air ducts or pipes passing through combustible partitions or floor shall be protected by ventilated thimbles providing for not less than three (3) inches of air space Warm-air ducts or pipes contained within combustible partition or ceiling construction shall be doubled metal with not less than ⅜-inch space between or shall be single metal ducts or pipes securely covered with asbestos or equal insulation No such pipe or covering shall be closer than one inch to any wood studding joist or floor unless the same be protected by metal or asbestos and metal lath or wire lath shall be used to cover that portion of the partitions or ceilings in which the warm-air ducts or pipes are located Warm-air registers in floors or partitions shall be set in metal slate or other incombustible frames which will provide not less than three inch air space between the register opening and any combustible construction to which the frame is attached The register boxes shall be of sheet metal and be kept not less than one inch from any unprotected woodwork

Section 2906 Openings through floors and partitions Pipe holes or other small openings through floors or partitions shall be protected by continuous metal sleeves properly flanged at each end

Section 2907 Installation of wall heaters When a gas or electric heater is installed in a wood stud wall or partition all wooden surfaces adjacent to the heater and the space between the studs behind above and below the heater shall be protected in accordance with standard practice as promulgated by the Chief

PART IV CLASSIFICATION

CHAPTER 30 Classification of Buildings Based on Types of Construction

Section 3000 All buildings shall be classified according to types of construction occupancies floor areas heights and districts where located in conformity with this Part of the code

Section 3001 All buildings shall be divided into the following classes of construction and First Class Type A shall be deemed to be the most fire-resistive type of construction and Fourth Class Type B the least fire-resistive type of construction

The terms "fireproofed" and "fire-protected" shall be understood to have the specific meanings given to them in chapter twenty-seven

First Class Type A)
First Class Type B) Fireproofed construction
First Class Type C)
Intermediate Class Fireprotected construction
Second Class Type A) Second Class Type B) Slow-burning construction
Third Class Ordinary construction
Fourth Class Type A) Metal Frame construction Fourth Class Type B) Wood Frame construction

CHAPTER 31 Walls and Partitions

Section 3100 Exterior and inner court walls Exterior or inner court walls for all classes of construction except as specifically permitted elsewhere shall be divided into the following

Wall Bearing Type in which the wall carries loads other than its own weight This type of wall shall be of masonry or reinforced concrete as permitted in the Chapter on Masonry It may be used in all classes of construction provided that proper means are taken to give it lateral support and provided that wind and other horizontal forces are resisted by the floors columns or other structural parts of the building

Self Supporting Type in which the wall carries its own weight but no other load This type of wall shall conform to the requirements for and be used as permitted in the Chapter on Masonry

Spandrel Type in which the wall is supported at each floor and carries no load other than its own weight This type of wall may be either solid masonry or reinforced concrete hollow masonry or a combination of any of these It may be used in all classes of construction provided that it is carried on and braced laterally by fireproofed construction

Section 3101 Partitions In buildings of the First and Intermediate classes of construction partitions shall be of incombustible materials as prescribed in Chapter 23 and in buildings of Second class construction partitions may be of two or more layers of plank of a total thickness of not less than three inches spiked together so that the joists are not parallel except as elsewhere required

Section 3102 Office partitions In buildings or sections thereof used for office purposes where fireproofed partitions are called for wood rails or partitions may be ussd provided that they do not extend to within eighteen inches of the ceiling or wood office partitions may be used up to the ceiling provided that not less than one third of their area is of glass In all cases where wood is used the building or section thereof shall be occupied by one tenant only

Section 3103 Floor openings The enclosure of all elevators stairs and fire towers shall be as called for in chapter forty

All other openings in floors not designed for the passage of people through them but used for pipe ducts dumb waiters etc shall be enclosed in fireproofed shafts

CHAPTER 32 First Class Buildings Fireproofed Construction

Section 3200 "First Class Type A" defined First Class Type A Buildings shall be those having frames of reinforced concrete or structural steel wherein the fireproofing of the skeleton frame and the floor systems is in intimate contact with all parts of the steel and the floor systems are rigidly connected to the skeleton frame

Section 3201 "First Class Type B" defined First Class Type A Buildings shall be those having frames of reinforced concrete or structural steel wherein the fireproofing of the skeleton frame is in intimate contact with all parts of the steel and the floor systems are of steel rigidly connected to the skeleton frame and fireproofed on the top and bottom flanges but need not be in contact

Section 3202 "First Class Type C" defined First Class Type C Buildings shall be those having frames of reinforced concrete or structural steel wherein the fireproofing of the skeleton frame entirely envelops each member but need not be in intimate contact with the steel and the floor systems are of steel which need not be rigidly connected to the skeleton frame and which is fireproofed on the top and bottom flanges but need not be in contact

CHAPTER 33—Intermediate Class Buildings Fire-protected Construction

Section 3300 "Intermediate Class" defined Intermediate Class Buildings shall be constructed in accordance with the requirements or First Class Type C buildings as specified in section 3202 except that the structural frames and floor systems may be fire-protected instead of fire-proofed and each individual member of the skeleton frame need not be entirely enveloped

CHAPTER 34 Second Class Buildings—Slow-burning Construction

Section 3400 "Second Class Type A" defined Second Class Type A Guildings shall have floors and roofs of heavy timber of the following minimum sizes columns or posts 8 inches beams and girders 6 inches floor planking 3 inches roof planking 2 inches

Section 3401 "Second Class Type B" defined Second Class Type B Buildings shall conform to the requirements of Second Class Type A buildings except that columns beams and girders may be fireprotected steel or of reinforced concrete

CHAPTER 35 Third Class Buildings Ordinary Construction

Section 3500 "Third Class Buildings" defined Third Class Buildings shall have floors and roofs of timber in which the floor joists shall not be less than three inches thick in occupancies for which the live load prescribed in Chapter seven exceed one hundred pounds per square foot and in no case less than two inches thick and in all cases the roof rafters shall not be less than two inches thick and the floor and roof planking not less than one inch thick Structural steel may be used without fire-proofing or fire-protection unless such steel supports bearing walls or fire partitions

Section 3501 Nothing in this Code shall be construed to prohibit the Bureau from issuing permits for buildings of third class construction having incombustible walls other than masonry if the walls are fireprotected where buildings of the fourth class are permitted

CHAPTER 36 Fourth Class Buildings Metal Frame and Wood Frame Construction

Section 3600 "Fourth Class Type A" defined Fourth Class Type A buildings shall be those having frames of unprotected structural steel wherein the walls are of sheet meeal or other incombustible materials supported on steel masonry or concrete

Section 3601 "Fourth Class Type B" defined Fourth Class Type B Buildings may be of timber the studding joists or rafters of which are not less than 2 inches thick and the sheathing and siding not less than one inch thick or the studding may be covered with stucco not less than one inch thick reinforced with metal furred out three-eighths of an inch and shall have foundations of masonry or concrete

Section 3602 Councils of cities of the First Class may by general ordinance define the limits within which frame buildings may be erected regulate the erection of frame buildings and permit and regulate the erection of frame sheds on wharves or elevators for the storage of grain coal and lumber

CHAPTER 37 Classification of Buildings Based on Occupancy

Section 3700 For the purposes of this code all buildings shall be divided into the following groups In the event that a building should not fall within one of these groups its grouping shall be determined by the Chief

Section 3701 Human occupancy

Special hazards

A Theatres and motion picture parlors

Ordinary hazards

B Dance Halls Amusement Park Structures Convention Halls Stadiums Exhibition Halls Restaurants School Churches any room of 2500 sq ft or over in a school or church possible to be used for dancing any room with fixed seats of 2500 sq ft in a school or church rooms for athletic activities armories gymnasiums libraries railroad passenger stations museums

Institutional

C Hospitals Sanitariums Orphanages Asylums for the feeble-minded Nurseries Old Folk's Homes accommodating six or more Jails and Prisons Reformatories and Houses of Correction Monasteries and Convents accommodating ten or more Municipal Fire and Police Stations

Residential

D Hotels Apartment Houses Lodging Houses Dormitories Fraternity Houses and Clubs

Office Buildings etc

F Office Buildings Public Baths and Swimming Pools

Section 3702 Commercial occupancy

Highly hazardous

M Buildings for the manufacture of highly inflammable or explosive materials etc

Hazardous

N Buildings for the storage of highly inflammable or explosive materials etc paint or oil storage buildings dry cleaning establishments paint shops planing mills box factories wood-working shops mattress factories filling stations gas stations

Semi-hazardous

P Private Garage

Ordinary usage

Q Wholesale or Retail Stores or Salesrooms Factories or Shops not using highly combustible or inflammable materials etc Buildings or Shops for the storage or sale of ordinary combustible goods Printing Plants Creameries and Cold storage Plants

Non-hazardous

R Power Plants Ice Plants Pumping Plants Factories or Shops for Incombustible or Non-explosive materials etc Buildings for the storage of incombustible or non-explosive materials etc

Accessories and appurtenances

S Signs Water Tanks and Towers Sheds Fences etc

Section 3703 Mixed occupancy When a building is used for two or more occupancies which are not of the same group it shall conform in all respects to the most stringent requirements of any of the groups to which the occupancies pertain unless the building is divided into sections containing the different occupancies by horizontal and vertical fire divisions

Section 3704 Exception No building of a Highly Hazardous Commercial occupancy (Group M) shall be used for any other purpose than for accessories and appurtenances (Group S) in connection only with its own use

Section 3705 Exits When a building is used by occupancies coming under different groups firetowers and stairs may be used in common provided that each occupancy has its own separate entrance to each firetower or stairs independent of the other occupancy or occupancies A firetower required by one occupancy may be used as a stairs by an occupancy not requiring a firetower

Section 3706 Change of occupancy When the use or the character of the occupancy of any building is changed from one group to another group such building if not conforming to the requirements for the proposed use or occupancy shall be remodeled to comply with the requirements of this code for the proposed use or occupancy

Section 3707 Group R buildings classified under Group R with structural steel columns and floor and roof systems not fireproofed or fireprotected from the inside shall be considered First Class Buildings Steel roof decking properly insulated and weatherproofed may be used in group R buildings or in one story buildings of commercial occupancy except groups M and N without fireproofing or fireprotection on the outside in conformity otherwise with this Section provided the building is separated on all sides from other structures by not less than 25 feet

Section 3708 Group S construction Accessories and Appurtenances of steel not fireproofed or fire-protected in connection with the exterior of a building may be considered as not lowering the class of the building

CHAPTER 38 Requirements based on Floor Area

Section 3800 Should the area of any floor of a building exceed in any case the maximum areas hereinafter given the said floor shall be subdivided by fire walls or fire division walls

Maximum Undivided Floor Areas

Commedcial and Industrial Occupancies	One Street Frontage		Two Street Frontage		Three Street Frontage
	Sprinkled	Unsprinkled	Sprinkled	Unsprinkled	Sprinkled	Unsprinkled

Section 3801 A paved driveway 25 feet wide may be classed as a street For human occupancies the above areas may be increased by 20 per cent

Section 3802 No building of a highly hazardous commercial occupancy Group M as specified in Section 3702 shall have an undivided floor area greater than one-half of those hereinbefore given and in any case the said building shall be sprinkled and the undivided floor area shall not exceed twenty-five thousand square feet

Section 3803 This chapter shall not apply to private dwellings nor to one story buildings used only for the storage of or the working in non-combustible materials

Section 3804 No building used as a garage or automobile service station or for any similar purposes which is not of first class construction shall be erected to a greater height than two stories nor have an undivided floor area exceeding five thousand square feet provided that one-story buildings of second class construction used for the purpose set forth in this section may have an undivided floor area of ten thousand square feet

Section 3805 Third Class Buildings with floor and roof plank of 1¾ inches or more may have a maximum floor area of 7,500 square feet and Second Class Buildings one story high sprinkled may have a maximum floor area of 50,000 sq. ft.

3806 Fourth Class Type A may be used only for Commercial Occupancy and for floor areas the same as Intermediate Class

Fourth Class Type B may be used for floor areas the same as Third Class Commercial Occupancy

Section 3806 All one story buildings not over five thousand square feet in area of commercial occupancy with non-combustible contents may be of Fourth Class Type A construction

CHAPTER 39 Requirements based on Height

Section 3900 All buildings of commercial occupancy over 85 feet high wherein the height is more than two and one-half times the width shall be of First Class Type A construction

Section 3901 All buildings of human occupancy over 85 feet high wherein the height is more than two and one-half times the width and all unsprinkled buildings of commercial occupancy over 85 feet high shall be of a grade not lower than First Class Type B construction

Section 3902 All buildings other than defined in Section 3900 and 3901 over 85 feet in height shall be of a grade not lower than First Class Type C construction provided that for commercial occupancies the floor systems are rigidly connected

Section 3903 All buildings not more than eight stories and not over 85 feet in height and all buildings of any height used for forcible detention such as jails prisons and asylums and all buildings over two stories in height used as schools hospitals or for similar occupancies shall be of a grade not lower than Intermediate Class construction except as provided in Section 3904

Section 3904 All buildings not more than six stories and not over 75 feet in height shall be of a grade not lower than Second Class construction except as provided in Section 3905

Section 3905 All buildings not more than four stories and not over fifty feet in height shall be of a grade not lower than Third Class construction provided that all ceilings all vertical enclosures all bearing partitions and store enclosures and all divisions between tenants are fireprotected except as provided in Section 3906

Section 3906 All buildings not more than three stories and not over forty feet in height except dwellings shall be of a grade not lower than third class construction provided that the ceilings and other separations of cellars and basements and all store enclosures in buildings containing sleeping quarters shall be fireprotected

Section 3907 All buildings not more than three stories and not over forty feet in height may be of Fourth Class Type B construction within certain districts defined by the Councils of Cities of the First Class provided that all interior fireprotective requirements of Section 3903 are complied with

PART V EGRESS

CHAPTER 40 Means of Egress

Section 4000 Scope The provisions of this part of the Code shall apply to all buildings over two stories in height except Theatres Motion Picture Houses and Dwellings all of which are specified in the separate sections thereon

Section 4001 Stairs All stairs in buildings of the First and Intermediate Classes for human occupancy shall be entirely closed in walls of hard incombustible materials not less than six inches thick except that the main stairs from the first to second floors and first floor mezzanine stories may be unenclosed

All stairs in buildings of the First and Intermediate Classes for Commercial Occupancy any floor area of which above the first floor exceeds 5000 square feet shall be entirely enclosed in walls of hard incombustible materials not less than six inches thick The main stairs from the first to a messanine in the first story may be unenclosed All stairs in buildings of other than First and Intermediate Classes any floor area of which above the first floor is 3500 square feet or over shall be enclosed in not less than nine inches of solid masonry

All stairs in buildings of other than the First and Intermediate classes any floor of which other than the first floor is less than 3500 square feet and exceeds 2000 square feet shall be enclosed in not less than three inches of solid plank or two inches of solid plaster on metal lath or other fireprotected construction supported by incombustible studding

All stairs in buildings of lesser area per floor than provided above in this section but not more than three stories in height may be unenclosed unless used for sleeping purposes

Enclosure walls in buildings other than of the First and Intermediate Classes shall extend not less than three feet above the roof

All doors in enclosures of six inches or more shall be of metal or wood doors covered with metal acceptable to the Chief

Windows shall have metal frames and sash All glass shall be wire glass no pane of which shal exceed two hundred and fifty square inches

The stairs in buidings of the First and Intermediate Classes shall be of incombustible construction

No riser shall exceed eight inches and no tread shall be less than nine inches exclusive of any nosing

A metal skylight with wire glass or windows having an area of one fourth that of the shaft shall be provided above the top landing A stair which does not extend down to the ground shall be sealed off at the bottom by fireproof construction

Buildings for Human Occupancy other than the First Class may have stair enclosures of fire protected construction

Section 4002 Elevators The enclosure of elevators shall conform to the requirements for stairs except that they shall be enclosed throughout the entire shaft with incombustible material when more than one elevator is used the entire group may be contained within one enclosure

Section 4003 Shafts and Ducts All other vertical openings shall be enclosed as called for in Part IV on classifications

Section 4004 Fire Towers Tower fire escapes shall be provided in accordance with Section 4013 and shall be separated from the building by and completely enclosed with walls not less than 8 inches in thickness of brick or such other solid fireproof materials as shall be accepted by the Bureau The said walls in buildings other than of the First or Intermediate Classes shall be built solidly from the foundation to and at least thirty-six inches above the roof

The roof of said tower shall be built of hard incombustible materials

The stairs of said tower may be of wood but in all cases there must be provided stone or iron thresholds iron frames or wood frames covered with metal and iron doors or wood doors covered with tin The rise of said stairs shall not be more than eight (8) inches and the tread not less than nine (9) inches exclusive of any nosing

The entrance to said tower shall be by means of an outside balcony or an incombustible vestibule of which one side shall be entirely open and extend from the top of floor to under side of ceiling and the full width of the tower The said open side to face a street or such space as provides for exit of said tower There shall be a brick wall or other wall of hard incombustible material separating the tower from the vestibule The opening into tower from said vestibule shall be not over seven (7) feet in height The floor ceiling and sides of said vestibule shall be of hard incombustible material

The rails inclosing the side facing the open space or street shall be not over four (4) feet high and not less than three (3) feet and may be open or inclosed

The entrance to the tower from the building shall be through the vestibule

Towers that have not the fireproof vestibule shall have outside balconies the floors of which shall be built of solid hard incombustible material and be of sufficient strength to carry the imposed loads

The rails around the balconies shall be not over four (4) feet in height nor less than three (3) feet and may be inclosed or open

Not more than one half the fire towers may be stopped at the second floor and metal fire escapes with drop ladders acceptable to the Chief provided from the second floor to the grounds No fire tower shall extend below the street level and in no case to a cellar or basement

If locks are placed on any door of a fire tower they shall be of the type known as panic bolts

Section 4005 Horizontal Exits A horizontal exit shall be considered as a protected opening through a fire wall to another area provided with legal exits or a bridge to another building provided with legal exits When two buildings or two areas of one building are connected by means of horizontal exits then the other exit facilitation called for for each or both may be reduced by one third

Section 4006 Cellars and Basements The exits from a cellar or a basement or other story below shall in no case be less than two

Section 4007 Roofs One half the fire towers and not less than one shall serve the roof of a building unless the roof is occupied in which case it shall count as a floor

Section 4008 Area The word area used in this part of the Code shall be defined as Floor Area in the chapter on Definitions

Section 4009 Office Buildings and Schools Buildings of the First Class or intermediate Classes used for office purpose occupancies above the first floor and school buildings of First Class construction need not require a fire tower Enclosed stairs shall be provided one when the area of any floor above the second is five thousand square feet or less and two for areas greater than five thousand square feet Partitions between corridors and stairs may be metal with glazed windows

Section 4010 Public Assembly For any building or portion therof coming under Group B there shall be provided one fire tower for every seventy-five hundred (7500) square feet of area so used

Section 4011 Ramp Fire Towers Ramp fire towers may be substituted for the stair type of fire towers in buildings under Group C The width of the ramp and its grade shall be acceptable to the Chief

Section 4012 Special Fire Towers The Chief is permitted to approve the use of double fire towers of the scissors type or stairs of greater width than four feet These may be considered as reducing the requirements hereinafter stated in such manner as the Chief shall direct provided the doors balconies and other details are in his opinion sufficient

Section 4013 Fire Tower Requirements All buildings other than as noted above shall have fire towers as required below in addition to the main stairs or other exits

Section 4014 Chief to approve The Chief shall determine what additional fire towers are needed for areas greater than the above

The location of fire towers shall be as required by [him] the Chief

Section 4015 Sprinkler For buildings of Human Occupancy which are sprinkled in areas given in Section may be increased ten percent

Section 4016 Enclosed Passages An enclosed passage with walls similar to the fire tower and with floors and ceilings fireproofed may connect a fire tower to the outside but there shall be no opening into it other than at the fire tower and the street and it shall not be longer than fifty feet

Section 4017 Exit Doors The exit doors from all places of public assembly and from all buildings covered by this part of the Code shall open outwardly

PART VI PLACES OF AMUSEMENT

CHAPTER 41 Theatres and other Places of Amusement

Section 4100 Application of chapter Every building hereafter erected or altered and designed to be used as a public theatre opera house or other building intended for theatrical or operatic purposes or for public entertainment of any kind where stage scenery and apparatus are employed shall be built to comply with the requirements of this chapter but all theatres or places of amusement now existing may be altered providing such alteration does not amount to a virtual reconstruction thereof so as to make it a new building No building which of this act is not in actual use January first one thousand nine hundred and thirty for theatrical or operatic purposes and no building hereafter erected not in conformity with the requirements of this chapter shall be used for theatrical or operatic purposes or for public entertainments of any kind where stage scenery and apparatus are employed until the same shall have been made to conform to the requirements of this chapter

Section 4101 Exceptions None of the provisions of this chapter shall apply to any hall club place of worship or other place not devoted to the business of such public entertainments so as to prohibit the giving of a single or occasional theatrical vaudeville or operatic performance therein if a permit for each such entertainment shall first be obtained from the proper licensing authorities of such cities

Section 4102 Drawings Before proceeding with the erection or aleration of any building to be used for theatrical or operatic purposes the owner or his agent shall submit for approval to the Chief of the Bureau of Building Inspection detailed drawings showing the size of the auditorium balconies galleries foyers lobbies boxes loges courts passages corridors and stairs the size location and number of exits the number width and length of all aisles the number and width of all seats with the distance between rows back to back and their arrangement and complete details of the curtain and its lifting mechanism Such owner or his agent shall also submit to both the Chief of the Bureau of Building Inspection and the Chief of the Bureau of Fire for their approval detailed drawings showing the location of the standpipes and the size and number thereof the number and character of hose outlets the location size and arrangement of piping the location and spacing of sprinklers valves alarms and Fire Department couplings and the character of interior water supply from tank or city mains

Section 4103 Approval No building described in Section 4100 of this chapter shall be opened to the public for theatrical or operatic purposes or for public entertainments of any kind where stage scenery or apparatus are employed until the Bureau of Building Inspection the Bureau of Fire and the Fire Marshal respectively shall have approved the same in writing as conforming to the requirements of this chapter and the mayors of the said cities shall refuse to issue any license for any such building and shall close the same and prevent its opening until a certificate in writing of such approval shall have been given by the Bureau of Building Inspection the Bureau of Fire and the Fire Marshal respectively

Section 4104 Type of construction Every such building hereafter erected shall be of First Class Type A Construction

Means of Egress

Section 4105 Frontage and street exits Every theatre accommodating three hundred (300) persons shall have at least two exits When accommodating five hundred (500) persons at least three exits shall be provided these exits not referring to or including the exits to the open court at the sides of the theatre

Every such building shall have at least one front on the street which shall be as wide as the widest part of the auditorium or assembly hall and in such front there shall be suitable means of entrance and exit for the audience unless there shall also be a way or passage leading directly from the auditorium to another street in which case the means of entrance and exit by such way or passage shall be taken into consideration and to such extent as they shall furnish entrances and exits and if they shall be of sufficient width to meet the requirements of this chapter there need be no means of entrance or exit in front saving by the side courts hereafter stipulated for Any building located on a street having a width thereon as wide as the widest part of the auditorium or assembly hall shall be considered as having a front on said street within the meaning of this chapter if in addition thereto there shall be a way or passage leading from said theatre to another street which way or passage shall be of a width not less than twenty-five (25) feet in the clear

The entrance of the main front of the building shall not be on a higher or lower level from the sidewalk than four steps unless approved by the Bureau

Each exit shall be at least five (5) feet in width in the clear and provided with doors of incombustible material All of said doors shall open outwardly and must be fastened with panic bolts

Section 4106 Exits to courts In addition to the aforesaid entrances and exits on the street there shall be reserved for service in case of an emergency an open court or space on each side of the auditorium not bordering on a street

The unobstructed clear width of every such open court or space shall be not less than eight (8) feet where the total number of persons to be accommodated in the auditorium is not over seven hundred (700) increasing proportionatly in width above eight (8) feet in the ratio of one foot for every five hundred (500) persons above seven hundred (700) to be accommodated

Every such open court or space shall extend from each and every exit required to lead thereto to a street or open public space and opening thereon either directly or through a corridor or passageway of fireproof construction not less than ten (10) feet high in the clear having an unobstructed clear width equal to that required for the open court or space and seperated completely by solid walls floors and ceilings from the building or structure through which it passes provided that no such corridor or passageway shall pass under any portion of the auditorium or stage

Any open court or space may be used in common for two or more auditoriums provided the unobstructed clear width of such open court or space is equal to that required for the total number of persons to be accommodated in all the auditoriums opening on the same

If there be in addition to the front on a street a way or passage of the width aforesaid leading into another street then it will be sufficient if said open court or courts shall extend along the auditorium on each side thereof to said front on said street on which the theatre shall be located

Said courts or corridors shall have no projection in the same the outer openings to be provided with doors or gates opening toward the street

From the auditorium opening into the said open courts or on a street there shall not be less than two exits on each side in each tier from and including the parquet and each and every gallery

The said open courts and corridors shall not be used for storage purposes or for any purpose whatsoever except for exit and entrance from and to the auditorium and stage and must be kept free and clear during performances

Section 4107 Exit doorways Doorways of exit or entrance for use of the people shall not be less than five (5) feet in width and there shall be five (5) doorways for the first five hundred (500) persons and an additional five (5) foot doorway for each two hundred (200) persons or portion thereof thereafter

These doorways of exit and of entrance may be in the said front altogether or in the case of a theatre having also an exit and entrance directly to and from another street through a way or passage covered or otherwise of a width not less than twenty-five (25) feet in the clear some of the said doorways may be made therein to such extent as said entrance or passage will accommodate the same

All doors of exit or entrance shall open outwardly and be hung to swing in such manner as not to become an obstruction in a passage or corridor and no such doors shall be locked from the inside during any presentation or when the building is open to the public

Section 4108 Foyers lobbies and corridors The aggregate capacity of the foyers lobbies corridors passages and rooms for the use of the audience not including aisle space between seats shall on each floor or gallery be sufficient to contain the entire number to be accommodated on said floor or gallery in the ratio of one hundred and fifty (150) square feet of floor room for every one hundred (100) persons

The level of said corridors at the front entrance to the building shall not be greater than one step above the level of the sidewalk where they being at the street entrance

Section 4109 Aisles All aisles on the respective floors in the auditorium having seats on both sides of same shall not be less than three (3) feet wide where they begin and shall be increased in width towards the exits in the ratio of one and one-half (1½) inches to five (5) running feet Aisles having seats on one side only shall not be less than two (2) feet wide at their beginning and increased in width the same as aisles having seats on both sides Theatres having three (3) exits to the side courts on each side shall have a cross-over aisle five (5) feet wide connecting the two (2) central exits

Section 4110 Gradients To overcome any slight difference of level in or between courts corridors lobbies passages and aisles gradients or inclined planes shall be employed instead of steps where possible Such gradients shall be not over one (1) foot in ten (10) feet with no perpendicular rise

Section 4111 Gallery exits Distinct and separate places of exit and entrance shall be provided for each gallery above the first A common place of exit and entrance may serve for the main floor of the auditorium and the first gallery provided its capacity be equal to the aggregate capacity of the outlets from the main floor and said gallery No passage leading to any stairway communicating with any entrance or exit shall be less than four (4) feet in width in any part thereof

From the auditorium opening into the said open courts or on the side street there shall be not less than two (2) exits on each side in each tier from and including the parquet and each and every gallery

Section 4112 Staircases in galleries Where the seating capacity is for more than one thousand (1000) people there shall be at least two (2) independent staircases with direct exterior outlets provided for each gallery in the auditorium where there are not more than two (2) galleries and the same shal be located on opposite sides of said galleries Where there are more than two (2) galleries one (1) or more additional staircases shall be provided the outlets from which shall communicate directly with the principal exit or other exterior outlets All said staircases shall be of width proportioned to the seating capacity as elsewhere herein described Where the seating capacity is for one thousand (1000) people or less two (2) direct lines of staircases only shall be required located on opposite sides of the galleries and in both cases shall extend from the sidewalk level to the upper gallery wth outlets for each gallery to each of said staircases Stairs leading to the galleries may be left open on one side in which case they shall be constructed as provided for similar stairs leading from the entrance hall to the main floor of the auditorium No door shall open immediately upon a flight of stairs but a landing at least the width of the door shall be provided between such stairs and door

Section 4113 Stage stairways At least two (2) independent staircases with direct exterior outlets shall also be provided for the service of the stage but they shall not both be located on the same side of the stage

Section 4114 Stairways All stairs within the building shall be constructed of incombustible material througout and the openings to said staircases from each tier shall be of the full width of the stairs In the case of enclosed stairways from balconies or galleries such stairways shall not communicate with the basement or cellar All stairs shall have treads of uniform width and risers of uniform height throughout in each flight Stairways serving for the exit of fifty (50) people shall be at least four (4) feet wide between railings or between walls and for every additional fifty (50) people to be accommodated six (6) inches must be added to their width The width of all stairs shall be measured in the clear between hand rails In no case shall the risers of any stairs exceed seven and one-half (7½) inches in height nor shall the treads exclusive of nosings be less than ten and one-half (10½) inches wide in straight stairs No circular or winding stairs for the use of the public shall be permitted When straight stairs return directly on themselves a landing of the full width of both flights without steps shall be provided Stairs turning at an angle shall have a proper landing without winders introduced at said turn

In stairs when two (2) side flights connect with one (1) main flight no winders shall be introduced and the width of the main flight shall be at least equal to the aggregate width of the side flights All stairs shall have proper landings introduced at convenient distances

Section 4115 Stairway handrails All inclosed staircases shall have on both sides strong handrails firmly secured to the wall about three (3) inches distant therefrom and about three (3) feet above the stairs but said handrails shall not run on level platforms and landings where the same is more in length than the width of the stairs All staircases eight (8) feet and over in width shall be provided with a centre handrail of hard wood or metal not less than two (2) inches in diameter placed at a height of about three (3) feet above the centre of the treads and supported on wrought-iron or brass standards of sufficient strength placed not farther than four (4) feet apart and securely bolted to the treads or risers of stairs or both

Section 4116 Fire-escapes In the said open court or courts there shall be balconies at each level or tier above the parquet on each side of the auditorium of sufficient length to embrace the two (2) exits and from said balconies there shall be staircases extending to the ground level with a rise of not over eight and one-half (8½) inches to a step and not less than nine (9) inches tread exclusive of the nosing

Said balconies shall be not less than four (4) feet in width where the seating capacity is not over one thousand (1000) five (5) feet in width where the seating capacity is more than one thousand (1000) and not over fifteen hundred (1500) and six (6) feet in width where the seating capacity is over fifteen hundred (1500)

If the said balconies be carried to and connect with an enclosed tower stairway having its exit directly to the street the open courts or corridors hereinbefore described may have deducted from their width the capacity of the staircases herein called for

Every staircase from the galleries and balconies to the court level shall be of the same width as the balcony directly above such staircase and as before mentioned in this section

All the before-mentioned balconies and staircases shall be constructed of iron throughout including the floors which shall be of solid safety tread and of ample strength to sustain the load to be carried by them and they shall be covered with a metal hood or awning to be constructed as shall be directed by the Bureau

Section 4117 Auditorium walls Interior walls built of fireproof materials shall separate the auditorium from the entrance vestibule and from any room or rooms of the same also from any lobbies corridors refreshment or other rooms

Section 4118 Roof and floors of auditorium The roof over the auditorium and the entire main floor of the auditorium and vestibule also the entire floor of the second story of the front superstructure over the entrance lobby and corridors and all galleries and supports for the same in the auditorium shall be constructed of iron or steel and fireproof materials not excluding the use of wooden floor boards and necessary sleepers to fasten the same to but such sleepers shall not mean timbers of support and by the spaces between sleepers excepting a portion under the stepping in the galleries which shall be properly fire stopped shall be solidly filled with incombustible material up to the under side of the floor boards

Section 4119 Partitions and Walls The partitions in that portion of the building which contains the auditorium the entrance and vestibule and every room and passage devoted to the use of the audience shall be constructed of fireproof materials prescribed in Chapter 23 including the furring of outside or other walls The walls separating the actors' dressing rooms together with the partitions dividing the dressing-rooms from the stage and the partitions dividing the dressing rooms together with the partitions of every passageway from the same to the stage and all other partitions on or about the stage shall be constructed of fireproof material prescribed in Chapter 23 All doors in any of said partitions shall be of iron or of wood constructed as hereinbefore described

Section 4120 Proscenium construction A fire wall of solid masonry exceptable to the bureau shall separate the auditorium from the stage and the same shall extend at least four (4) feet above the stage roof or the auditorium roof if the latter be higher and shall be coped If such wall is of the self-supporting bearing type it shall be not less than thirteen (13) inches in thickness if of the standard type supported on a steel frame it shall be not less than nine (9) inches thick Such wall shall not be recessed more than four (4) inches for the introduction of such fixtures as electric switches etc Above the proscenium opening there shall be an iron girder covered with fireproof materials to protect it from the heat The molded frame around the proscenium opening shall be formed entirely of fireproof materials if metal be used the metal shall be filled in solid with non-combustible material and securely anchored to the wall with iron

There shall be no opening through the proscenium wall except the curtain opening and not more than four others which shall be located at or below the level of the stage These latter openings shall not exceed twenty-one (21) superficial feet each and have iron or standard fire doors in each face of the wall securely hung to rabbeted iron frames or rabbets in the brick work or made to slide on track of heavy flat-rolled steel They shall be hung so as to be opened from either side at all times Direct access to these doors shall be provided on both sides and the doorways and approaches shall always be kept free from any incumbrance

Should there be constructed an orchestra over the stage above the proscenium opening the said orchestra shall be placed on the auditorium side of the proscenium fire wall and shall be entered only from the auditorium side of said wall

Section 4121 Fireproof curtain 1 General requirements The proscenium opening shall be provided with a curtain made of incombustible materials and installed to lap the masonry opening not less than eighteen (18) inches on each side and two (2) feet at the top and to intercept flame and smoke and prevent glow from a severe fire on the stage from showing on the auditorium side for a sufficient length of time to permit the safe exit of all persons from the auditorium The period of protection shall be taken as not less than fifteen minues The emergency closing of the curtain in case of fire shall be effected by gravity in less than one minute from the full open position but the last six (6) feet of travel shall require not less than five (5) seconds

2 General design of frame The curtain shall have a rigid framework of steel covered with asbestos cloth on both the auditorium and stage sides

The curtain shall in no case have a thickness of less than five (5) inches nor less than 1/120 of its span

The framework shall have interior members of tubes structural shapes bars or rods of steel The horizontal members to be spaced not more than eight (8) feet apart and the vertical members not more than ten (10) feet apart

The bottom of the curtain shall have a yielding pad of incombustible material not less than three (3) inches thick to form a seal against the floor

3 Covering Both the auditorium and stage sides of the framework shall be covered with a brass wire reinforced close-woven asbestos cloth The cloth shall have a content of ninety five (95) per cent asbestos and shall weigh not less than three (3) pounds per square yard All strips shall be in one continuous length the full height of the curtain the strips of cloth shall be lapped not less than one inch and sewed with two lines of stitching of asbestos thread which shall be of the same or greater strength than the yarns of the cloth

The asbestos cloth covering shall be secured by a clamping strip of 1¼x5/16 half oval iron bolted eight (8) inches on centers to the outside members of the frame

4 Painting The asbestos cloth on both sides of the curtain shall after erection be painted with a mineral paint composed of four (4) parts of casein to ten (10) parts of concentrated solution of sodium silicate to which may be added twenty (20) parts of pigment The paint shall be applied hot and be well brushed into the cloth

5 Curtain Guides The curtain shall be guided throughout its travel by rigid steel guides These guides shall be built integral with the smoke pockets and shall extend from the stage level to a height of twice the height of the proscenium opening plus five (5) feet The smoke pocket shall be not less than a nine (9) inch channel and a fourteen by a quarter 14 x ¼) inch steel plate or equivalent section Such guides and smoke pockets shall be securely bolted in place every four (4) feet to approved anchors built into wall or ¾ inch bolts through the wall and designed to form a stop between the curtain and the wall to prevent smoke and flame from passing around the edges of the curtain

6 Lifting Cables and Rigging The curtain shall be hung on steel lifting cables one at each end and one at intermediate points not over ten (10) feet apart These cables shall be ½ inch in diameter and shall be attached to drums twenty (20) inches in diameter which are keyed fast to a heavy rolled operating shaft

The operating shaft shall run in machined and self-lubricating journals one on each side of each drum and one at each end

The curtain shall be balanced by two counterweights only to such an extent that when released it shall descend by gravity Each counterweight shall be supported by two lifting cables of one-half inch diameter which shall be attached to drums keyed fast to operating shaft Counterweight frame to be made with top and bottom weights connected with one-inch

tie rods to receive counterweight Counteweights to operate on 2½ x 2½ x ⅜ inch tee bar tracks secured to proscenium wall by 2½ x ⅜ inch "U" brackets Each bracket is to be double-bolted to wall Counterweight guides to be set on the stage floor and continue for the full travel of the counterweight frame plus five (5) feet The counterweight tracks at the stage floor shall be enclosed with a sheet metal guard of number 16 metal to a height of eight (8) feet above the stage floor

7 Operating Equipment The curtain shall be normally operated at least once during each performance

The normal operation of the curtain is to be the raising and lowering electrically from one station by ⅜ inch steel tiller cable controlling operating switch and shall be equipped with travel and over-travel limit stops The emergency lowering of the curtain shall be by gravity obtained by under balancing the curtain with reference to the counterweight

Emergency control stations shall be located at each side of the proscenium opening of the stage floor and there shall be at least three quick-acting heat-operated release devices for automatically closing the curtain

For checking the automatic lowering of the curtain an oil dash pot of five-inch diameter cylinder machine bored and fitted with plunger and rod with a sixteen-inch sheave on top of rod with necessary cable for checking the curtain six (6) feet above the floor and then allowing curtain to lower slowly and settle easily on the stage floor

8 Hoisting Machine The hoisting machine to be of simple design and positive in operation to be connected by roller chain and sprockets keyed fast to operating shaft Machine to have machine-cut gears with bronze worm and steel worm direct-connected to a three (3) horsepower electric motor All gears and worms to be enclosed in self-lubricating housings all mounted on a single base plate

9 Approval of Plans and Installations Complete details of a proposed curtain and lifting mechanism shall be submitted to the Bureau and approval obtained before the installation or erection of any proscenium curtain is begun The completed installation shall be similarly approved after operating tests before any theatre is opened for public performances

Section 4122 Stage 1 Construction All that portion of the stage not comprised in the working of scenery traps and other mechanical apparatus for the presentation of a scene usually equal to the width of the proscenium opening shall be built of iron or steel beams filled in between with fireproof materials and all girders for the support of said beams shall be wrought iron or rolled steel The fly galleries entire including pin-rails shall be constructed of iron or steel and the floors of said galleries shall be composed of iron or steel beams filled with fireproof materials and no wood boards or sleepers shall be used as a covering over beams but the said floors shall be entirely fireproof The rigging loft shall be fireproof except the floor covering the same

Iron ladders or stairs securely fixed to the wall on the stage side shall be provided to overcome any difference of level existing between the floor or galleries on the stage side of the fire wall and those on the other side in the auditorium

2 Skylights There shall be provided over the stage metal skylights of an area or a combined area of at least one-eighth of the area of the said stage fitted up with sliding sash and glazed with double thick sheet glass not exceeding one-eighth of an inch thick and each pane therof measuring not less than three hundred square inches and the whole of which skylights shall be so constructed as to open instantly on the cutting or burning of a hempen cord which shall be arranged to hold said skylights closed or some other equally simple approved device for opening them may be provided There shall be provided immediately under the glass of said skylight a wire netting or the skylight may be glazed with wire-glass.

3 Scenery and fittings All stage scenery curtains and decorations made of combustible material and all wood-work in or about the stage shall be saturated with some non-combustible material or otherwise rendered safe against fire to the satisfaction of the Bureau of Fire and the Fire Marshal and all such stage scenery shall be raised and lowered without the use of counterweights unless such counterweights are so situated that they operate against the wall and do not overhang the stage

Section 4123 Dressing rooms Dressing rooms may be placed in the fly galleries Provided that proper exits are secured therefrom to the fire-escapes in the open courts and that the partitions and other matters pertaining to dressing-rooms shall conform to the requirements herein contained but the stairs leading to the same shall be non-combustible

Dressing rooms shall not be placed under the stage or in or under the auditorium The walls separating the dressing rooms from the stage shall be of solid masonry not less than nine (9) inches in thickness and each opening therein shall be protected with approved automatic-closing fire-doors

Section 4124 Seats All seats in the auditorium excepting those contained in the boxes shall be not less than thirty (30) inches from back to back measured in a horizontal direction and firmly secured to the floor There shall be not more than fourteen (14) seats in any row extending from one aisle to another nor more than seven (7) seats in any row extending from one aisle to a wall No stool or seat shall be placed in any aisle All platforms in galleries formed to receive the seats shall not be more than twenty-one (21) inches in height of riser nor less than thirty (30) inches in width of platform

Section 4125 Heating The heating shall be by means of steam hot water or mechanical hot air Heating apparatus shall be in an approved fireproof room with walls and ceiling constructed of solid masonry not less than nine inches in thickness with entrances to same from the outside Steam or hot water pipes and hot air ducts are not to pierce ceiling Pipes when passing through side walls are to be filled in tight with non-combustible material Air ducts to be filled in tight with non-combustible material and be provided with automatic fire doors or approved automatic louvers of metal plate of not less than twelve U S gauge at wall line

Every steam boiler which may be required for heating or other purposes shall be located outside the building and the space allotted to the same shall be enclosed by walls of masonry on all sides and the ceiling of such space shall be constructed of fireproof materials All doorways in said walls shall have iron doors No coil or radiator shall be placed in any aisle or passageway used as an exit where it forms an obstruction but all said coils and radiators shall be placed in recesses formed in the wall or partition to receive the same All supply return or exhaust pipes shall be properly encased and protected where passing through floors or near woodwork

Section 4126 Lighting 1 Every building described in section 4100 of this chapter shall be lighted throughout by an approved system of incandescent electric lights In addition to the regular lighting system there shall be provided an approved system of emergency lighting to operate automatically on failure of the current

2 Adequacy Every portion of the building devoted to the uses or accommodation of the public also all outlets leading to the streets and including the open courts and corridors shall be well and properly lighted during every performance and the same shall remain lighted until the entire audience has left the premises.

3 Lights in stairs and corridors All lights in the hall corridors lobby or any other part of the said building used by the audience except the auditorimum must be controlled by a separate shut-off located in the lobby and controlled only in that particular place

4 Fireproofing No light shall be inserted in the walls woodwork ceilings or in any part of the building unless protected by incombustibile materials

5 Stage lights All stage lights shall be installed according to the best known methods and subject to the approval of the Bureau of Fire The trough containing the footlights shall be formed of and surrounded by incombustible materials

6 Border lights The vertical border lights at the proscenium opening shall be located inside the asbestos curtain and in substantial metal receptables and shall be permanently fixed in position Hinged or movable border lights will not be allowed under any circumstances and the receptacle for the border lights shall be absolutely clear in every way from any possible contact with the curtain

Section 4127 Fire extinguishing appliances In every building described in section 4100 of this chapter there shall be provided

1 Standpipes Standpipes of four-inch internal diameter or larger shall be provided with two and one-half (2½) inch hose valves and standard City Fire Department couplings on every floor and gallery as follows namely One or more on each side of the auditorium in each tier also one on each side of the stage in each tier and in the corridors or passageways leading to the dressing rooms property room music rooms storage rooms carpenter and paint shops basements used for mercantile purposes and such other sections as may be directed by the Chief Engineer Bureau of Fire who at his discretion may permit a reduction in the pipe size of branch lines supplying single hose outlets in small rooms or passages All such standpipes shall be kept clear of obstructions

2 Hose A proper and sufficient quantity of one and one-half (1½) inch unlined linen hose fitted with a reducer having a two and one-half (2½) inch standard City Fire Department female coupling on one end and a one and one-half (1½) inch male screw coupling on the other and with hose-nozzles of one-half (½) inch diameter attached thereto and with hose spanners at each outlet shall be kept attached in readiness for immediate use at all times The length of hose shall be sufficient to furnish streams of water at all portions of the building but in no case shall it exceed fifty (50) feet in length

3 Hose cabinets Hose cabinets shall be provided with glass front doors so that the hose will be plainly visible at all times

4 Water supply The water supply shall be from a tank of five thousand (5,000) gallons net capacity or more as may be directed by the Chief Engineer Bureau of Fire at an elevation of twenty (20) feet above the stage roof The tank and its pipe connections for filling heating and draining shall be constructed and fitted in accordance with the standard regulations of the Philadelphia Fire Underwriters' Association and Associated Factory Mutual Fire Insurance Companies

5 Tank A single tank may be used for supply to both hose and sprinkler system provided its capacity is sufficient to meet the specific requirements in each case and the pipe connections are so arranged that an ample reserve supply is maintained for the sprinkler system at all times

Where the city water supply is sufficient to furnish not less than twenty-five (25) pounds pressure at the upper hose outlets at all times a four (4) inch connection with city mains may be substituted for the elevated tank at the discretion of the Chief Engineer Bureau of Fire

6 Standpipe connection A Siamese Fire Department connection shall be provided on the front wall of building with female couplings of standard City Fire Department size and construction so that connections can be made to the standpipe systems with City Fire Department hose and water supply either from city fire engine or high pressure hydrant and to be clearly marked "Standpipe Connection"

7 Valves A gate valve of outside screw and yoke pattern shall be provided at an accessible location inside the building to control the water supply to standpipe system either from tank or city mains Horizontal swing check valves shall be provided in all tank and city connections and in the Siamese Fire Department connection

8 Fittings Fittings in the main water connections shall be of the long turn patterns and pipe hangers and supports shall be of substantial type well secured

9 Test At the time of installation standpipe systems shall be tested and proved tight at a hydrostatic pressure at least twenty-five per cent in excess of the highest normal working pressure to which they will be subjected Test to be for a two-hour period and pressure taken at the base of the system Concealed piping to be tested before being covered in

10 Automatic sprinklers A separate and distinct system of automatic sprinklers not connected in any manner with the hose standpipe system (Except that the water supply may be taken from an elevated tank of sufficient capacity for both systems provided it meets the specific requirements and the pipe connections are so arranged that an ample reserve supply is maintained for the sprinkler system at all times) shall be installed throughout all portions of the stage section of the building including the roof of stage under gridiron or rigging loft fly galleries under stage in dressing rooms property rooms music rooms storage rooms carpenter and paint shops store basements basements occupied for restaurant purposes and such other sections as may be directed by the Chief of the Bureau of Building Inspection and the Chief Engineer Bureau of Fire

11 Water supply for sprinklers The water supply shall be from a tank of five thousand (5,000) gallons net capacity or more as may be directed by the Chief Engineer Bureau of Fire at an elevation of twenty (20) feet above the upper lines of sprinklers in the stage roof section

Where the city water supply is sufficient to furnish not less than fifteeen (15) pounds pressure at the upper lines of sprinklers at all times a connection of approved size with city mains may be substituted for the elevated tank at the discretion of the Chief Engineer Bureau of Fire

12 Sprinkler connection A Siamese Fire Department connection shall be provided on front walls of building with female couplings of standard city Fire Department size and construction so that connection can be made to the sprinkler system with city Fire Department hose and water supply either from city fire engine or high pressure hydrant and to be clearly marked "Automatic Sprinklers"

13 Valves A gate valve of the outside screw and yoke pattern shall be provided at an accessible location inside the building to control the water supply to sprinkler system either from tank or city mains Horizontal swing check valves shall be provided in all tank and city connections and in the Siamese Fire Department connection

14 Alarm Valve and Gong A water flow alarm valve and gong shall be provided on outside of building to give notice of fire

15 Approval The entire equipment including tank tank connections the size of distributing pipes the manner of erection spacing of sprinklers sprinkler heads sprinkler alarm valves sprinkler gongs gate and check valves shall be of types approved by the Chief of the Bureau of Building Inspection and the Chief Engineer Bureau of Fire

16 Definition Sprinkler systems as mentioned in this chapter except as may be otherwise prescribed by the Bureau of Building Inspection must be systems of automatic sprinklers which conform to the standard regulations of the Chief Engineer of the Bureau of Fire

17 Test At the time of installation automatic sprinkler systems shall be tested and proved tight at a hydrostatic pressure of one hundred and fifty (150) pounds per square inch Duration of test to be for a two hour period and pressure taken at the base of system Concealed piping to be tested before being covered in

18 Miscellaneous There shall also be kept in readiness for immediate use on the stage at least four (4) chemical fuel fire extinguishers of two and one-half (2½) gallons capacity and at least four axes and two twenty-five (25) foot hooks two fifteen (15) foot hooks and two ten (10) foot hooks on each tier or floor of the stage

19 Control The entire lighting system and all apparatus for extinguishing of fire or guarding against same as in this chapter specified shall be in charge and under the control of the Bureau of Fire Department of Public Safety and said Department is hereby directed to see that the arrangements in respect thereto are carried out and enforced and Council may by ordinance fix a reasonable compensation for such services

Section 4128 Miscellaneous Requirements 1 Ceilings The ceiling of the auditorium and under each gallery shall be formed of fireproof materials

2 Wall and Ceiling Coverings None of the walls or ceilings shall be covered with wood sheathing canvas or any other combustible material but this shall not exclude the use of wood wainscoting to a height not to exceed six (6) feet which shall be filled in solid between the wainscoting and the wall with fireproof materials

3 Fronts of Galleries The front of each gallery shall be formed of fireproof materials excepting the capping which may be made of wood

4 Lathing All lathing wherever used shall be of metal or other incombustible construction affording fire protection

5 Shelving and Cupboards All shelving and cupboards in each and every dressing room property room or storage room shall be constructed of metal slate or some other incombustible material

Section 4129 Offices Stores Etc Any portion or portions of the premises bordering on a main street may be used for offices stores or rooms for similar purposes Provided the walls ceilings and floors separating such portion or portions from the theatre proper are built or constructed of such fireproof material as shall be approved by the Bureau of Building Inspection and the Fire Marshal and that the portion or portions so used for offices stores or rooms for similar purposes with the theatre proper and also that a fireproof exit is provided from the theatre on each tier equal to the combined width of exits opening on opposite sides in each tier communicating with balconies and staircases leading to the street and in a manner provided elsewhere in this chapter

Said exit passages shall be entirely cut off by brick walls from said offices stores or apartments and the floors and ceilings in each tier shall be fireproof

Section 4130 Storage Rooms Workshops Etc No workshop storage or general property room shall be allowed above the auditorium or under the same or in any of the fly galleries

Section 4131 Use and Occupancy Restriction (a) No portion of any building hereafter erected or altered used or intended to be used for theatrical or other purposes as in this chapter specified shall be used or occupied as a factory workshop or manufactory or for storage purposes except as may be herein specifically provided for Said restriction as relates not only to that portion of the building which contains the auditorium and the stage but applies also to the entire structure in connection therewith

(b) No store or room contained in the building as aforesaid shall be let or used for carrying on any business dealings until such occupancy has been approved and so certified by the Fire Marshal of such city of the First class

(c) No lodging accommodations shall be allowed in any part of the building communicating with the theatre section

(d) When human occupancy is contemplated the theatre section shall be separated from the balance of the structure both horizontally and vertically by unpierced walls and ceiling and floor slabs of approved solid masonry or reinforced concrete not less than nine (9) inches in thickness and such portion used or intended to be used for human occupancy shall have sufficient means of entrance and exit entirely separate and distinct from those for the theatre portion

Section 4132 Diagram of exits A diagram or plan of each tier gallery or floor showing distinctly the exits therefrom each occupying a space not less than fifteen (15) square inches shall be printed in a legible manner on the program of the performance Every exit shall have over the same on the inside the word "EXIT" painted in legible letters not less than eight (8) inches high

Section 4133 Saving clause It shall be within the power of the Mayor after full report from the Department of Public Safety to cause the closing up of any theatre opera house or public hall where in the judgment of the Mayor and the Department of Public Safety the ingress and egress are not reasonably safe for the safe and speedy exit of the audience in case of fire or panic

CHAPTER 42 Motion Picture Buildings

Section 4200 Application of chapter Every building hereafter erected or altered and designed to be used for the public exhibition of motion pictures with or without synchronized reproduction of sound shall be built or altered to comply with the requirements of this chapter but any building which is in actual use at the time of the passage of this act for the exhibition of motion pictures may be altered provided such alteration does not amount to a virtual reconstruction thereof so as to make it a new building No building which at the time of the passage of this act is not in actual use for motion picture exhibitions and no building hereafter erected or altered shall be used for motion picture purposes unless it conforms to the requirements of this chapter

Section 4201 Exceptions None of the provisions of this chapter shall apply to any hall club place of worship or other place not devoted to the exhibition of motion pictures so as to prohibit the giving of a single or occasional motion picture exhibition therein if a permit for each such exhibition shall first be obtained from the proper licensing authorities of such cities

Section 4202 Approval No building described in section 4200 of this chapter not in actual use for such purposes at the time of the passage of this act shall be open to the public for the exhibition of motion pictures until the Bureau of Building Inspection and the Bureau of Fire respectively shall have approved the same in writing as conforming to the requirements of this chapter and the mayors of the said cities shall refuse to issue any license for any such building and shall close the same and prevent its opening until a certificate in writing of such approval shall have been given by the Bureau of Building Inspection the Bureau of Fire and the Fire Marshal respectively

Section 4203 Drawings Before proceeding with the erection or alteration of any building to be used for the exhibition of motion pictures the owner or his agent shall submit for approval to the Chief drawings as required in section 303 of this code Such drawing shall show in detail the size of the auditorium lobbies and courts the size location and number of exits the number width and length of all aisles and the number and width of all seats with the distance between rows back to back and their arrangement

Section 4204 General requirements 1 Auditorium The auditorium in every such building shall be located in the first story only except that the auditorium may be located in the first story and in the first gallery as respects any building of fire proof construction for the exhibition of motion pictures only Provided that the said first gallery shall have a seating capacity of not more than two hundred seats and furthermore provided there shall be two exit stairways not less than five feet in width each leading to the lobby of the main floor or entrance of the theatre The number of exits from the main auditorium shall be equal to the requirements for the aggregate capacity of the main floor and shall have in addition two (2) five foot doors for the exits of the galleries and provided that the said building shall be approved by the Bureau of Fire Bureau of Building Inspection and Fire Marshal

2 Lobby There shall be provided in the rear of the seats abutting upon a street a lobby of sufficient size to provide at least one and one-half square feet of lobby room exclusive of the aisle space between seats for every person who may be seated in the building

3 Booth The booth for the moving picture machine shall be constructed of fireproof material with a ventilator extending through the front of the partition Such booth shall be constructed to conform to regulations of the Fire Marshal and shall not be used until approved by him

4 Heating The heating shall be as required in section 4123 of Chapter Forty-one of this code

5 Lighting The lighting shall be as required in section four thousand one hundred twenty-six chapter forty-one of this code All electrical installation throughout the building shall be approved by the Chief of the Electrical Bureau of said cities

Section 4205 Types of construction 1 Every such building covering an area in excess of five thousand (5,000) square feet and or having a seating capacity in excess of five hundred (500) shall be of First Class Type A construction as defined in section 3200 of this code and shall comply in every respect with all the provisions in Chapter forty-one governing the erection of theatres When so erected such building may contain any or all of the structural and equipment features such as stage and scenery dressing rooms balcony and galleries etc permitted in Chapter forty-one and may contain stores and/or offices as provided in section 4129 and shall be subject to the use and occupancy restrictions prescribed in section 4131

2 Every such building covering an area of five thousand (5,000) square feet or less and or with a seating capacity of five hundred (500) or less need not be of First Class Type A construction but shall comply in its construction with the general requirements of section 4204 of this chapter and in addition with the following special minimum requirements

(a) Construction The building shall be enclosed with solid masonry exceptable to the bureau walls the rear wall to abut on a street or alley or other open space with proper exit therefrom Buildings located upon the corner of two streets may in lieu of one of the rear exits therein provided for have an exit upon the side street providing said street is at least ten feet in width he first floor of such building shall be constructed of iron steel or reinforced concrete filled in with masonry concrete or other fireproof material the said iron or steel to be thoroughly fireproofed and the basement columns to be of fireproof construction The ceiling shall be covered with metal lath plastered with cement or gypsum or shall be other incombustible construction affording fire protection Every such building shall not be over one story in height nor have a balcony between the first floor and the roof There shall be provided a solid masonry exceptable to the Bureau wall separating the auditorium from the platform said wall to continue to a height of at least four (4) feet above the highest point of the roof

The platform shall be constructed of fireproof material except that portion equal to the width of the proscenium opening and the depth of the platform All partitions shall be constructed of fireproof material as prescribed in Chapter 23 and firmly secured to the floor and ceiling In the floor construction a wooden top floor may be used if attached to sleepers embedded in cinder concrete

(b) Frontage and Street Exits Every such building shall have at least one front abutting upon the street which front shall be not less than tweny-five (25) feet in width and shall be as wide as the widest part of the auditorium There shall be provided in the street front at least two five-foot exits where the seating capacity is two hundred and fifty (250) or less with two additional rear exits not less than five (5) feet in width and where the seating capacity is more than two hundred and fifty (250) and not more than five hundred (500) there shall be provided in the front at least three five-foot exits with two (2) additional exits in the rear each of which shall be six (6) feet in width Such rear exits shall lead directly to a street or alley not less than ten (10) feet in width The Chief may require additional exits in any case if in his judgment they may be deemed necessary or proper for the safety of the public

(c) Aisles All aisles shall be at least three (3) feet wide at the beginning and shall increase in width toward the exits in the ratio of one and one-half (1½) inches to five (5) running feet Aisles having seats on one side only shall be not less than two (2) feet wide at the beginning and shall increase in width in the above-mentioned ratio

(d) Gradients Gradients shall be used instead of steps wherever possible

(e) Seats All seats shall be placed not less than thirty (30) inches from back to back measured in a horizontal direction and firmly secured to the floor There shall be not more than fourteen (14) seats in any row extending from one aisle to another nor more than seven (7) seats in any row extending from one aisle to a wall No stool or seat shall be placed in any aisle

(f) Curtain The curtain shall be an approved asbestos curtain

(g) Decorations All decorations must be fireproofed and firmly fixed in position The flies or decorative fixtures upon the platform must be fireproofed and firmly fixed to the said platform

(h) Structural and Occupancy Restrictions No dressing room shall be allowed in such buildings The cellar shall not be used for manufacturing purposes or for the storage of materials No portion of any such buildings shall be occupied or used as a dwelling or tenement house apartment house hotel or department store Such restriction shall relate and be applicable not only to the portion containing the auditorium but also to the entire structure or building used for moving picture exhibitions or in connection therewith

Section 4206 Saving Clause It shall be within the power of the Mayor after full report from the Department of Public Safety to cause the closing up of any motion picture building where in the judgment of the Mayor and the Department of Public Safety the ingress and egress are not reasonably safe for the safe and speedy exit of the audience in case of fire or panic

PART VII DWELLINGS ETC

CHAPTER 43 Dwellings and Buildings Similarly Light in Character and Private Garages

Section 4300 Application of Chapter The provisions in this chapter shall be taken to govern the construction and alteration of one and two-family dwellings and other buildings similarly light in character where such structures do not exceed three stories or forty (40) feet in height and do not exceed one thousand five hundred (1500) feet in undivided area to govern the construction and alteration of private garages in connection with such dwellings or otherwise located when such garages do not exceed two (2) stories or twenty-five feet (25) in height and are not greater in area than three car capacity All other buildings and garages than those herein provided for shall conform to the other requirements of the code

Section 4301 Lot and Yard No dwelling house shall be erected on a lot of a less average width than fourteen (14) feet Provided that this limitation shall not apply to lots of less than fourteen (14) feet in width having buildings erected thereon Provided further that a dwelling house may be erected on a lot of less width than fourteen (14) feet and a lot of less width than forty-two (42) feet may be sub-divided into lots of equal width upon which dwelling houses may be erected but no such lot shall be decreased in width to a greater extent than five per centum of fourteen (14) feet This provision shall only apply when the aforesaid lots are bounded by ground having buildings erected thereon at the time of the approval of this act or when bounded on each side by ground belonging to other owners at the time of the approval of this act and every such dwelling shall have an open space attached to it in the rear or at the side equal to at least one hundred and forty-four (144) square feet of clear space unobstructed by any overhanging structure and no portion of any alley shall be counted as a part of such yard space and where a garage is part of a dwelling the one hundred and forty-four (144) square feet of open space may be in the rear of the garage

Section 4302 Building over dwelling yard Where a dwelling property is made vacant for the purpose of building over the required yard space for business purposes the building shall be so altered as to make it unavailable for dwelling purposes excepting that where dwellings are erected on corner lots at the intersection of two streets neither of which is less than twenty (20) feet in width the yard space required for dwellings may be encumbered in whole or in part by structures not exceeding one story or twelve (12) feet in height provided such structures do not diminish the light of any room in the dwelling below that required for tenement houses in Section 12 of Act of the General Assembly No four hundred twenty approved June eleventh one thousand nine hundred fifteen and further provided that every room in such structures also complies with the above provisions

Section 4303 Cellars and requirements in lieu of Cellars In all dwellings hereafter erected the cellars shall extend underneath the whole house and be ventilated from both ends or in lieu of such cellar it shall have a free air space of not less than eighteen (18) inches between the surface of the ground and the underside of the floor joists except that where the floor is of waterproofed masonry construction not less than four (4) inches thick such free air space may be omitted In case of a free air space is provided in lieu of a cellar it shall be drained and there shall be openings in the exterior walls for cross ventilation Such openings shall be screened by heavy galvanized wire mesh screen or closely fitted iron bars or other acceptable substitute so as to prevent the ingress of small animals When cellars are omitted dwellings may be set upon piers or foundation walls which shall extend below the frost line and to a depth required by law and shall have suitable footings to a depth required by law and shall have suitable footings to keep load distribution within carrying capacity of the soil In low damp or made ground the bottom of all cellars shall be covered with concrete or asphalt at least three (3) inches thick or such material as shall be approved by the Chief Additions of fourteen (14) feet or less to existing dwelling houses with cellars shall not be required to have a cellar provided there is an air space of eighteen (18) inches between the underside of the joists and the ground beneath such additions

Section 4304 Footings and foundation walls In all soils of less than one thousand (1000) pounds per square foot of bearing value suitable piles shall be driven to insure a bearing value sufficient to safely carry the load to be imposed thereon All footings and foundation walls of dwellings and buildings similarly light in character hereafter erected shall conform to the requirements of this code relating to stonework brickwork plain concrete reinforced concrete or solid concrete block and shall start six (6) inches below cellar bottoms All such footings and walls shall be built and all footings shall be laid in cement mortar Foundation walls may be laid in lime mortar machine mixed the mortar shall be tempered with ten per cent of hydraulic cement and provided further that foundations supporting concentrated loads shall be laid in cement mortar Where mass concrete is used for footings and foundation walls it shall conform to the requirements for mass concrete given in Section 1103 Reinforced concrete foundation walls shall not be built as party walls When built of concrete cast in place foundation walls shall be at least as thick as the walls supported but in no case less than twelve (12) inches When built of solid concrete block foundation walls shall conform to the requirements for thickness of solid brick walls

Section 4305 Exterior walls above ground story levels All exterior walls of dwellings and other buildings covered by this Chapter otherwise than as may be provided for private garages shall be constructed in accordance with the requirements of the Chapters in this code relating to masonry except that such requirements may be modified as follows

(a) Stone walls Solid walls of stone masonry may be laid in lime mortar when not stressed beyond the limits provided in Section 1403

(b) Solid walls of brick sand-lime brick and concrete brick Such units having an average compressive strength of not less than two thousand two hundred and fifty (2250) pounds to the square inch as prescribed in Section 1500 may be used in bearing and non bearing walls but this Section shall not be taken to exclude the use of sound salmon clay brick when such units are not exposed to the weather Solid bearing and non-bearing walls may be nine (9) inches thick when not more than twenty-six (26) feet in height measured from the first floor joist height at the front facing the highest grade When gable construction is used for such dwellings an additional five (5) feet is permitted to the peak of the gable

(c) Plain concrete walls Bearing and non-bearing walls of concrete may be nine (9) inches thick when not more than twenty-six (26) feet in height When gable construction is used an additional five (5) feet is permitted to the peak of the gable

(d) Solid unmarked concrete block walls Walls of such units shall conform as to thickness and height with the requirements for walls of solid brickwork

(e) Walls of hollow tile hollow concrete block hollow concrete tile hollow walls of brick Such walls shall be laid in cement mortar or cement-lime mortar except that lime mortar shall be permitted in hollow walls of brick sand-lime brick concrete brick or other units of similar size and shape made from clay or shale not exceeding two stories in height Bearing and non-bearing walls may be nine (9) inches thick for the uppermost twenty (20) feet When gable construction is used an additional five (5) feet is permitted to the peak of the gable

(f) Chases in thin walls Chases not exceeding one (1) inch in depth nor four (4) inches in width when intended for conduits or similar pipes may be cut in walls of solid construction nine (9) inches in thickness

Section 4306 Party walls Dwelling for one or two families not over twenty (20) feet in width and sixty (60) feet in length may have party walls of solid masonry nine (9) inches in thickness provided that the adjoining lot shall not be encumbered with more than nine (9) inches of stone wall and four and one-half (4½) inches of brick wall If over twenty (20) feet in width all the party walls shall be at least thirteen (13) inches thick the entire height Provided that no party wall shall encroach upon the adjoining lot more than the distance stipulated in the Chapter on Party Walls. In one-story buildings with solid division walls the said walls shall be built to conform with requirements of Party Walls All other sections of Chapter 18 on Party Walls Fire Walls and Fire Division Walls shall govern the construction of party walls in buildings of the character covered by this Chapter except as follows

(a) The requirements for construction of party walls may be met by complying with the requirements as to solid stonework solid brickwork and solid concrete block and chases in same as stipulated in Chapters 14 15 16 and 19 Sound salmon clay brick may be used in a manner provided in Section 4305

(b) Party walls shall not be required as a separation between open porches on the front or rear of dwellings nor as a separation between enclosed front porches with project beyond the wall above provided that between such an enclosed porch and the adjacent room there is a masonry wall with no opening or openings aggregating more than seven feet in height by six feet in width and provided further that where there are wood joisted floors to enclosed or open porches extending across the front or rear of dwellings the same shall be separated by a foundation wall to the underside of the floor

Section 4307 Openings in exterior masonry walls Dwellings having stores in part of the first story shall not be required to have the iron beams over bulk windows fireproofed Plank front frames of a width of five (5) feet or less may be exempted from the provisions of Section 1100 requiring masonry or metal lintels

Section 4308 Timbers and woodwork All such features of construction shall conform to the requirements elsewhere provided except that the minimum thickness of any wooden floor or in part over a garage opening unless the underside of such joists or rafters are not more than twelve (12) inches in depth and are spaced not more than sixteen (16) inches on centers and except that wood joists shall be spiked to stud-walls

Section 4309 Projections beyond walls All such projections shall conform to the requirements of Chapter 48 provided that no frame bathroom projecting from the upper story of any dwelling shall be erected within five (5) feet of any similar construction composed wholly or partly of wood unless the end of said bathroom facing such structure shall be covered with some approved fire-resistive material and in no case shall the distance dividing such structures be less than three (3) feet unless the ends shall have division walls of solid masonry not less than nine (9) inches thick built from the foundations of the buildings and carried up above the roof as hereinbefore provided for party walls It shall not be lawful to build a frame bathroom other than a projecting bathroom as provided for in this section and no such bathroom shall be greater in area than sixty (60) superficial feet It shall not be lawful to build such bathroom unless the plumbing fixtures for bath purposes be placed therein No frame projection shall be built wholly or in part over a garage opening

Section 4310 Frame sheds Frame sheds attached to dwellings shall not exceed twelve (12) feet in height nor have any floor or loft between the ground floor and the roof and shall not connect with a frame bay-window or bathroom projecting from any upper story said sheds shall not be erected within five (5) feet of any similar construction composed wholly or in part of wood unless the side of said shed facing such structure shall be covered with an approved fire-resistive material and in no case shall the distance dividing such structures be less than three (3) feet unless the ends shall have division walls of masonry not less than nine (9) inches thick built from the foundations of the building and carried up above the roof as hereinbefore provided for party walls or such other fireproof materials as shall be approved by the Chief The said shed may be open or enclosed but in no case shall it be lathed or plastered or lined with wood so as to constitute a room to be occupied as a habitation The roof of said shed must be covered with metal or other approved fire-resistive material No such shed shall extend to a greater distance than ten (10) feet in a direct line from the rear wall to which it is attached

Section 4311 Wooden dwellings and wooden buildings similarly light in character Outside the limits defined by Councils in Cities of the First Class wooden buildings may be erected subject to the following restrictions and regulations

A wooden building to be used as a dwelling house shall not exceed the height permitted by Section 3907 and external walls of said building shall not be placed at a less distance than three (3) feet from the party line of the lot upon which the building is to be erected unless a masonry external wall is substituted for the wooden wall and of a thickness regulating the thickness of masonry external walls Where a wooden building is already erected for dwelling purposes upon an adjoining lot there shall be between the wall of the building erected and the one to be erected—if of wood—a clear open space of four and one-half (4½) feet between the said buildings In the erection of wooden buildings in blocks of two or more houses to be occupied for dwelling purposes the said buildings shall have intercepting solid masonry walls not less than nine (9) inches thick said walls to be constructed in accordance with the provisions for Party Walls

Section 4312 Private garages When garages are constructed within the basements or cellars of dwellings or attached thereto they shall have no opening into or direct connection with the remainder of the house basement or cellar and the walls and ceilings of such garages shall be of a fire-protected construction A garage may be erected one story in height and not exceeding sixteen (16) by twenty (20) feet interior dimension on the rear of any lot or any alley or driveway not less than ten (10) feet wide such garage to have masonry walls subject to the approval of the Bureau or such garage may be one story of stamped steel construction of a size not exceeding twelve (12) by twenty (20) feet and not exceeding twelve (12) feet in height provided it be properly anchored to the ground All other private garages within the meaning of this chapter shall conform to the requirements herein provided for the construction of dwellings

Section 4303 Fuel storage and piping The piping and installation of fuel tanks and storage of liquids in garages and other buildings shall be in accordance with ordinances of Councils in Cities of the First Class

CHAPTER 44 Frame Structures

Section 4400 Enlarging Removing and Repairing of Frame Buildings Within the brick limits defined by Councils in Cities of the First Class it shall not be lawful to enlarge a frame building or to remove any such building except on the same lot or an adjoining lot belonging to the same owner. It shall not be lawful to repair reconstruct or remove any frame building which has been injured more than fifty (50) per cent of its original value by wear and tear or by the effects of the elements or by fire said value to be determined by the Bureau

Section 4401 Frame Structures on Wharves Within the brick limits defined by said Councils and to the extent provided by ordinance thereof it shall be lawful to erect on wharves frame sheds not exceeding twenty-seven (27) feet in height and elevators for the storage of grain or sheds of wood for the storage of coal or lumber when all the external parts of such sheds and elevators (except sheds for the storage of lumber) shall be covered with slate tile metal or incombustible material and their mode of construction and location shall be subject to the approval of the Bureau

Section 4402 Wooden Buildings Other Than Dwellings Wooden buildings to be used for other purposes than that of a dwelling house shall not exceed three stories or thirty-five (35) feet in height above the grade of the street or place upon which the said building is to be erected and shall not be placed at a less distance than ten (10) feet from any wooden building which is twenty-five (25) feet or more in height or at a less distance than four (4) feet from any other wooden building which is less than twenty-five (25) feet in height All Wooden buildings shall be built upon secure foundations of solid masonry in accordance with the provisions of Chapter 17 and carried up to the joists of the first story above the ground In the construction of workshops or other buildings of a like character for temporary purposes built upon soft or marshy land the Chief may in his discretion permit the sills to be placed upon mudsills or blocking or upon piles cut to the height of grade All wooden buildings shall be constructed to safely carry such weights per superficial foot for the several purposes for which they may be constructed

Section 4403 Frame Sheds Open shelter sheds of wood may be erected upon permit but no such shed shall be enclosed with combustible materials on any of its four sides The location and construction of said sheds shall be subject to the inspection and approval of the Bureau All permits granted for the erection of frame sheds may be revoked and the shed shall be removed within thirty days after notice from the Director of Public Safety

Section 4404 Frame Bay Windows Dormers Porches Sun Porches Stoops Etc. All frame bay-windows dormers cornices porches stoops and other such frame parts of buildings hereafter erected or altered shall be in accordance with the chapters in this code relating to such features and when not otherwise provided for shall be as Councils in said Cities of the First Class may from time to time ordain

Section 4405 Chimneys flues fireplaces and heating apparatus in frame buildings In all wooden buildings hereafter erected or altered the framing around flues and the construction of chimneys flues hearths trimmer arches fireplaces and hot-air flues and heating apparatus steam boilers and ranges shall be in accordance with the provision of Chapters 28 and 29 of this code

CHAPTER 45 Roofs Cornices Pent Houses Dormers Etc

Section 4500 Roof construction dormers mansards and incombustible coverings The roof construction of all buildings of the First Class and the Intermediate Class shall be fireproofed or fire-protected as provided in the Chapter and Sections of this code relating to such buildings The Roof Planking of all buildings of the Second Class may be of wood not less than (2) inches thick and of all buildings of the Third and Fourth Class may be of sheathing not less than one (1) inch thick all supported and constructed in accordance with the chapters in this code on Classification of Buildings and on Timber and woodwork The roof covering of all combustible materials except that built-up roofing of saturated felt on which are embedded slag gravel slate tile or other approved incombustible materials may be used when so permitted by the Chief The planking and sheathing of the roof of every building of the Third or Fourth Class hereafter erected or altered and the tops and sides of every dormer window thereon shall be covered with slate metal or such other equally good incombustible material as the Bureau may authorize and the outside of every dormer window hereafter placed or any building as aforesaid shall be made of or covered with some incombustible material Mansard roofs shall slope at least one and one-half (1½) inches per foot backwards from the vertical and be covered with metal or other hard incombustible material Provided that this shall not apply to roofs and dormers outside of brick districts as defined by Councils

Section 4501 Repairs to Wood Roofs Nothing in this Code shall be construed to prohibit the repairing of a shingle roof within the brick districts as defined by Councils provided the repairs do not exceed one-half of the value of the said roof

Section 4502 Pent houses The materials used in the sides and roofs of all pent houses shall be not less than in accordance with the requirements governing the construction of the story immediately below the roof of any building of the First Class or the Intermediate Class and the construction of same shall otherwise conform to the requirements of the chapters on Egress and Fire Prevention In buildings of all other classes except dwellings in rural districts pent houses shall be governed by the requirements for the story immediately below the roof except that any combustible material shall be covered by incombustile materials as hereinafter required

Section 4503 Roof gardens Buildings hereafter erected over four stories in height having roof gardens thereon shall be constructed entirely in accordance with the requirements for buildings of the First Class or Intermediate Class

Section 4504 Scuttles bulkheads etc All buildings of three or more stories hereafter to be built with portions of such buildings one or more stories less in height shall have scuttle frames and covers or bulkheads and doors and be covered with some incombustible material All scuttles shall have stationary ladders leading to the same and all such scuttles and ladders shall be kept so as to be ready for use at all times All scuttles shall be in size of opening at least eighteen (18) inches by thirty (30) inches and if a bulkhead is used in any building in place of a scuttle it shall have stairs with sufficient guard or hand-rail leading to the roof and in case the building be a tenement house the doors or covers to the scuttle or bulkheads shall at no time be locked but may be bolted or secured by hooks on the inside No roof half-story or attic space shall be constructed in any building that is not accessible by at least a trap door

Section 4505 Cornices and gutters All exterior cornices and gutters hereafter erected other than in rural districts shall be of some incombustible material and in every case except when carried on a frame work of iron or steel the greater weight of the material of which the cornice be constructed shall be on the inside of the outer line of the wall allowance being made for the leverage produced by the projection of the cornice beyond the face of the wall and in all cases except as otherwise provided in the chapter on Dwellings the walls shall be carried up to the under side of the roof planking and where the cornice projects above the roof the wall shall be carried up to the top of the cornice All exterior wooden cornices that may be or shall hereafter become unsafe shall be taken down and if replaced shall be constructed of some incombustible material All exterior wood cornices or gutters that may hereafter be damaged by fire or by decay to the extent of one-half of the value thereof shall be taken down and if replaced shall be constructed of some incombustible material but if not damaged to this extent may be repaired with the same kind of material of which originally constructed Any cornice on any building which cornice or its interior construction is of wood shall be separated from the cornice or an adjoining building by having the party wall

corbeled out at least two (2) inches beyond all projections or by such other fire stop as shall be approved by the Bureau This section shall not be construed to prohibit the use of a wooden cornice upon the buildings which have shingle roofs in such districts as Councils may by ordinance stipulate

Section 4506 Rain water conductors All buildings shall be kept provided with proper metallic leaders for conducting water from the roof to the ground or sewer in such manner as shall protect the walls and foundations from damage and in all buildings over fifty (50) feet in height such leaders shall be installed inside the walls or buildings provided that the Chief may in exceptional occupancies exempt in writing this requirement

PART VIII SAFETY MEASURES

CHAPTER 46 Fire Prevention

Section 4600 All buildings of eighty-five (85) feet or six (6) stories or more in height hereafter erected or altered shall be equipped with standpipes for protection against fire as herein prescribed and all buildings hereafter erected or altered exceeding fifteen hundred (1500) square feet in area in the first story used or to be used as a store factory or warehouse shall have all basements and sub-basements equipped with a sprinkler system as herein set forth except that buildings having a greater area than one thousand five hundred (1500) square feet in the first story but in which the basement area is less than one thousand five hundred (1500) square feet need not be sprinkled provided the floor over the basement is of first-class fireproof construction and the means of entrance to the basement be from the exterior of the building only

Section 4601 Standpipes Standpipes shall not connect with any tank or the City water main direct and are intended for the use of the Fire Department only and all standpipes shall

(a) be not less than four (4) inches in diameter and of such additional diameter as may be necessary to supply one outlet of the size and construction of the standard City Fire Department hose outlets with hose valve on each and every floor of the building the standpipe extending through roof with an approved base outlet or monitor nozzle attached

(b) be located at point in or near each main stairway or stairway tower of such building

(c) have attached at a point convenient above the sidewalk outside of the building suitable steamer connections with check valve of standard City Fire Department size and construction so that connections can be made to such standpipes with City Fire Department hose and City water supply either from City fire engine or high-pressure hydrant where available and to be clearly marked "Standpipe Connection"

When in the opinion of the Chief Engineer of the Bureau of Fire a wet pipe system is necessary the water supply shall be by direct connection to the public water system (where the pressure is sufficient) or from an elevated tank of not less than five thousand (5000) gallons capacity located at an elevation above the highest hose connection at a point to be determined by the Chief of the Bureau of Fire or by an approved fire pump of a rated capacity of not less than five hundred (500) gallons per minute In addition to the Fire Department hose outlet above specified one (1) one-and-one-half-inch hose outlet with suitable valve may be provided at each floor with a one-and-one-half-inch linen hose attached Plans or diagrams showing the location of standpipes the size thereof the number and character of hose outlets and valves and the character of interior water supply from tank or pump shall be submitted for approval of the Bureau of Building Inspection and the Chief Engineer of the Bureau of Fire and such additional detailed plans and specifications as the chiefs of the bureaus of the above departments may require

Section 4602 Sprinkler systems and devices All wet pipe and dry pipe sprinkler systems except as may be otherwise prescribed by the Bureau of Building Inspection shall be of the automatic types in which all piping valves and devices shall conform to the standard regulations of the Bureau of Fire There shall also be installed as a part of such system a single or double steamer connection City Fire Department standard same to be clearly marked "Sprinkler Connection" If City water main is not available for a direct connection for the supply to the sprinkler system the Chief of the Bureau of Building Inspection and the Chief of the Bureau of Fire in Cities of the First Class shall decide what other supply will be acceptable All approved systems of automatic sprinklers shall be kept and maintained in complete working order If such system shall not be maintained in complete working order it shall be the duty of the Bureau of Building Inspection to give written notice to the tenants and owners served upon the premises of said fact and within sixty (60) days thereafter the floor area shall be sub-divided by fire division walls so that no undivided floor area shall exceed that prescribed in this act and such walls shall be constructed and thereafter maintained in accordance with the provisions of Chapter eighteen Fire Division Walls Plans or diagrams showing the location and size of all pipes the location of all sprinkler heads and valves controlling supply and a detailed description of the method of supply to the sprinkler system shall be submitted for the approval of the Bureau of Building Inspection and such additional detailed plans and specifications as the Chief of the said Bureau may require

Section 4603 Fire-doors and fire-shutters The construction installation and operation of all fire-doors fire-shutters and other devices required for the protection of interior or exterior openings shall comply with the rules and regulations promulgated by the Chief

CHAPTER 47 Safety during Construction and Demolition and Material Storage

Section 4700 The sections in this chapter shall be construed to regulate the construction maintenance removal and inspection of sheds shelters scaffolding slings hangers blocks pulleys stays braces ladders supports irons ropes etc repairing painting cleaning or pointing of buildings within the limits of Cities of the First Class

Section 4701 Shelters and sheds etc and material storage All footway shelter platforms hereafter built in conjunction with and during the erection or repair of any building and the enclosures of excavations etc and the storage of materials shall be regulated by ordinances of Councils in said Cities

Section 4702 Coverings over floor construction It shall be the duty of the party or parties having charge of the construction of any new building hereafter erected in this Commonwealth to have the joists or girders of each floor above a height of thirty-five (35) feet covered with rough scaffold boards or other suitable material as the building progresses so as to sufficiently protect the workmen or others who may be under or below each floor from falling bricks tools mortar or other substances whereby accidents happen injuries occur and life and limb are endangered

Section 4703 Temporary stand-pipe service A building requiring a stand-pipe under the provisions of this act elsewhere outlined when more than six (6) stories in height shall have this standpipe installed during building for the purpose of fire protection during construction

This stand-pipe shall be carried up with the building so that it is always serviceable to a height within two (2) stories of the point to which construction has proceeded It shall have Fire Department connection at base have a standard FD outlet in every other story and shall be capped at the end of each day's work and be ready for use at all times

Section 4704 Column fireproofing during construction The columns of a steel frame building under construction in basement first story and second story shall be fireproofed as elsewhere provided in this act when the fireproof floor systems have been installed to the level of the third floor or tier Before the columns described have been fireproofed the amount of combustible material in the basement first story and second story shall be reduced to a minimum

Section 4705 Lighting temporary stairways etc during construction During construction of buildings of a height greater than six (6) stories one (1) stairway or means of access shall be permanently lighted in each story from dark till dawn In case such stairway or names of access is enclosed lighting shall be maintained for the entire twenty-four (24) hours seven (7) days in the week

approved the fifteenth day of April Anno Domini one thousand nine hundred seven being entitled "An act to regulate the construction maintenance and inspection of scaffolding or slings hangers blocks pulleys stays braces ladders irons or ropes that are used in the construction alteration repairing painting cleaning or pointing of buildings within the limits of cities of the First Second and Third Class and providing punishment for violation of the provisions of this Act"

PART IX PROJECTIONS

CHAPTER 48 Projections beyond Building Line

Section 4800 No part of any building hereafter erected or of any enlargement of an existing building that is necessary for the structural safety of the building or an enlargement thereof shall project beyond the building line so as to encroach upon a public street or public space but this shall not be deemed to prohibit the projection beyond the building line to the extent of not more than six (6) inches of foundation walls abutting streets or twelve (12) inches of the footings of such street walls providing such projecting parts of walls are not less than six (6) inches and of footings are not less than six (6) feet below the sidewalk level and except that certain footings may project three (3) feet when conforming to the provisions of the chapter on Footings Except as hereinafter otherwise provided in this chapter and in the chapter on Roofs Cornices etc and in the chapter on Dwellings etc no part of any building hereafter erected or of any alteration to or enlargement of any existing building shall project beyond the building line so as to encroach upon a public street or public space

Section 4801 Bay windows store and bulk windows etc Within the limits defined by councils in Cities of the First Class it shall not be lawful to erect or construct upon the first story of any building any bay oriel store or bulk window projecting beyond the street line Outside of such limits all projecting windows upon the first stories shall be as regulated by said Councils Bay and oriel windows may hereafter be constructed upon buildings where projecting over the street line as follows The walls of all such bay or oriel windows if made of combustible material shall be covered with metal or other incombustible materials The limitation of the dimensions and positions of such bay oriel windows shall be as follows

First No such bay or oriel window shall be at a less distance than ten (10) feet from the sidewalk

Second No such bay or oriel window shall project more than three (3) feet over the street line of any building

Third No such bay or oriel window shall have a greater frontage than fifteen (15) feet nor shall it in any case be larger than the room or space in which it occurs

Fourth There shall not be more than one bay or oriel window for any twenty-five (25) feet of frontage two for thirty-eight (38) feet of frontage three for sixty-three (63) feet of frontage and four for eighty-eight (88) feet of frontage and no two bay or oriel windows upon the same story shall be built nearer to each other than five (5) feet To be classed as bay windows they must project at least twelve (12) inches

Fifth It shall not be lawful to erect any bay or oriel window except within lines drawn from the intersection of the party lines and the street line at an angle of twenty (20) degrees with the latter

Nothing herein contained shall however limit the size of bay or oriel windows which are built in such manner as not to project over the street line of the buildings of which they form a part but the size number construction and structural parts of such bay or oriel windows shall be subject to the approval of the Bureau Provided however that no bay or oriel window shall project more than four (4) feet from the wall line of the building of which it is a part

Section 4802 Ornamental Projections Any part of a building permitted to project beyond the building line under the provisions of this section shall be so constructed that its removal may be made at any time without causing the building or any part thereof to become structuraly unsafe Nothing in this section shall be deemed to abridge the powers and duties of the Bureau of Highways The Bureau of Building Inspection and the commissioners of parks in Cities of the First Class within their respective jurisdiction to adopt additional rules as may be necessary with respect to the construction or disposition of parts of buildings projecting beyond the building line which authorities may when deemed necessary or desirable fix further restrictions as to the extent of projections beyond the building line but no projection greater than in this section specified shall be permitted

Section 4803 (a) Base courses may project beyond the building line not more than one and one-fourth per cent of the width of the street nor more than ten (10) inches in any case provided they do not extend more than five (5) feet above the highest point of the sidewalk

(b) Columns pilasters and ornamental projections including their moulding and bases erected purely for the enhancement of the building from an architectural standpoint may project beyond the building line not more than two and one-half per cent of the width of the street but not more than eighteen (18) inches in any case

(c) Mouldings belt courses lintels sills pediments and similar projections of a decorative character may project beyond the building line not more than one and one-fourth per cent of the width of the street nor more than ten (10) inches in any case Rustications and quoins may project beyond the building line not more than four (4) inches

(d) Balustrades of an ornamental character including the sills and brackets on which they rest may project beyond the building line not more than five per cent of the width of the street nor more than twenty-two (22) inches in any case provided that every part of such balustrade is not less than ten (10) feet above the sidewalk

(e) The main cornice meaning thereby a moulded projection at or near the top of the street wall may project beyond the building line not more than five per cent of the width of the street nor more than five feet (5) in any case provided such main cornice is not less than twelve (12) feet above the sidewalk at any point

Section (4804) Other Projections All other projections such as vaults areas areaways hoistways railings steps stoops porches verandas metal awnings marquises fire escapes balconies to fire towers hose connections for fire extinguishment fresh air inlets for plumbing systems et cetera shall conform to regulations of the authorities having jurisdiction in said Cities of the First Class or ordinances of Councils thereof

PART X REPEALER

CHAPTER 49 Repeal of Conflicting Legislation

Section 4900 The Following acts and Parts of acts of Assembly are hereby repealed as particularly set forth

The act approved the seventh day of May one thousand eight hundred and fifty-five entitled "An act to provide for the regulation and inspection of buildings in the City of Philadelphia and for the better preservation of life and property"

The act approved the fifth day of May one thousand eight hundred and ninety-nine entitled "An act to create a Bureau of Building Inspection and to regulate the construction maintenance and inspection of buildings and party walls in cities of the first class"

The act approved the fifth day of June one thousand nine hundred and one entitled "An act supplemental to an act entitled 'An act to further regulate the construction maintenance and inspection of buildings and party walls in cities of the first class' "

The act approved the twenty-fifth day of April one thousand nine hundred and three entitled "An act to further regulate the construction maintenance and inspection of buildings and party walls in cities of the first class"

The act approved the ninth day of June one thousand nine hundred and eleven entitled "An act to regulate the construction maintenance and inspection of buildings used for the exhibition of moving pictures in all cities of the first class providing for the enforcement thereof and fixing penalties for violation of the same"

The act approved the seventh day of April one thousand nine hundred and twenty-five entitled "An act to amend Section 6 of an act approved the ninth day of June one thousand nine hundred and eleven entitled 'An act to regulate the construction maintenance and inspection of buildings used for the exhibition of moving pictures in all cities of the first class providing for the enforcement thereof and fixing penalties for violation of the same by providing for the heating by means of mechanical warm air"

The act approved the seventh day of June one thousand nine hundred and fifteen entitled "An act authorizing the erection of garages fronting or opening on streets alleys or driveways ten feet or more in width

The act approved the eighth day of May one thousand nine hundred and nineteen entitled "An act relating to building construction in cities of the first class by prescribing the minimum live loads to be considered in designing the walls floors roofs yards and courts of all buildings hereafter erected or altered in cities of the first class specifying the factors of safety to be applied in such designs regulating the thickness of brick walls in dwellings prescribing the minimum thickness of wooden floor joists and roof rafters defining the various classes of buildings and other terms used in the act regulating the loading of floors providing penalties for violations and repealing inconsistent laws"

The act dated the tenth day of May one thousand nine hundred and twenty-three entitled "An act relating to building construction in cities of the first class by prescribing the maximum undivided floor areas permitted and permitting the use of non-fireproof steel roof trusses and purlins in certain cases prescribing limitations on garages automobile service stations and buildings for similar purposes and constructions permitted for curtain and spandrel walls permitting the use of wood furring and stud-partitions in certain cases and repealing inconsistent laws"

The act approved the eighth day of June one thousand eight hundred and ninety-three entitled "An act amending Section one of article three of an act entitled 'An act for the better government of cities of the first class in this Commonwealth' approved the first day of June Anno Domini one thousand eight hundred and eighty-five regulating the construction maintenance and inspection of buildings"

RESOLUTION RELATIVE TO DEATH OF HONORABLE EDWARD E. BEIDLEMAN.

Mr. EARNEST. Mr. President, I ask unanimous consent to offer a resolution at this time.

The PRESIDENT. Is there objection? The Chair hears none.

Mr. EARNEST offered the following resolution, which was twice read as follows and unanimously agreed to by a rising vote:

Whereas, Honorable Edward E. Beidleman, a native of Dauphin County, a Member of the House of Representatives from 1905 to 1908, Member of the State Senate from 1913 to 1919, Lieutenant Governor of the Commonwealth from 1919 to 1923, died on the ninth day of April 1929, and

Wereas, Governor Beidleman was one of the recognized leaders of the Republican Party in Pennsylvania for a quarter of a century and the undisputed leader of that Party in his home County of Dauphin, and

Whereas, Governor Beidleman was noted for exceptional courage, and steadfastness and perseverance in the pursuance of any cause he believed to be right, and

Whereas, his sunny disposition, forceful personality and the large fruitage of his whole-hearted and diligent life of service for his fellow-men endeared him to unnumbered multitudes who called him friend.

Now Therefore Be It Resolved, That the Senate, conscious of the loss the people of the Commonwealth have sustained enters upon its records its appreciation of Edward E. Beidleman, eminent lawyer, sincere public servant, man of positiveness, rectitude and without guile, and by this resolution joins in deep sympathy with his family and the people of the Commonwealth in the great grief that we all feel by reason of his death.

The PRESIDENT. How did the Senator vote?

Mr. LESLIE. Mr. President, I voted "aye."

The motion was agreed to.

And the question recurring,

Will the Senate agree to the bill on third reading?

Mr. SCHANTZ. Mr. President, I ask unanimous consent to amend Section 3, paragraph (1) on page 2, by striking out of line 13, the words "two years" and insert in lieu thereof the words "six months"; also by striking out of line 15, the words "two years" and insert in lieu thereof the words "six months"; also section 7, page 15, by striking out of line 6, the words "two years" and insert in lieu thereof the words "six months."

The PRESIDENT. Is there objection? The Chair hears none.

The amendment was agreed to.

On the question,

Will the Senate agree to the bill on third reading as amended?

It was agreed to.

Ordered, That the bill as amended be printed for the use of the Senate.

BILLS ON THIRD READING AND FINAL PASSAGE.

Agreeably to order,

The Senate proceeded to the third reading and consideration of Senate Bill No. 506, entitled:

An Act authorizing cities of the first class to adopt and enforce Zoning Ordinances regulating and restricting the height, location, siez, bulk and use of buildings, and/or land, the areas to be occupied by buildings in proportion to the size of the lots upon which they stand, the size of courts, yards and other open spaces appurtenant thereto, and the density of population, and for these purposes to establish districts and boundaries; to designate and regulate residential, commercial and industrial or other uses within such districts and boundaries; and provinding for the appointment of a Zoning Commission and a Board of Adjustment, the creation of a Bureau of Zoning and setting forth the duties and functions of said Commission, Board and Bureau; providing for the administration and enforcement of rules and ordinances authorized by this act and penalties for violations thereof.

And said bill having been read at length the third time and agreed to,

On the question,

Shall the bill pass finally?

Mr. WOODWARD. Mr. President, this is the zoning bill. I do not want to make any particular argument about it, I simply want to say there are 30,000,000 people in the United States without zoning, 68 cities of 100,000 or over without needed zoning, 46 States have zoning laws, and all municipalities in Pennsylvania except Philadelphia have the privilege of zoning.

The constitutionality of zoning has been upheld in the famous Euclid vs. Ambler Village case by the Supreme Court.

This Bill No. 506 has been endorsed by the Mayor and City Council of Philadelphia.

There is a little story that I would like to tell about this bill in connection with the State Printer, Mr. Dight. You can interpret the story any way you like. This morning Mr. Hamilton kindly called up Mr. Dight and discovered that this bill had been laid aside in the printer's office. Mr. Dight came up here to see me about it, and he said his night man, Mr. Black, had received a message—he did not know who the messenger was,—a message informing Mr. Black that this bill was to be held over in the printer's office until certain amendments shall have been inserted in the bill. It is the first case of amending a bill in the printer's office that I ever heard of.

We told Mr. Dight what we thought of him, and at 1.30 I got these copies of the bill off the press. I hope the Senate will vote "aye."

And the question recurring,

Shall the bill pass finally?

The yeas and nays were taken agreeably to the provisions of the Constitution, and were as follows, viz:

ADJOURNMENT.

Mr. DAVIS. Mr. President, I move that the Senate do now adjourn until 10.30 o'clock tomorrow morning.

Mr. WOODWARD. Mr. President, I second the motion.

The motion was agreed to.

The Senate adjourned at 4.45 p. m. until 10.30 o'clock Thursday morning, April 11, 1929.

HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES.

WEDNESDAY, April 10, 1929.

The House met at 11.00 o'clock A. M.
The SPEAKER (Aaron B. Hess) in the Chair.

The Chaplain, Rev. Martin W. Schweitzer, Ph. D., offered the following prayer:

Our Father, help us on this day that we may be as watchers on the wall, alert to guard against the approach of all evil, anxious to welcome all good influences. Help us to realize that we are weak in Thy Holy Sight. Bless all the homes here represented, that they may have the true ideals of helpfulness. May every home welcome the spirit of God. Bless those who are far away from Thee. Bless those who seek the revival of good in the hearts of all nations and of all people and of all races. Help us, Oh God, in our endeavor that we may serve Thee and may our hearts be subservient to Thy Will. Cleanse us from all evil and may our lives be as beautiful gardens bearing forth all manner of good fruit in Thy spirit. Oh God, abide with us in His Name, Amen.

JOURNAL APPROVED.

The SPEAKER. The Clerk will read the Journal of yesterday.

The Clerk proceeded to read the Journal of yesterday, when, on motion of Mr. Bausher, seconded by Mr. Behm, the further reading was dispensed with and the Journal approved.

RESOLUTION NO. 24.

Mr. MUSMANNO. Mr. Speaker, I desire to call up at this time, Resolution No. 24, file folio 6417.

The Clerk read the resolution as follows:

In the House of Representatives, April 3rd, 1929.

Whereas, it is becoming more and more prevalent in modern industry to bar from employment men over forty-five years of age

Whereas the progress in the development of labor-saving machinery has been such that from year to year more and more men lose employment although it is understood that this resolution is not intended in any way to discharge the use of such machinery

Whereas the industrial and commercial systems of the State have also in recent years instituted pension and retirement plans and in obedience to statutory laws are confronted with the cost of compensation insurance

Whereas from a preliminary study and survey it seems that through the installation of modern machinery retirement systems compensation laws and other contributory factors there are at the present time thousands of able bodied men unable to find or secure work

Whereas it it be true that industrial and commercial employers are barring from work men over forty-five years of age this means that the burdens of industrial and commercial life are being placed upon young shoulders which will in time endanger the economic structure

Whereas the Honorable James J Davis Secretary of the Department of Labor of the United States has frequently in public addresses called the attention of employers to this condition

Whereas the American Federation of Labor at the present time is conducting a national survey to ascertain the truthfulness of these reports

Whereas the Department of Labor and Industry of the State of Pennsylvania has been actively engaged in enlisting the employers of Pennsylvania in a cooperative way in lifting of these age bans and

Whereas it is very evident that a thorough study of this unemployment problem should be made to ascertain the real facts—

Therefore be it resolved (if the Senate concur) that His Excellency the Governor of Pennsylvania be empowered and he is hereby empowered to appoint a commission of seven men to study this problem and report to the Legislative Session of one thousand nine hundred thirty-one with a full report as to the extent men over forty-five years of age are being barred from employment and to ascertain as nearly as possibly the exact number of men affected by this rule of industry if it exists also to make such recommendations as to it seems fit and proper in the form of proposed legislation to the end that this situation may be remedied This commission shall consist of seven members to be made up as follows one Representative to be appointed by the Speaker of the House of Representatives one Senator to be appointed by the President of the Senate and five to be appointed by the Governor Of these five one shall be an employee or official of the State Department of Labor and Industry one a representative of organized labor and one representative of Industry the remaining two may be appointed at the full discretion of the Governor

On the question,

Will the House adopt the resolution?

Mr. HEFFRAN. Mr. Speaker, I desire to interrogate the gentleman from Allegheny, Mr. Musmanno.

The SPEAKER. Will the gentleman from Allegheny, Mr. Musmanno, permit himself to be interrogated?

Mr. MUSMANNO. With pleasure, Mr. Speaker.

Mr. HEFFRAN. Mr. Speaker and members of the House, I would like to ask the gentleman from Allegheny, Mr. Musmanno, what powers would be vested in this committee to ascertain the facts under the terms of this resolution?

Mr. MUSMANNO. The powers of investigation and to report to the Legislature.

Mr. HEFFRAN. I would like to ask the gentleman further, where would the commission receive the funds necessary for the making of this investigation?

Mr. MUSMANNO. For the information of the gentleman I would say that it will be noticed under the terms of this resolution certain members of this commission will be appointed by the Governor and those who will be employes of the state government on this commission will of course not need any further funds. They can draw on certain funds of the state government and I am certain that those members of organized labor, who may be appointed on the commission will be willing to serve without compensation.

Mr. HEFFRAN. Mr. Speaker and members of the House, it seems to me that this resolution is just another one of those resolutions that is only a gesture and does not mean anything. The commission would not be empowered to ascertain the facts, it has no appropriation by which it can take any stenographic copy of testimony, and I think it is folly for this legislature to pass resolutions of this kind that do not mean anything and which would not in any way solve the problem which I think the gentleman from Allegheny is trying to get at.

Mr. MUSMANNO. Mr. Speaker and members of the House, the only purpose of this resolution is to indicate to the public generally that the Legislature of the State of Pennsylvania is acquainted with the fact that we are confronted with a grave situation of unemployment. I am frank to say that I do not know the solution to the situation. This commission may not be able to arrive at a solution of the situation. It will indicate that we are willing to face this problem and when the Legislature meets again in 1931 it will have the result of the investigation in order that some remedial legislation may be enacted.

Mr. SOWERS. Mr. Speaker and members of the House, there is no question but that there is a problem of unemployment, and there is also no question but that the gentleman from Allegheny has in mind a real problem, but the question before us is whether or not this resolution really helps to solve that problem. I would be for the resolution if it provided for subpoenas and for authority for the commission to get information which might in some measure accomplish the result, but merely to appoint a commission which simply sits as a figurehead without power or authority is begging the question. We ought to have a resolution for the appointment of a commission with power and authority to investigate the problem and arrive at a solution. The problem, as any unemployment problem, is based on the lack of the powers of production now already in existence. It seems to me if the sponsor of this resolution would amend it so that it will be effectual and not merely a gesture, some good could be accomplished.

Mr. MUSMANNO. Mr. Speaker and members of the House, I will be very glad to follow the suggestion of the gentleman from Philadelphia, to make amendments, and I therefore withdraw the resolution at this time from further consideration.

RESOLUTION NO. 21.

Mr. HUESTER. Mr. Speaker, I desire to call up at this time Resolution No. 21, file folio 5679.

The Clerk read the resolution as follows:

In the House of Representatives, April 1, 1929.

Whereas, It appears from certain allegations filed with Honorable Aaron B Hess Speaker of the House of Representatives by William P. Boland of Scranton Pa that the official conduct of Honorable Henry A Fuller retired president Judge of the courts of the Eleventh Judicial District embracing the county of Luzerne is such as to warrant the investigation of the same by the House of Representatives and

Whereas In the allegations referred to the said Honorable Henry A Fuller while president Judge in the Eleventh Judicial district did issue a court order directing the destruction of the stenographic notes of evidence in a case involving valuable property and a large amount of money and in which case he was formerly an attorney to the great prejudice and irreparable damage of the cause of the same William P Boland in the said court of the Eleventh Judicial district and

Whereas The said Honorable Henry A Fuller while acting as president judge in the said Eleventh Judicial district did take from the office of the prothonotary of Luzerne county the files of said case in which he was previously acting as attorney and refuses to restore the same or permit any restoration of the recorded evidence and facts on said case to the further prejudices of the interest and right of the said litigant William P Boland and

Whereas The said Honorable Henry A Fuller while president judge of the aforesaid courts did wilfully seek to exclude for a long term of years the said litigant from the rights and privileges confered on him by law in the rightful trial and adjudication of the said action in law and did continue to act in his general official conduct as the attorney for interests opposed to the litigant in question while a member of the court and as president judge and

Whereas The said Honorable Henry A Fuller is now acting as auxiliary judge in the pay and service of the commonwealth in said courts and the witnesses in said action which was wilfully allowed to remain unadjudicated in said court for a period of twenty-seven years are dead leaving the said William P Boland without the necessary measures of relief in said court and compelling him to have recourse to the official offices of the House of Representatives

Be It Resolved That the committee on judiciary general be and is hereby authorized and directed to inquire into and concerning the official conduct of the said Honorable Henry A Fuller retired president judge and now acting auxiliary judge of the courts of the Eleventh Judicial district of Pennsylvania embracing the county of Luzerne and ascertain whether or not the said judge now auxiliary judge in said district has been guilty of any impeachable offense and report the same to the House with the conclusions of the committee in respect thereto and with appropriate recommendations

Resolved Further That the committee on judiciary general is hereby authorized and empowered to send for persons and papers to subpoena witnesses to administer oaths to said witnesses to take testimony to employ a clerk stenographer or stenographers agents investigators and attorneys if necessary and to appoint a sub-committee from among their number by appointment of the chairman thereof whenever it may be neccessary or expedient to take testimony for the use of the said committee And the said sub-committee while so employed shall have the same powers in respect to obtaining testimony as are herein given to said committee on the judiciary general with a sargeant at arms by himself or deputy who shall serve the process of said committee and sub-committee and execute its orders and shall extend the sittings of the same as ordered and directed and the speaker of the House shall have authority to sign and the clerk to attest subpoenas for any witness or witnesses and the expense of this investigation shall be paid out of the contingent fund of the House

On the question,

Will the House adopt the resolution?

Mr. MARCUS. Mr. Speaker, I desire to interrogate the gentleman from Lackawanna, Mr. Huester.

The SPEAKER. Will the gentleman from Lackawanna permit himself to be interrogated?

Mr. HUESTER. I will, Mr. Speaker.

Mr. MARCUS. Mr. Speaker and members of the House, I would like to ask the gentleman from Lackawanna whether the impeachment proceedings in this resolution are proceedings brought against a sitting judge or a judge who has already retired from the bench?

Mr. HUESTER. A judge who has retired from the bench.

Mr. MARCUS. Mr. Speaker and members of the House, I do not believe that the membership of this body would desire to place this House in the position of bringing proceedings of impeachment against a former judge who is now 78 years of age, and who has served his constituency in Lackawanna County for two terms. From information I have reliably received these proceedings are brought by an individual who has some fancied wrongs. Do you think it is fair, members of the House, when a man has served two consecutive terms and arrives at the age of 78 years, and is now on retirement, do you think it is fair for us to put a blot on that man's reputation? Under those considerations and for no other reason, I would ask the members of this House to vote these impeachment proceedings down.

Mr. SPANGLER. Mr. Speaker and members of the House, it appears to me that this resolution as it appears before us now is entirely irregular. The proceedings in impeachment matters that have come before this House heretofore have been in the form of resolutions presented to the Speaker, and the Speaker then in turn referred the resolution to the Judiciary General Committee for the purpose of having that committee determine whether or not the facts as set forth in that resolution and the evidence supporting them were well founded. If the Committee on Judiciary General, after special investigation, decided that there was not a case made out against the judge in question it was so reported to the Speaker. On the other hand, if the Judiciary General Committee came to the conclusion that in their opinion there should be a more thorough investigation they reported that fact back to the House and asked the right to sit for the purpose of hearing testimony in the case. None of that procedure has been followed here. We have nothing before us here but a bare resolution. The House is not in possession of any facts. The only way that this House could get in possession of the facts would be through the instrumentality of the Judiciary General Committee, and the Judiciary General Committee has never had an opportunity to even consider the facts as set forth in this resolution. For these reasons, Mr. Speaker, I make the motion that this resolution be referred to the Committee on Judiciary General.

The SPEAKER. The resolution carries with it that procedure. A motion is unnecessary since, if the resolution is adopted it will be referred to the Committee on Judiciary General.

Mr. SPANGLER. Mr. Speaker and members of the House, it also provides that the Judiciary General Committee is to make a very careful and thorough investigation.

Mr. SOWERS. Mr. Speaker and members of the House, I fail to understand how we could be requested to vote for this resolution when it states something as a fact that is not a fact. On the second page you will read: "Whereas, The said Honorable Henry A. Fuller is now acting as an auxiliary judge in the pay and service of the Commonwealth in said courts." Now as I understand it, Judge Fuller is on retirement; I understand the Judge's term has expired. If this term has expired he is out of office, and then this is not a fact, and how can we vote "yes" and say something is a fact when it is not a fact.

Mr. BART RICHARDS. Mr. Speaker, this resolution seems to be faultily drawn and I therefore move that it be withdrawn from the floor at this time for the purpose of amendment.

The SPEAKER. The Chair does not hear a second to the gentleman's motion.

Mr. JONES. Mr. Speaker and members of the House, this resolution was introduced by a member from Lackawanna County. Judge Fuller has been an honorable judge for twenty years in Luzerne County. The members of this House from Luzerne County honor Judge Fuller and we do not think that it is right that a member from Lackawanna County should try to have one of our honorable judges impeached. The members from our county in this House did not know anything about this matter until a booklet was put on our desk two days ago; that was the first we had heard of it. It is our understanding that this thing which is complained of happened 27 years ago. During the twenty years of his service as Judge this case went through all kinds of courts and it was turned down. Now that Judge Fuller has retired on pension and has come to the place where he is pretty nearly ready to go into the Great Beyond, a man who is 78 years of age, I for one don't feel that we should impeach him. Therefore, the members from Luzerne County request the members of this House to vote the resolution down.

Mr. HUESTER. Mr. Speaker and members of the House, I wish to state that I personally have no hard feelings towards Judge Fuller and, as the House knows, when this resolution was introduced I stated that it was introduced by request.

Mr. STADTLANDER. Mr. Speaker and member of the House, I would be the first man in this House to step on this floor to seek redress for any wrong which any Judge had done to a citizen of this Commonwealth. However, we have nothing before the House to show that this man was personally wronged by Judge Fuller; it is merely his own statement. No one should be permitted to come into this House and make a trifling complaint about any Judge of this Commonwealth and ask that that Judge be impeached. You have only the word of this man who makes the complaint in question, and if you all knew Judge Fuller as I know him you would know that there would not be a grain of injustice in his body. I would say that inasmuch as he is now a retired Judge this House has no longer any jurisdiction over him. I ask you to vote this resolution down.

On the question,

Will the House adopt the resolution?

It was not adopted.

SENATE MESSAGE.

AMENDED HOUSE BILL RETURNED FOR CONCURRENCE.

The Clerk of the Senate being introduced, returned bill from the House of Representatives numbered and entitled as follows:

HOUSE BILL No. 1343.

An Act to further amend section two of the act approved the twenty-fourth day of March one thousand nine hundred and three (Pamphlet Laws fifty) entitled "A further supplement to a further supplement approved the fourteenth day of April one thousand eight hundred and forty to the act entitled 'An act to enable the Governor to appoint notaries public and for other purposes therein mentioned' passed the fifth day of March one thousand seven hundred ninety-one" limiting the powers of notaries public who are directors stockholders officers and clerks of banks and trust companies.

With the information that the Senate has passed the same with amendments, in which the concurrence of the House of Representatives is requested.

The SPEAKER. The Clerk will read the amendments.

QUESTION OF PERSONAL PRIVILEGE.

Mr. TURNER. Mr. Speaker, I rise to a question of personal privilege.

The SPEAKER. The gentleman will state his question of personal privilege.

Mr. TURNER. Mr. Speaker and members of the House, the Aeronautics Committee and some of their friends were going down to the Middletown Airport this afternoon to inspect the airport and to fly. Unfortunately, they had no control over the weather. Although they had all of their arrangements made, they do not now believe that there will be any chance to fly this afternoon because of the rain and the general weather conditions, therefore, we are not going to leave here as we had planned at 1 o'clock. We are going to call off the trip to Middletown this afternoon. However, the Secretary arranging for the dinner this evening has just called my attention to the fact that he wants to see all of those who have signified their intention of attending the dinner. He wants to see you before we adjourn at noon and he wants you to draw your check and obtain your ticket so that they may know you are going to be with us at six-thirty to-night at the Penn-Harris.

APPROPRIATION BILLS ON THIRD READING.

Agreeably to order,

The House proceeded to the third reading and consideration of House Bill No. 1444, entitled:

An Act making an appropriation to the Department of Public Instruction for the purpose of aiding financially handicapped school districts.

And said bill having been read at length the third time, considered and agreed to.

On the question,

Shall the bill pass finally?

Agreeably to the provisions of the Constitution, the yeas and nays were taken and were as follows, viz:

The House proceeded to the third reading and consideration of House Bill No. 2179, (Senate Bill No. 931), entitled:

An Act making an appropriation to carry into effect the provisions of an act, approved the tenth day of July, one thousand nine hundred and nineteen, (P. L. 893), entitled "An act providing for assistance to certain mothers, providing for the appointment of boards of trustees for the several counties of the Commonwealth, and for the appointment of a State supervisor and assistants, and fixing the salaries of such State supervisor and assistants; defining the powers and duties of boards of trustees, including the power of appointing assistants and investigators and the distribution of funds at their disposal; providing for the apportionment of the State appropriation among the several counties, and requiring counties coming under the provisions of this act to appropriate certain moneys and providing penalties," as amended.

And said bill having been read at length the third time, considered and agreed to.

On the question,

Shall the bill pass finally?

Agreeably to the provisions of the Constitution, the yeas and nays were taken and were as follows, viz:

NAYS—0.

The majority required by the Constitution having voted in the affirmative, the question was determined in the affirmative.

Ordered, That the Clerk return the same to the Senate with information that the House has passed it without amendment.

Agreeably to order,

The House proceeded to the third reading and consideration of House Bill No. 2284, (Senate Bill No. 1131), entitled:

An Act making an appropriation to the Rosella Foundling Asylum and Maternity Hospital, of the City of Pittsburgh.

On the question,

Will the House agree to the bill on third reading?

Mr. STEEDLE. Mr. Speaker, I ask unanimous consent to offer an amendment at this time.

The SPEAKER. The amendment will be read by the Clerk for information.

The Clerk read the amendment as follows:

Amend section 1, page 1, line 4, by striking out the numeral "(50,000)," and inserting in lieu thereof "($50,000)."

The SPEAKER. Will the House give unanimous consent to the insertion of the amendment at this time? Is there any objection? The Chair hears none and the amendment will be inserted in accordance with the instructions of the House.

On the question,

Will the House agree to the bill on third reading as amended?

It was agreed to.

Ordered, That the bill as amended lie over for printing.

Agreeably to order,

The House proceeded to the third reading and consideration of House Bill No. 2287, (Senate Bill No. 1186), entitled:

An Act making an appropriation to the Allegheny General Hospital.

And said bill having been read at length the third time, considered and agreed to.

On the question,

QUESTION OF PERSONAL PRIVILEGE.

Mr. MARCUS. Mr. Speaker, I rise to a question of personal privilege.

The SPEAKER. The gentleman will state his question of personal privelege.

Mr. MARCUS. Mr. Speaker, and members of the House, with the realization that we are coming to the closing days of the session and that we should not take up much time of this House except on our routine business, yet I believe at this time that the membership of this House will be pleased to know that a member of this honorable body, who has served not only his constituency with great honor, but has endeared himself to the members by the marvelous manner in which he has conducted himself as the chairman of one of the most important committees of this House, is today celebrating an important event in his life. The members of this House have due appreciation for his fairness in all matters and dealings before him and before his committee. Today is his birthday and he is especially honored with the presence here in the House of his mother and his wife. I know that you all feel with me an appreciation of his magnanimous conduct toward us, his most pleasing manner and personality. I know that, with me, the members of this House wish to extend to him their very best feelings on this his forty-second birthday and I therefore offer the following resolution and ask unanimous consent that it be read and considered at this time.

RESOLUTION.

CONGRATULATIONS EXTENDED TO THE HONORABLE PHILIP STERLING.

Mr. MARCUS asked and obtained unanimous consent to offer the following resolution which was twice read, considered and adopted:

In the House of Representatives, April 10, 1929.

Resolved, That the congratulations of the Members of the House of Representatives are hereby extended to the genial and capable chairman of the Ways and Means Committee, the Honorable Philip Sterling, on this, the forty-second anniversary of his birthday, and that the Members of this House wish him many more happy and prosperous years in the future.

The SPEAKER. The Chair recognizes the gentleman from Philadelphia, Mr. Sterling, and knows it is the desire of the House to hear from the gentleman at this time.

Mr. STERLING. Mr. Speaker and members of the House, I find myself at this moment less capable of gracefully and gratefully acknowledging the action of the House than I have ever found myself able to argue for or against legislation on our calendars. However, let me say to you that I am very grateful, extremely grateful, for the demonstration of good feeling this action of the House brings to me. I thank you very much.

RECONSIDERATION OF VOTE.

Mr. GRIFFITH. Mr. Speaker, I move that the vote by which House Bill No. 2145, (Senate Bill No. 207), file folio 257, entitled:

An Act to amend sections twenty-one and twenty-two of an act approved the thirty-first day of May one thousand nine hundred and eleven (Pamphlet Laws four hundred sixty-eight) entitled "An act providing for the establishment of a State Highway Department by the appointment of a State Highway Commissioner two Deputy State Highway Commissioners chief engineer chief draughtsman superintendents of highways and a staff of assistants and employes defining their duties and the jurisdiction of the State Highway Department and fixing salaries of commissioner and deputies and other appointees providing for taking over from the counties or townships of the Commonwealth certain existing public roads connecting county-seats principal cities and towns and extending to the State line describing and defining same by route numbers as the State highways of the Commonwealth providing for the improvement maintenance and repair of said State highways solely at the expense of the Commonwealth and relieving the several townships or counties from any further obligation and expense to improve or maintain the same and relieving said townships or counties of authority over same requiring boroughs and incorporated towns to maintain certain State highways wholly and in part requiring the State Highway Commissioner to make maps to be complete records thereof conferring authority on the State Highway Commissioner providing for the payment of damages in taking of property or otherwise in the improvement thereof providing for purchase or acquiring of turnpikes or toll-roads forming all or part of any State highway and procedure therein providing for work of improvement of State highways to be done by contract except where the State Highway Commissioner decides the work be done by the State providing aid by the State to counties and townships desiring the same in the improvement of township or county roads defining highways and State-aid highways providing method of application for State-aid in the improvement maintenance and repair of township or county roads and prescribing the contents of township county borough or incorporated town petitions providing for percentage of cost of improvement or repairs to be paid by State county township borough or incorporated town and requiring contracts by counties townships boroughs and incorporated towns with Commonwealth governing same providing for the minimum width of State highways and State-aid highways and kind of materials to be used in the improvement providing for payment of cost of improvement and repairs providing penalty for injuring or destroying State highways making appropriations to carry out the provisions of the act and providing for the repeal of certain acts relating to Highway Department and improvement of roads and of all acts or parts of acts inconsistent herewith and providing that existing contracts are not affected by provisions of this act" as amended on page 30 of today's calendar was recommitted to the Committee on Public Roads be reconsidered.

Mr. PEELOR. Mr. Speaker, I second the motion.

The motion was agreed to.

Mr. GRIFFITH. Mr. Speaker, I move that the order by which this bill directed to be transcribed for third reading be reconsidered.

Mr. PEELOR. Mr. Speaker, I second the motion.

The motion was agreed to.

Mr. GRIFFITH. Mr. Speaker, I move that the vote by which this bill passed second reading be reconsidered.

Mr. PEELOR. Mr. Speaker, I second the motion.

The motion was agreed to.

Mr. GRIFFITH. Mr. Speaker, I move that the vote by which the title the second and first sections were agreed to be reconsidered.

Mr. PEELOR. Mr. Speaker, I second the motion.

The motion was agreed to.

The first section was read as follows:

Section 1 Be it enacted by the Senate and House of Representatives of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania in General Assembly met and it is hereby enacted by the authority of the same That section twenty-one of an act approved the thirty-first day of May one thousand nine hundred and eleven (Pamphlet Laws four hundred sixty-eight) entitled "An act providing for the establishment of a State Highway Department by the appointment of a State Highway Commissioner two Deputy State Highway Commissioners chief engineer chief draughtsman superintendents of highways and a staff of assistants and employes defining their duties and the jurisdiction of the State Highway Department and fixing salaries of commissioner and deputies and other appointees providing for taking over from the counties or townships of the Commonwealth certain existing public roads connecting county-seats principal cities and towns and extending to the State line describing and defining same by route numbers as the State highways of the Commonwealth providing for the improvement maintenance and repair of said State highways solely at the expense of the Commonwealth and relieving the several townships or counties from any further obligation and expense to improve or maintain the same and relieving said townships or counties of authority over same requiring boroughs and incorporated towns to maintain certain State highways wholly and in part requiring the State Highway Commissioner to make maps to be complete records thereof conferring authority on the State Highway Commissioner providing for the payment of damages in taking of property or otherwise in the improvement thereof providing for purchase or acquiring of turnpikes or toll-roads forming all or part of any State highway and procedure therein providing for work of improvement of State highways to be done by contract except where the State Highway Commissioner decides the work be done by the State providing aid by the State to counties and townships desiring the same in the improvement of township or county roads defining highways and State-aid highways providing method of application for State aid in the improvement maintenance and repair of township or county roads and prescribing the contents of township county borough or incorporated town petitions providing for percentage of cost of improvement or repairs to be paid by the State county township borough or incorporated town and requiring contracts by counties townships boroughs and incorporated towns with Commonwealth governing same providing for the minimum width of State highways and State-aid highways and kind of materials to be used in the improvement providing for payment of cost of improvement and repairs providing penalty for injuring or destroying State highways making appropriations to carry out the provisions of the act and providing for the repeal of certain acts relating to Highway Department and improvement of roads and of all acts or parts of acts inconsistent herewith and providing that existing contracts are not affected by provisions of this act" as amended by the act approved the twenty-eight day of April one thousand nine hundred and twenty-seven (Pamphlet Laws four hundred eighty-six) is hereby further amended to read as follows

Section 21 The several counties and townships of the Commonwealth except counties of the seventh and eighth class and townships within such counties or any of them either jointly as county and township or severally expressing a desire to the State Highway Department in manner hereinafter required for State aid shall from and after the passage of this act be entitled to receive the aid and cooperation of the State in the improvement and subsequent maintenance of any road or highway in any county or township of the Commonwealth not here in defined as a State Highway when complying with the provisions of this act governing same The State when granting the aid and cooperation desired shall not in any case pay more than fifty (50) per centum of the cost of any road improvement nor more than fifty (50) per centum of the maintenance thereafter and the remaining fifty (50) per centum of the cost and expense of improvement shall be paid to wit Twenty-five (25) per centum by the county and twenty-five (25) per centum by the township when the application for said aid is joint by county and township and thereafter the township shall pay fifty (50) per centum of the entire cost of maintenance Provided That counties or townships may agree between themselves to contribute their joint proportion of the fifty (50) per centum of the total expense of any improvement herein required to be borne by them in different proportions from that herein specified Where any township or county road or highway is desired to be improved by a county or township without the joint action or cooperation of the other then said county or township as the case may be shall pay the entire fifty (50) per centum of the cost of the road improvement and fifty (50) per centum of the cost of maintenance thereafter When any county of the seventh and eighth class or any township within any such county or any of them either jointly as county and township or severally express a desire to the Department of Highways in the manner hereinbefore provided for other counties and townships such county or township or county and township or township shall be entitled to receive the aid and cooperation of the State in the improvement and subsequent maintenance of any road or highway in the same manner as such other counties or townships are entitled to aid except that in such cases the State when granting the aid and cooperation desired may pay [sixty-five (65)] seventy-five (75) per centum of the cost of any such improvement and the remaining [thirty-five (35)] twenty-five (25) per centum of the cost and expense of such aid and improvement shall be paid to wit [seventeen] twelve and one-half [(17½%)] (12½%) per centum by the county and [seventeen] twelve and one-half [(17½%)] (12½%) by the township when such application is joint by county and township or the counties or townships may agree between themselves to contribute their joint proportion of the [thirty-five (35)] twenty-five (25) per centum of the total expense of any improvement herein required to be borne by them in different proportions from that herein specified Where any township of county road in any county of the seventh or eight class is desired to be improved by a county or township without the joint action or cooperation of the other then said county or township as the case may be shall pay the entire [thirty-five (35)] twenty-five (25) per centum of the cost of the road improvement In all cases the cost of the maintenance of such improved highways shall be borne by the county or township in the same proportion and in the same manner as borne by other counties and townships Provided That any township desiring the aid and cooperation of the State in the permanent improvement of any of its roads shall levy a cash road tax to meet the cost of such permanent improvement and shall levy annually thereafter such further road taxes in cash as are sufficient to pay the township's share of the annual maintenance of such highways And provided further It shall be lawful for any township or county of the Commonwealth to incur indebtedness or to issue bonds in the manner authorized by law for the payment of said township's or county's share of the cost of any permanent road improvement or maintenance undertaken under the provisions of this act

On the question recurring,

Will the House agree to the section?

Mr. GRIFFITH. Mr. Speaker, I desire to offer the following amendments.

The SPEAKER. The amendments will be read by the Clerk.

The amendments were read by the Clerk as follows:

Amend bill, page 7, line 12, by striking out "of" where it first occurs in the line, and insert in lieu thereof "or."

Amend bill, page 7, line 18, by striking out "In all cases the cost of mainte-."

Amend bill, page 7, by striking out all of lines 19, 20 and 21.

On the question,

Will the House agree to the amendments?

They were agreed to,

On the question,

Will the House agree to the section as amended?

It was agreed to.

The second section and title were separately read and agreed to as follows:

Section 2 That section twenty-two of said act as amended by said amending act approved the twenty-eighth day of April one thousand nine hundred and twenty-seven (Pamphlet Laws four hundred eighty-six) is hereby further amended to read as follows

Section 22 The State shall not furnish any aid or cooperation in the permanent improvement or maintenance of any county or township road or highway to be improved as a State-aid highway until and unless the supervisors or commissioners of the township in which the road desired to be improved lies where the improvement is intended to be made jointly by township and county shall first petition the county commissioners of the county representing that any principal highway or section thereof lying within said township is in need of reconstruction and setting forth that the said township desires to take advantage of the provisions of this act to improve said highway It shall then be the duty of said county commissioners to adopt a resolution authorizing the assumption by the county of its share of said improvement and the said county commissioners shall then promptly petition the State Highway Department for the aid and cooperation of the State as desired for the particular road to be improved Said petition of the county commissioners shall be accompanied by the said township petition and it shall state the desire of both the township and county that said road or highway shall be improved and maintained as a State-aid highway according to such plans and specifications as shall be prepared by the State Highway Department that the county and township or townships agree to pay fifty (50) per centum of the cost and expense of such improvement and in case the petition is that of a county of the seventh or eighth class or a township or townships within such county then that such county and township or townships agree to pay [thirty-five (35)] twenty-five (25) per centum of the cost and expense of such improvement and in all cases that the township or townships will thereafter in consideration of the aid and cooperation of the State so granted pay fifty (50) per centum of the cost of repair and maintenance thereof Such roads to be at all times under the authority and supervision of the State Highway Department Said petition shall further state that petitioners upon approval hereof by the State Highway Department will enter into an agreement with the Commonwealth to be approved by the Attorney General or deputy as to form which shall embody and contain all matter of detail concerning the improvement maintenance and repair of the highway to be improved Provided When the aid and cooperation of the State in the improvement of any highway is desired by any county or township without the intervention of the other said county or township if it shall agree to pay one-half of the cost of the improvement and maintenance thereof shall be entitled to receive the aid and cooperation of the State in like manner as in cases of joint applications by county and township or when such aid and cooperation is desired by any county of the seventh or eighth class or any township therein without the intervention of the other such county or township if it shall agree to pay [thirty-five (35)] twenty-five (25) per centum of the cost of the improvement and one-half of the cost of maintenance thereof shall be entitled to receive the aid and cooperation of the State in like manner as in cases of joint applications by county and township And provided further That no State aid shall be paid or given nor shall any work be commenced in the improvement of any road or highway in any township or county of this Commonwealth until said agreement shall have been duly executed by the respective parties pursuant to due and legal municipal and corporate action of both township and county and the State Highway Commissioner shall then advertise for bids and let contracts for the improvement of the road desired to be improved in the manner herein provided in the case of improvement of State highways And provided further That the State Highway Commissioner may enter into contracts at any time in amounts equal to the State appropriation then available plus the respective shares of the counties or boroughs
